British and Irish Archaeology, 1994 Craft Techniques for Traditional Buildings Adela Wright, 1991 Albion's Seed David Hackett Fischer, 1991-03-14 From 1629 to 1775 argues David Hackett Fischer North America was settled by four great waves of English speaking immigrants The first was an exodus of Puritans from the east of England to Massachusetts 1629 1640 The second was the movement of a Royalist elite and indentured servants from the south of England to Virginia ca 1649 75 The third was the Friends migration the Quakers from the North Midlands and Wales to the Delaware Valley ca 1675 1725 The fourth was a great flight from the borderlands of North Britain and northern Ireland to the American backcountry ca 1717 75 Fischer argues that these folkways have dominated national politics from 1789 to the present and that they still control attitudes towards education government gender violence and much more

The Archaeology of Buildings Richard K. Morris, 2000 The study of buildings whether out of sheer interest or to assist planning decisions is a branch of archaeology which is distinct from both archaeology and architectural history yet allied to both This book begins by providing background information about studying the basic materials used in a building's construction such as stone brick or timber framing. The author explains how various clues left by the builders can add to the historic background and use of the site and explains how all these strands of information can be woven together to produce a detailed understanding of how any building has developed over the years. Over 100 illustrations and two invaluable appendices, typical examples of buildings and an illustrated glossary of terms complete a handbook that has long been needed by professionals and amateurs alike. 6th

International Conference on the Conservation of Earthen Architecture The Getty Conservation Institute, 1991-02-28

On October 14-19 1990 the 6th International Conference on the Conservation of Earthen Architecture was held in Las Cruces, New Mexico. Sponsored by the GCI, the Museum of New Mexico State Monuments, ICCROM, CRATERre, EAG and the National Park Service under the aegis of US ICOMOS, the event was organized to promote the exchange of ideas, techniques and research findings on the conservation of earthen architecture. Presentations at the conference covered a diversity of subjects including the historic traditions of earthen architecture, conservation and restoration, site preservation, studies in consolidation and seismic mitigation, and examinations of moisture problems, clay chemistry and microstructures. In discussions that focused on the future, the application of modern technologies and materials to site conservation was urged, as was using scientific knowledge of existing structures in the creation of new, low-cost earthen architecture housing. Houses and Cottages of Britain. R. W. Brunskill, 2000-01-01. The sequel to Traditional Buildings of Britain traces the origins and development of traditional buildings by going inside the houses and revealing from their plans how they evolved from basic accommodation to homes giving comfort and privacy. The book shows how local traditional materials—earth, timber, stone, brick—were used in the construction of the buildings. Avery Index to Architectural Periodicals Avery Library, 1994
