Costs Associated with First-Time Homelessness for Families and Individuals Brooke Spellman, 2010-10 Examines costs associated with the use of homeless and mainstream service delivery systems by families and individuals experiencing homelessness for the first time in six study communities Assigning costs to public programs is a first step toward developing measures of the value of public interventions compared to the public costs incurred by ignoring or avoiding the problems those interventions are intended to address The study finds that the experience of homelessness is diverse and the associated costs vary tremendously depending on the pattern of homelessness and family or individual status It is not however a study of either cost effectiveness or quality of care but rather a calculation of costs associated with homelessness Illustrations

Theory and Methods of Economic Evaluation of Health Care Magnus Johannesson,1996-05-31 Most economic evaluations of health care programmes at the moment are cost effectiveness and cost utility analyses The problem with these methods is that their theoretical foundations are unclear This has led to confusion about how to define the costs and health effects and how to interpret the results of these studies In the environmental and traffic safety fields it is instead common to carry out traditional cost bene fit analyses of health improving programmes This striking difference in how health programmes are assessed in different fields was the original motivation for writing this book The aim of the book is to try and provide a coherent framework within cost bene fit analysis and welfare economics for the different methods of economic evaluation in the health care field The book is written in an easily accessible manner and several examples of applications of the different methods are provided It is my hope that it will be useful both for teaching purposes and as a guide for practitioners in the field Glenn C Blomquist John D Graham Rich O Connor and four anonymous referees provided helpful comments on previous versions of the manuscript I would also like to express my gratitude to the following persons for helping me to prepare the manuscript Carl Magnus Berglund Carin Blanksvard Ann Brown and Ziad Obeid

Explorations in Pragmatic Economics George A. Akerlof,2005-03-17 For twenty years since the publication of his seminal paper The Market for Lemons George A Akerlof s work has changed the way we see economics and the economics of information in particular In abandoning the perfect competition benchmarks of classical economics the pragmatic modern economics championed by Akerlof has provided deep insights into markets identity discrimination motivation and work and into behavioural economics in general This collection of Akerlof s most important papers provide both an introduction to Akerlof s work and a grounding in modern economics Divided into two broad areas micro and macroeconomics they cover the economics of information the theory of unemployment macroeconomic equilibria the demand for money psychology and economics and the nature of discrimination and other social issues The collection closes with Akerlof s 2001 Nobel Lecture in which he argues that it is imperative that macroeconomics be considered inherently behavioural Akerlof s substantial introduction to this volume tells the story of these papers connecting them and showing how his later work has built upon his early contributions in many cases improving their arguments their subtlety and their usefulness today
