Courtney, 2015-07-08 Excerpt from Undine A Dream Play in Three Acts Do you remember love when once I dreamed In a rose sunset by a rosy sea While o'er our heads the changing colours gleamed Of all that human life well lived might be You laughed I think I hear your laughter rend The sweet illusion of a future age It was not thus you said that that great end Which we all strive for dawns on history's page No life is earnest life is real you Had proved it so by many a dreary act And dreams were valueless and only true Dry hard experimental actual fact Dear fond prosaic babbler Yet you knew The thousand unrehearsed effects of morn In twilight grey the inimitable hue In midnight black the mystery forlorn You saw the golden glory of the flower You saw the pageantry of heath and tree What are they Visions of a dreaming hour Brain pictures deftly wrought by you and me Who paints the rosy tints of sky and sea Whose is the rapture that the poet dreams What is the true save what we think to be What is the real other than what seems W L C About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections
