and what constitutes geographical knowledge Capitalism in the Anthropocene John Bellamy Foster, 2022-08-23 Over the last 11 700 years during which human civilization developed the earth has existed within what geologists refer to as the Holocene Epoch Now science is telling us that the Holocene Epoch in the geological time scale ended replaced by the onset of a new more dangerous Anthropocene Epoch which began around 1950 The Anthropocene Epoch is characterized by an anthropogenic rift in the biological cycles of the Earth System marking a changed reality in which human activities are now the main geological force impacting the earth as a whole generating at the same time an existential crisis for the world's population What caused this massive shift in the history of the earth In this comprehensive study John Bellamy Foster tells us that a globalized system of capital accumulation has induced humanity to foul its own nest The result is a planetary emergency that threatens all present and future generations throwing into question the continuation of civilization and ultimately the very survival of humanity itself Only by addressing the social aspects of the current planetary emergency exploring the theoretical historical and practical dimensions of the capitalism's alteration of the planetary environment is it possible to develop the ecological and social resources for a new journey of hope New Models In Geography Richard Peet, Nigel Thrift, 2013-10-11 First published in 1989 It seems such a long time ago another age yet it is a mere twenty odd years since the original Models in Geography was published It is an even shorter time since the first tentative steps were taken towards an alternative formulation of what might constitute a geographical perspective within the social sciences What came to be called the political economy perspective has progressed with remarkable speed and energy to generate its own framework of conceptualization and analysis its own questions and debates The papers in these two volumes are witness to the richness and range of the work which has developed over this relatively short period within the political economy approach Moreover from being a debate within an institutionally defined discipline of geography to introducing into that discipline ideas and discussions from the wider fields of philosophy and social science and the humanities more generally it has now flowered into a consistent part of enquiries that span the entire realm of social studies Global Capitalism and the Crisis of Humanity William I. Robinson, 2014-07-28 This book discusses the nature of the new global capitalism the rise of a globalized production and financial system a transnational capitalist class and a transnational state and warns of the rise of a global police state to contain the explosive contradictions of a global capitalist system that is crisis ridden and out of control Gentrification as a Global Strategy Abel Albet, Núria Benach, 2017-07-14 This book memorializes the work of one of Geography's leading critical thinkers and a public intellectual known world wide Neil Smith It presents a rich collection of insights from leading international and interdisciplinary experts drawing on Neil Smith's ideas for inspiration and debate This book demonstrates the relevance and usefulness The Bloomsbury Companion to Marx Andrew Pendakis, Imre Szeman, Jeff Diamanti, 2018-12-27 There are very few figures in history that have exerted as much and as varied an influence as Karl Marx His work represents an unrivalled intervention into fields as various as philosophy journalism economics history politics and cultural criticism His name is invoked across the political spectrum in connection to revolution and insurrection social justice and economic transformation The Bloomsbury Companion to Marx is the definitive reference guide to Marx's life and work Written by an international team of leading Marx scholars the book offers comprehensive coverage of Marx's life and contexts sources influences and encounters key writings major themes and topics and reception and influence The defining feature of this Companion is its attention to the new directions in Marxism that animate the theoretical scientific and political sides of Marx's thought Gender and the growing importance of Marxist feminism is treated as equally important to clarifying Marx today as traditional and diverse categories of critique such as class capital and mode of production Similarly this Companion showcases the methodological and political importance of Marxism to environmentalist politics Finally the volume examines in detail non-European Marxisms demonstrating the centrality of Marxist thought to political movements both within and beyond the global north This book is the ideal research resource for anyone working on Marx and his ideas today and as an entry point if you are approaching Marx's thought for the first time

Place in Research Eve Tuck, Marcia

McKenzie, 2014-08-07 Bridging environmental and Indigenous studies and drawing on critical geography spatial theory new materialist theory and decolonizing theory this dynamic volume examines the sometimes overlooked significance of place in social science research There are often important divergences and even competing logics at work in these areas of research some which may indeed be incommensurable This volume explores how researchers around the globe are coming to terms both theoretically and practically with place in the context of settler colonialism globalization and environmental degradation Tuck and McKenzie outline a trajectory of critical place inquiry that not only furthers empirical knowledge but ethically imagines new possibilities for collaboration and action Critical place inquiry can involve a range of research methodologies this volume argues that what matters is how the chosen methodology engages conceptually with place in order to mobilize methods that enable data collection and analyses that address place explicitly and politically Unlike other approaches that attempt to superficially tag on Indigenous concerns decolonizing conceptualizations of land and place and Indigenous methods are central not peripheral to practices of critical place inquiry

Spaces of Capital/Spaces of Resistance Chris Hesketh, 2017-12-15 Based on original fieldwork in Chiapas and Oaxaca Mexico this book offers a bridge between geography and historical sociology Chris Hesketh examines the production of space within the global political economy Drawing on multiple disciplines Hesketh's discussion of state formation in Mexico takes us beyond the national level to explore the interplay between global regional national and sub national articulations of power These are linked through the novel deployment of Antonio Gramsci's concept of passive revolution understood as the state led institution or expansion of capitalism that prevents the meaningful participation of the subaltern classes Furthermore the author brings attention to the conflicts involved in the production of space placing particular emphasis on indigenous communities and movements and their creation of counterspaces of resistance Hesketh argues that indigenous movements are now the leading social force of popular mobilization in Latin America The author reveals how the wider global context of uneven and combined development frames these specific indigenous struggles and he explores the scales at which they must now seek to articulate themselves

Into Our Labours Neil Lazarus, 2022-04-15 Into our Labours explores the literary representation of work across the globe since 1850 setting out to show that the literature of modernity is best understood in the light of the worlding of capitalism The book proposes that a determinative relation exists between changing modes of work and changes in the forms genres and aesthetic strategies of the writing that bears witness to them Two aspects of the worlding of modernity especially are emphasised First an inaugural experience of capitalist social relations whose literary registration sometimes makes itself known through a crisis of representation as the forms of space and time consciousness demanded by life in contexts in which market oriented commodity production has become the dominant form of social labour are counterposed with inherited ways of seeing and knowing now under acute pressure if not already obsolete Second a moment corresponding to the consolidation regularisation and global dispersal of capitalist development Into Our Labours focuses on the naturalisation of capitalist social relations forms of sociality and solidarity ideologies of familialism individualism and work relations between the sexes and the generations Arguing that the only plausible term for the vast body of literary work engendered by the worlding of capitalist social relations is modernist the book proposes that it is then important to challenge the still entrenched Eurocentric understandings of modernism Modernism is neither originally nor paradigmatically Western in provenance and its temporal parameters are much broader than are usually assumed in modernist studies extending both backward and forward in time

Natural Catastrophe Brian Elliott, 2016-10-26 Brian Elliott persuasively argues that climate change is not a natural phenomenon but a political phenomenon a symptom of neoliberal governance This helps us to understand how across wealthy liberal democracies environmental concern has increasingly been framed as a consumer responsibility issue rather than as a matter of structural social political transformation Thinking of a world truly beyond climate change requires us to reimagine the state beyond its current neoliberal configuration Elliott argues that in order to achieve this environmental politics in the west needs to renew the Marxist challenge to the global market's benign production of social utility and construct a new non apocalyptic politics of nature

Feminist Locations Marianne DeKoven, 2001 The contributors to this volume look to the future of feminist theory and practice specifically in terms of their complex relationship with the global and local configurations of postmodernity It focuses on political issues and on questions of the body

Encyclopedia of Human Geography Barney Warf, 2006-05-16 Human geography in the last decade has undergone a conceptual and methodological renaissance that transformed it into one of the most dynamic and innovative of the social sciences Long a borrower of ideas from other disciplines geography has become a contributor in its own right and a spatial turn is evident in disciplines as diverse as Sociology Anthropology and Literary Criticism With more than 300 entries written by an international team of leading authorities in the field the Encyclopedia of Human Geography offers a comprehensive overview of the major ideas concepts terms and approaches that characterize a notoriously diverse field This multidisciplinary volume provides cross cultural coverage of human geography as it is understood in the contemporary world and takes into account the enormous conceptual changes that have evolved since the 1970s including a variety of social constructivist approaches Key Features Examines a range of themes characterizing different schools of thought and addresses long standing topics such as urban economic and medical geography as well as contemporary topics including feminism the social dimensions of GIS and the social construction of nature Explores many of the dualities that long characterized social science nature versus society the individual versus the social the historical versus the geographical consumption versus production and breaks them down using postmodern and poststructuralist approaches Illustrates how social and spatial structures draw upon people's daily lives which in turn structures their actions Looks at how globalization has manifested differently from place to place by discussing topics such as transnational capital international trade global commodity chains global cities international financial and telecommunications systems and how the global economy is
