Tolerance and Peace Human Values Intercultural Interreligious dialogue Human Fraternity document Introducing Archaeology, Second Edition Robert J. Muckle, 2014-07-25 Introducing Archaeology offers a lively alternative to many other texts. While covering traditional elements of archaeology including methods and prehistory, the book also integrates the key principles of curriculum reform for the twenty-first century as outlined by the Society for American Archaeology. The second edition highlights recent developments in the field and includes a new chapter on archaeology beyond mainstream academia. It also integrates more examples from popular culture including mummies, tattoos, pirates, and global warming. What results is a surprisingly fresh and contemporary take on archaeology, one that situates the discipline within but also beyond the academy. Introducing Archaeology is accompanied by a free website with chapter-by-chapter resources for students, including study questions. Visit www.introducingarchaeology.com. Instructor ancillaries for Introducing Archaeology include an instructor's manual, PowerPoint slides, and a testbank. Introducing Archaeology, Third Edition Robert J. Muckle, Stacey L. Camp, 2020-11-03 Situating archaeology in academic, social, and political contexts, the third edition emphasizes the ethics and the scholarship of women and includes considerable focus on the archaeology of recent and contemporary times.

Challenging Authorities Arne S. Steinforth, Sabine Klocke-Daffa, 2021-09-20 When the notion of alternative facts and the alleged dawning of a postfactual world entered public discourse, social anthropologists found themselves in unexpectedly familiar territory. In their empirical experience, fact knowledge accepted as true derives its salience from social mechanisms of legitimization, thereby demonstrating a deep interconnection with power and authority. In this perspective, fact is a continually contested and volatile social category. Due to the specific histories of their colonial and post-independence experience, African societies offer a particularly broad array of insights into social processes of juxtaposition, opposition, and even outright competition between different postulated authorities. The contributions to the present volume explore the variety of ways in which authority is contested in Southern and Eastern Africa, investigating localized discourses on which institution, what kind of knowledge, or whose expertise is accepted as authoritative, thus highlighting the specificities and pluralities in modern societies. This edited volume engages with larger theoretical questions regarding power and authority in the context of post-colonial states, neo-traditional authority, claiming space, conflict, and in justice and contestations of knowledge. It offers in-depth critical analyses of ethnographic data that put contemporary African phenomena on equal footing with current controversies in North America, Europe, and other global settings. Disruptive Voices and the Singularity of Histories Regna Darnell, Frederic W. Gleach, 2019-11-01 Histories of Anthropology Annual presents diverse perspectives on the discipline's history within a global context, with a goal of increasing awareness and use of historical approaches in teaching, learning, and conducting anthropology. The series includes critical, comparative, analytical, and narrative studies involving all aspects and subfields of anthropology. Volume 13, Disruptive Voices and the Singularity of Histories, explores the interplay of identities and scholarship through the history of anthropology, with a special section examining fieldwork predecessors and indigenous communities in Native North America Individual contributions explore the complexity of women s history indigenous history national traditions and oral histories to juxtapose what we understand of the past with its present continuities These contributions include Sharon Lindenburger s examination of Franz Boas and his navigation with Jewish identity Kathy M Closkey s documentation of Navajo weavers and their struggles with cultural identities and economic resources and demands and Mindy Morgan s use of the text of Ruth Underhill s O odham study to capture the voices of three generations of women ethnographers Because this work bridges anthropology and history a richer and more varied view of the past emerges through the meticulous narratives of anthropologists and their unique fieldwork ultimately providing competing points of access to social dynamics This volume examines events at both macro and micro levels documenting the impact large scale historical events have had on particular individuals and challenging the uniqueness of a single interpretation of the same facts

Forgotten Things Robert J. Muckle,2022-04-27 Based on a long term archaeology project Forgotten Things provides an account of working with field school students to discover and excavate archaeological sites including early twentieth century Japanese camps in the Seymour Valley of British Columbia The first book in the new Teaching Archaeology series Forgotten Things gives students a real world example of archaeological research in practice It provides an overview of the Seymour Valley ArchaeologyProject from the initial phone call to the disposition of artifacts and archiving of records The book takes the reader from the inception of the project through fieldwork laboratory work drawing inferences and making the research meaningful It delves into considerations that guide research design and methods and it examines the culture of archaeological fieldwork Through anecdotes stories from the field and extracts from field notes Forgotten Things offers rare insight into the realities of archaeological research not often seen in archaeological studies

The Dead as Ancestors, Martyrs, and Heroes in Timor-Leste Lia Kent,Rui Feijo,2025-10-01 During the 24 year Indonesian occupation of East Timor thousands of people died or were killed in circumstances that did not allow the required death rituals to be performed Since the nation s independence families and communities have invested considerable time effort and resources in fulfilling their obligations to the dead These obligations are imbued with urgency because the dead are ascribed agency and can play a benevolent or malevolent role in the lives of the living These grassroots initiatives run sometimes critically in parallel with official programs that seek to transform particular dead bodies into public symbols of heroism sacrifice and nationhood The Dead as Ancestors Martyrs and Heroes in Timor Leste focuses on the dynamic interplay between the potent presence of the dead in everyday life and their symbolic usefulness to the state It underlines how the dead shape relationships amongst families communities and the nation state and open an important window into are in fact pivotal to processes of state and nation formation
