UNESCO science report UNESCO,2015-11-09 There are fewer grounds today than in the past to deplore a North South divide in research and innovation This is one of the key findings of the UNESCO Science Report towards 2030 A large number of countries are now incorporating science technology and innovation in their national development agenda in order to make their economies less reliant on raw materials and more rooted in knowledge Most research and development R D is taking place in high income countries but innovation of some kind is now occurring across the full spectrum of income levels according to the first survey of manufacturing companies in 65 countries conducted by the UNESCO Institute for Statistics and summarized in this report For many lower income countries sustainable development has become an integral part of their national development plans for the next 10 20 years Among higher income countries a firm commitment to sustainable development is often coupled with the desire to maintain competitiveness in global markets that are increasingly leaning towards green technologies The quest for clean energy and greater energy efficiency now figures among the research priorities of numerous countries Written by more than 50 experts who are each covering the country or region from which they hail the UNESCO Science Report towards 2030 provides more country level information than ever before The trends and developments in science technology and innovation policy and governance between 2009 and mid 2015 described here provide essential baseline information on the concerns and priorities of countries that could orient the implementation and drive the assessment of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development in the years to come      Drum ,2009      Journal for the Study of Religion ,2005      The Informal Economy in Developing Nations Erika Kraemer-Mbula,Sacha Wunsch-Vincent,2016-10-20 The informal economy represents a significant share of output and employment in many developing countries Yet little is known about this hidden engine of innovation This pioneering study addresses some crucial questions including what is the role of the informal sector in economic development How does innovation occur in the informal economy How does it spread who are the key actors and what impacts does it have How do inventors and entrepreneurs in the informal economy reap benefits from their innovations What stops informal sector innovation from scaling up How can informal sector innovation in developing countries be measured And what policies might support informal sector innovation and improve its impacts This book will stimulate further work on this crucial but under researched subject As well as rich empirical evidence from several groundbreaking studies it includes conceptual and methodological tools and policy recommendations to help researchers and policy makers understand innovation in the informal economy
