internalised today creating within the People's Republic of China a space that retains some characteristics of a historical frontier. The region of eastern Tibet called Kham, the focus of this volume, is a productive lens through which processes of place making and frontier dynamics can be analysed. Using historical records and ethnography, the authors challenge purely externalist approaches to convey a sense of Kham's own centrality and the agency of the actors involved. They contribute to a history from below that is relevant to the history of China and Tibet and of comparative value for borderland studies.

Histories of Tibet Kurtis R. Schaeffer, William A. McGrath, Jue Liang, 2023-07-25 The thirty-four essays in this volume follow the particular interests of Leonard van der Kuijp, whose groundbreaking research in Tibetan intellectual and cultural history imbued his students with an abiding sense of curiosity and discovery. As part of Leonard van der Kuijp's research in Tibetan history, he patiently and expertly revealed treasures of the Tibetan intellectual tradition in fourteenth-century Tsang, seventeenth-century Lhasa, or eighteenth-century Amdo. The thirty-four essays in this volume follow the particular interests of the honoree and express the comprehensive research that his international cohort has engaged in alongside his generous tutelage over the course of forty years. His inquisitiveness can be experienced through every one of his writings and can be found as well in these new essays in intellectual, cultural, and institutional history by Christopher Beckwith, Yael Bentor, the late Hubert Decler, Franz Karl Ehrhard, Jrg Heimbel, and David Jackson. Nathan Hill, Isabelle Henrion, Dourcy Matthew Kapstein, Todd Lewis, Kurtis Schaeffer, Peter Schwieger, Gray Tuttle, Pieter Verhagen, Michael Witzel, and others.

How to Make a Life Madeline Uraneck, 2018-04-11 An immigration story of crossing cultural bridges and finding family. When Madeline Uraneck said hello to the Tibetan woman cleaning her office cubicle, she never imagined the moment would change her life. After learning that Tenzin Kalsang had left her husband and four children behind in a Tibetan refugee settlement in India to try to forge a better life for them, Madeline took on the task of helping her apply for US visas. When the family reunited in their new Midwestern home, Madeline became swept up in their lives, from homework and soccer games to family dinners and shared holiday traditions. By reaching out, she found more than she bargained for: a family who welcomed her as their own and taught her more than she offered them. An evocative blend of immersion journalism and memoir, How to Make a Life shares the immigration story of a Tibetan refugee family who crossed real and cultural bridges to make a life in Madison, Wisconsin, with the assistance of the Midwestern woman they befriended. From tales of escaping Tibet over the Himalayas to striking a balance between old traditions with new, to bridging divides, one friendly gesture at a time readers will expand their understanding of family culture and belonging Being Present: Mobile Cinema in Kham Tibetan Areas Jianbin Guo, Jingjing Chen, 2024-07-31 This book presents the restoration of rural mobile cinema network in the Great Triangle region at the conjunction of Yunnan Sichuan and Tibet in China in the new century which has added a new chapter to the long standing complex relationship between cinema and social change Based on five years of multi sited fieldwork abundant interviews and oral history narratives this work shows the entanglement of the State the projectionists and local film viewers in the historical and social context in a holistic analytic framework By using the key concept of being present to examine the tangling relations between the actors in mobile cinema as social practice the work argues that mobile cinema and contemporary Chinese society are mutually constructed in both textual and practical level

Morality and Monastic Revival in Post-Mao Tibet Jane E. Caple, 2019-03-31 The speed and extent of the Tibetan Buddhist monastic revival make it one of the most extraordinary stories of religious resurgence in post Mao China At the end of the 1970s there were no working monasteries within a decade thousands had been reconstructed and repopulated Most studies have focused on the political challenges facing Tibetan monasteries emphasizing their relationship to the Chinese state Yet in their efforts to revive and develop their institutions monks have also had to negotiate a rapidly changing society playing a delicate balancing act fraught with moral dilemma as well as political danger Drawing on the recent moral turn in anthropology this volume the first full length ethnographic study of the subject explores the social and moral dimensions of monastic revival and reform across a range of Geluk monasteries in northeast Tibet Amdo Qinghai Province from the 1980s on Author Jane Caple s analysis shows that ideas and debates about how best to maintain the mundane bases of monastic Buddhism economy and population are intermeshed with those concerning the proper role and conduct of monks and the ethics of monastic lay relations Facing a shrinking monastic population monks are grappling with the impacts of secular education demographic transition rising living standards urbanization and marketization all of which have driven debates within Buddhism elsewhere and fueled perceptions of monastic decline Some Tibetans including monks are even questioning the good of the mass form of monasticism that has been a distinctive feature of Tibetan society for hundreds of years Given monastic Buddhism s integral position in Tibetan community life and association with Tibetan identity Caple argues that its precarity in relation to Tibetan society raises questions about its future that go well beyond the issue of religious freedom
