professional and lay people interested in crime prevention and community safety

The Culture of Control

David Garland, 2024-05-31 The past 30 years have seen vast changes in our attitudes toward crime More and more of us live in gated communities prison populations have skyrocketed and issues such as racial profiling community policing and zero tolerance policies dominate the headlines How is it that our response to crime and our sense of criminal justice has come to be so dramatically reconfigured David Garland charts the changes in crime and criminal justice in America and Britain over the past twenty five years showing how they have been shaped by two underlying social forces the distinctive social organization of late modernity and the neoconservative politics that came to dominate the United States and the United Kingdom in the 1980s Garland explains how the new policies of crime and punishment welfare and security and the changing class race and gender relations that underpin them are linked to the fundamental problems of governing contemporary societies as states corporations and private citizens grapple with a volatile economy and a culture that combines expanded personal freedom with relaxed social controls It is the risky unfixed character of modern life that underlies our accelerating concern with control and crime control in particular It is not just crime that has changed society has changed as well and this transformation has reshaped criminological thought public policy and the cultural meaning of crime and criminals David Garland's The Culture of Control offers a brilliant guide to this process and its still reverberating consequences

Reimagining Rehabilitation Lol Burke, Steve Collett, Fergus McNeill, 2018-09-17 This book aims to make the case for and provide some of the resources necessary to reimagine rehabilitation for twenty first century criminal justice Outlining an approach to rehabilitation which takes into account wider democratic processes political structures and mechanisms of resource allocation the authors develop a new model of rehabilitation comprising four forms personal legal social and moral Personal rehabilitation concerns how individuals make their journeys away from offending and towards reintegration and how they can be supported to do so whilst legal rehabilitation concerns the role of the criminal courts in the process of restricting and then restoring the rights and status of citizens Moral rehabilitation is concerned with the ethical basis of the interactions between the individual who has offended and the people and organisations charged with providing rehabilitative services Social rehabilitation explores the crucial contribution civil society can make to rehabilitation exploring this through the lens of citizenship community and social capital Drawing on the conceptual insights offered in the late Stan Cohen s seminal work Visions of Social Control and specifically his insistence that modern social institutions can aspire to doing good and doing justice the authors argue that these values can underpin a moral pragmatism in designing social interventions that must go beyond achieving simply instrumental ends Reimagining rehabilitation within the context of social action and social
