Undoing Apartheid Premesh Lalu, 2022-10-27 Post apartheid South Africa still struggles to overcome the past not just because the material conditions of apartheid linger but because the intellectual conditions it created have not been thoroughly dismantled The system of petty apartheid which controlled the minutia of everyday life became a means of dragooning human beings into adapting to increasingly mechanized forms of life that stifle desire and creative endeavour As a result apartheid is incessantly repeated in the struggle to move beyond it In Undoing Apartheid Premesh Lalu argues that only an aesthetic education can lead to a future beyond apartheid To find ways to escape the vicious cycle he traces the patterns created by three theatrical works by William Kentridge Jane Taylor and the Handspring Puppet Company Faustus in Africa Woyzeck on the Highveld and Ubu and the Truth Commission which coincided with the fall of the Berlin Wall and the end of apartheid Through the analysis of these works Lalu uncovers the roots of modern thinking about race and affirms the need to revitalize a post apartheid reconciliation endowed with truth if only to keep alive the rhyme of hope and history

Voicing Trauma and Truth: Narratives of Disruption and Transformation Oliver Bray, Peter Bray, 2020-10-12 The Culture of Dissenting Memory Véronique Tadjo, 2019-03-18 This volume deals with the manifold ways in which histories are debated and indeed historicity and historiography themselves are interrogated via the narrative modes of the truth commissions. It traces the various medial responses: memoirs, fiction, poetry, film, art, which have emerged in the wake of the truth commissions. The 1990s and the 2000s saw a spate of so-called truth commissions across the Global South. From the inaugural truth commissions in post-juntas 1980s Latin America to the Truth and Reconciliation Commission set up by the incoming post-apartheid government in South Africa and the twinned gacaca courts and National Unity and Reconciliation Commission in Rwanda and that in indigenous Australia, various truth commissions have sought to lay bare human rights abuses. The chapters in this volume explore how truth commissions crystallized a long tradition of dissenting and resisting cultures of memorialization in the public sphere across the Global South and provided a significant template for contemporary attempts to work through episodes of violence and oppression across the region. Drawing on studies from Latin America, Africa, Asia, and Australia, this book illuminates the modes in which societies remember and negotiate with traumatic pasts. This book will be of great interest to scholars and researchers of human rights, popular culture, and art, literature, media, politics, and history.

The Ethical Dimensions of Global Development Verna V. Gehring, 2007 As a broad concept, globalization denotes the declining significance of national boundaries. At a deeper level, globalization is the proposition that nation-states are losing the power to control what occurs within their borders and that what transpires across borders is rising in relative significance. The Ethical Dimensions of Global Development: An Introduction, the fifth book in Rowman Littlefield's Institute for Philosophy and Public Policy Studies series, discusses key questions concerning globalization and its implications, including: Can general ethical principles be brought to bear on questions of globalization? Do economic development and self-government require a duty of care? Is economic destiny crucial to individual autonomy? This collection provides readers with current information and useful insights into this complex topic.

Voices of Justice and Reason Geoffrey V. Davis, 2021-10-25 Over the past fifty years, transformations of great moment have taken place in South Africa. Apartheid and the subsequent transition to a democratic, non-racial society, in particular, have exercised a profound effect on the practice of literature. This study traces the development of literature under apartheid, then seeks to identify the ways in which writers and theatre practitioners are now facing the challenges of a new social order. The main focus is on the work of black writers, prime among them Matsemela Manaka Mtutuzeli Matshoba and Richard Rive, who as politically committed members of the oppressed majority bore witness to the black experience through their writing. Despite the draconian censorship system, they were able to address the social problems caused by racial discrimination in all areas of life, particularly through forced removals, the migrant labour system, and the creation of the homelands. Their writing may be read both as a comprehensive record of everyday life under apartheid and as an alternative cultural history of South Africa. Particular attention is paid to theatre as a barometer of social change in South Africa The concluding chapters consider how in the current period of transition writers and arts institutions have set about reassessing their priorities redefining their function and seeking new aesthetic directions in taking up the challenge of imagining a new society

South & Southern African Literature Eldred D. Jones, Marjorie Jones, 2002 The end of the apartheid in South Africa has meant that the literature of protest need no longer dominate creative output This title looks at the realities of independent African nations as expressed in song and literature

Cultured Violence Rosemary Jane Jolly, 2010-01-01 Cultured Violence explores contemporary South African culture as a test case for the achievement of democracy by constitutional means in the wake of prolonged and violent cultural conflict Drawing on and juxtaposing narratives of profoundly different kinds the fiction of J M Coetzee public testimony from the Truth and Reconciliation Commission documents from former Deputy President Jacob Zuma's rape trial and personal interviews among them in order to illuminate different cultural senses of the state of the nation and retrieve otherwise elusive descriptions of South African subjects taken from accounts of their individual lives

Post-Imperial Brecht Loren Kruger, 2004-08-19 Post Imperial Brecht challenges prevailing views of Brecht's theatre and politics Kruger focuses much of her analysis in regions where Brecht has had special resonance including East Germany and South Africa where Brechtian philosophy has been vigorously employed in the anti apartheid movement Kruger also analyses political interpretations of Brecht in light of other key dramatists including Heiner Müller and Athol Fugard The book also examines Brechtian influence on writers and philosophers such as Adorno Benjamin and Barthes
