Structure of Chromosome

What is DNA?

DNA (deoxyribonucleic acid) is the genetic material of all living organisms. It is a long, thin, double-stranded molecule that carries the genetic information for the development and functioning of an organism. It is made up of a sugar-phosphate backbone and nitrogenous bases. The bases are arranged in a specific sequence that determines the genetic code. DNA is found in the nucleus of eukaryotic cells and in the cytoplasm of prokaryotic cells.

Where is DNA found?

DNA is found in the nucleus of eukaryotic cells and in the cytoplasm of prokaryotic cells. In eukaryotic cells, the DNA is packaged into chromosomes. In prokaryotic cells, the DNA is not packaged into chromosomes. DNA is also found in mitochondria and chloroplasts, which are organelles that have their own DNA.

What is the Composition of DNA?

DNA is composed of a sugar-phosphate backbone and nitrogenous bases. The sugar is deoxyribose, and the phosphate is a phosphate group. The bases are arranged in a specific sequence that determines the genetic code. The bases are: Adenine (A), Thymine (T), Guanine (G), and Cytosine (C). Adenine pairs with Thymine, and Guanine pairs with Cytosine. The sequence of bases determines the sequence of amino acids in a protein, which determines the function of the protein.

What is a Gene?

A gene is a segment of DNA that contains the genetic information for a specific trait. It is made up of a sequence of bases that determine the sequence of amino acids in a protein. The sequence of bases determines the sequence of amino acids, which determines the function of the protein. A gene is the basic unit of heredity.

What is a Chromosome?

A chromosome is a package of DNA that contains the genetic information for a specific trait. It is made up of a DNA molecule and a protein coat. The DNA molecule is a long, thin, double-stranded molecule that carries the genetic information. The protein coat is made of proteins that package the DNA into a compact structure. A chromosome is the basic unit of heredity.

What is the Human Genome Project?

The Human Genome Project is an international research effort to determine the sequence of the human genome. The genome is the complete set of genetic material in an organism. The project was completed in 2003. It has provided a wealth of information about the human genome, including the location of genes and the sequence of bases. This information is being used to study the causes of disease and to develop new treatments.
