in women's underfashions which have taken place from the early decades of the 20th century to the first decade of the 21st century. With the exception of drawings of underfashions from the early part of the 20th century which I sourced from fashion magazines and vintage shops in London and Napier, New Zealand, the illustrations from the late 1950s to 2000 have been sourced from my own memory and experience. I worked for many decades selling lingerie and underfashions in the retail industry, including experience gained from running and buying for my own Lingerie Boutique for several years. This shop was situated in Napoleon Street, Cottesloe, Western Australia. I still have in my possession original drawings depicting nightwear and underfashions which were used for advertising purposes in the West Australian newspaper. Also, calendars given to me by Triumph International were used to advertise their wonderful undergarments. All of the above have been an invaluable source for me to refer to. When I commenced creating the pen and ink drawings for this book, I wanted to present the garments with as much authenticity as memory and sources allowed at the same time, using my artistic license to present them somewhat tongue-in-cheek with the hint of the risk to make it a much more fun experience for the viewer to enjoy. I have featured in some of the drawings a few examples of the changes over the decades to the style of underwear nightwear that men wore to illustrate that their fashions also underwent a similar evolution. Today, many fashions, Swiss cotton, viscose, and some of the fine quality silks and wools have become too expensive to use in the production of fine lingerie. When the idea came to me to create this 'Peep into the Past', it was important for me to record by drawings some of these wonderful garments which I derived so much pleasure not only from wearing but also from the experience of selling and handling over the decades many beautiful garments and fabrics.
