Tirpitz And The Imperial German Navy:

Tirpitz Patrick J. Kelly, 2011-05-03 A first rate biography of this grand admiral who is better known for his political skills than his naval ones US Naval Institute Proceedings Grand Admiral Alfred von Tirpitz 1849 1930 was the principal force behind the rise of the German Imperial Navy prior to World War I challenging Great Britain's command of the seas As State Secretary of the Imperial Naval Office from 1897 to 1916 Tirpitz wielded great power and influence over the national agenda during that crucial period By the time he had risen to high office Tirpitz was well equipped to use his position as a platform from which to dominate German defense policy Though he was cool to the potential of the U boat he enthusiastically supported a torpedo boat branch of the navy and began an ambitious building program for battleships and battle cruisers Based on exhaustive archival research including new material from family papers Tirpitz and the Imperial German Navy is the first extended study in English of this germinal figure in the growth of the modern navy Well written and based on new sources allows the reader deep insights into the life of a man who played a very important role at the turn of the last century and who like almost nobody else shaped German policy International Journal of Maritime History An invaluable reference work on Tirpitz the Imperial German Navy and on politics in Wilhelmine Germany The Northern Mariner 'Luxury' Fleet Holger H. Herwig, 1987-08 Originally published London Boston Allen Unwin 1980 German Naval Strategy, 1856-1888 David H. Olivier, 2004-08-26 This book is a comparative study of the evolution of the German navy in the second half of the nineteenth century It examines the development of strategy especially commerce raiding in comparison to what other navies were doing in this era of rapid technological change Tirpitz Michael Epkenhans, 2008 Alfred von Tirpitz 1849 1930 who joined the Prussian Navy in 1865 as a midshipman was chiefly responsible for rapidly developing and enlarging the German Navy especially the High Seas Fleet from 1897 until the years immediately prior to the First World War Epkenhans uses newly discovered documents to provide a fresh treatment of this important naval leader In 1897 Tirpitz became the Secretary of State of the Imperial Navy Department In four major building acts of 1898 1900 1908 and 1912 and in working closely with Kaiser Wilhelm II Tirpitz expanded the Imperial Navy from a small coastal force into a major blue water navy Great Britain reacting with alarm to this challenge to its overseas trade and naval supremacy accelerated the naval arms race by launching a revolutionary type of battleship the Dreadnought in 1906 and entering into strategic alliances with France and Russia By the start of the First World War in 1914 the British Royal Navy still held a sizable advantage in capital ships over Germany so that only one notable fleet action Jutland in 1916 took place during the war Tirpitz who had become the German Navy commander with the outbreak of the war thereafter became a staunch advocate of unrestricted submarine warfare This policy did not differentiate between neutral and belligerent shipping and proved so controversial with the neutral United States that Germany was forced to retract it albeit only temporarily In the meantime Tirpitz tendered his resignation to the Kaiser who surprisingly accepted it Tirpitz remained a minor figure thereafter later serving the right wing Fatherland Party as a deputy in the Reichstag "Luxury" Fleet Holger H. Herwig, 1987 Luxury Fleet the phrase was Winston Churchill's is the first history of the Imperial German Navy from 1888 to 1918 After tracing the historical background to German naval ambitions the first two sections of the book analyze Admiral Tirpitz's program of building a battle fleet strong enough to engage the Royal Navy in the North Sea Professor Herwig shows that fleet as a force that would complement the most efficient army in Europe and describes the warships that were built and the attitudes of the officer corps and men The last section of the book considers the tactical deployment of the German fleet during the First World War both in home waters and overseas and it ends appropriately perhaps with the scuttling of the German fleet in Scapa Flow in 1919 Tides of Fortune Zack Cooper, 2025-02-25 An ambitious look at how the twentieth century's great powers devised their military strategies and what their implications mean for military competition between the United States and China How will the United States and China evolve militarily in the years ahead Many experts believe the answer to this question is largely unknowable But Zack Cooper argues that the American and Chinese militaries are following a well trodden path For centuries the world's most powerful militaries have adhered to a remarkably consistent pattern of behavior determined largely by their leaders' perceptions of relative power shifts By uncovering these trends this book places the evolving military competition between the United States and China in historical context Drawing on a decade of research and on his experience at the White House and the Pentagon Cooper outlines a novel explanation for how militaries change as they rise and decline Tides of Fortune examines the paths of six great powers of the twentieth century tracking how national leaders adjusted their defense objectives strategies and investments in response to perceived shifts in relative power All these militaries followed a common pattern and their experiences shed new light on both China's recent military modernization and America's potential responses Architects of Continental Seapower Jeremy Stocker, 2020-10-01 This book describes and analyses two iconic figures in twentieth century naval history the German Admiral Alfred von Tirpitz and the Russian Admiral Sergei Gorshkov It examines the men what they thought and wrote about seapower the fleets they created and the strategic consequences of what they did More broadly it draws on the respective histories of the post 1897 Imperial German Navy and the post 1956 Soviet Navy to examine the continental bid for large scale seapower The work argues that both individuals built navies that did not and could not fulfil the objectives for which they were created Drawing on the legacies of both men the book also develops some wider ideas about the creation of large navies by continental states with cautionary lessons for today's emerging powers India and China Both admirals have received book length biographies but this is the first attempt at a comparative study and the first to draw broader strategic lessons from their respective attempts as continental navalists to challenge maritime states This book will be of much interest to students of naval history strategic studies and International Relations The Imperial German Navy, 1910-1914 James Edward Sutton, 1953 Building the Kaiser's Navy Gary E. Weir, 1992 His considerable talents as a politician shipbuilder strategist propagandist and manager were to a great degree responsible for the High Seas Fleet encountered by the Royal Navy at Jutland Ironically von Tirpitz never commanded the navy he built Weir does not fail to delineate the shortcomings of his naval system which was responsible for the fact that those in charge of the fleet's operations played little part in its creation Von Tirpitz's system also resulted in a disregard of the significance of U boat potential and a lack of geographic strategic and operational considerations Nevertheless his profound influence in the navy persisted through the Weimar Republic and into the Third Reich in the policies of Admiral Erich Raeder veteran of Jutland Imperial German Navy Admirals Source Wikipedia,2013-09 Please note that the content of this book primarily consists of articles available from Wikipedia or other free sources online Pages 38 Chapters Franz von Hipper Alfred von Tirpitz Reinhard Scheer Prince Henry of Prussia Maximilian von Spee Otto von Diederichs Prince Adalbert of Prussia Felix von Bendemann Hans von Koester August von Thomsen Georg Alexander von Muller Friedrich von Hollmann Hermann Bauer Viktor Valois Felix Funke William Michaelis Wilhelm Souchon Gustav von Senden Bibran Eduard von Knorr Ludwig von Reuter Leberecht Maass Karl Eduard Heusner Henning von Holtzendorff August von Heeringen Erhard Schmidt Hugo Meurer Ludwig von Henk Hans Zenker Hugo von Pohl Paul Behncke Paul von Hintze Friedrich von Ingenohl Max von der Goltz Alexander von Monts Hubert von Rebeur Paschwitz Adolf von Trotha Eduard von Capelle Friedrich Bodicker Paul Hoffmann Albrecht von Stosch Reinhold von Werner Excerpt Franz Ritter von Hipper 13 September 1863 25 May 1932 was an admiral in the German Imperial Navy Kaiserliche Marine Franz von Hipper joined the German Navy in 1881 as an officer cadet He commanded several torpedo boat units and served as watch officer aboard several warships as well as Kaiser Wilhelm II's yacht Hohenzollern Hipper commanded several cruisers in the reconnaissance forces before being appointed commander of the I Scouting Group in October 1913 He held this position until 1918 when he succeeded Admiral Reinhard Scheer as commander of the High Seas Fleet He is most famous for commanding the German battlecruisers of the I Scouting Group during World War I particularly at the Battle of Jutland on 31 May 1 June 1916 During the war Hipper led the German battlecruisers on several raids of the English coast for which he was vilified in the English press as a baby killer His squadron clashed with the British battlecruiser squadron at the Battle of Dogger Bank in January 1915 where the How States Think John J. Mearsheimer, Sebastian Rosato, 2023-01-01 A groundbreaking examination of a central question in international relations Do states act rationally To understand world politics you need to understand how states think Are states rational Much of international relations theory assumes that they are But many scholars believe that political leaders rarely act rationally The issue is crucial for both the study and practice of international politics for only if states are rational can scholars and policymakers understand and predict their behavior John J Mearsheimer and Sebastian Rosato argue that rational decisions in international politics rest on credible theories about how the world works and emerge from deliberative decision making processes Using these criteria they conclude that most states are rational most of the time even if they are not always successful Mearsheimer and Rosato make the case for their position examining whether past and present world
