Many of us take our mental health for granted, so when we are confronted by mental illness in friends or family members or in ourselves, we can be overwhelmed. Understanding Troubled Minds is a calm and authoritative guide that takes us through the full range of mental illnesses and their treatments, emphasising the value of partnerships between psychiatrists, patients and their families. There are chapters that deal with mental illnesses afflicting children and adolescents, women and the elderly, as well as covering eating disorders, self-harm, gender identity and alcohol and drug dependence. Sidney Bloch, an eminent academic psychiatrist of many years' clinical experience, highlights the place of hope and optimism throughout, pointing to the great strides being made in the understanding and treatment of mental illnesses. Acknowledging the complexity of human nature, Professor Bloch weaves stories of real people and the insights of many writers and artists throughout the text. Balanced, humanistic and thoroughly readable, this updated edition of Understanding Troubled Minds serves as a practical guide to mental illness and its treatment.

Bipolar and the Art of Roller-coaster Riding Madeleine Kelly, 2005. The Lived Experience in Mental Health Gary Morris, 2016-09-15. The importance of recognising the knowledge and the needs of service users and engaging them more proactively within the care process is now widely acknowledged, but it is not always clear how this can come about. The Lived Experience of Mental Health highlights individuals' own lived and felt mental health experience in order to share their expertise about mental health problems and the care offered. This text begins by exploring the importance of engaging with the internal world of those living with various mental health problems and reflecting upon personal narratives as means of expressing and sharing experience, as well as the status of these narratives as evidence. The central section of the book looks at five commonly experienced mental health states: anxiety problems, depression, mood extremes, states of altered reality (linked for example with psychosis and schizophrenia) and impaired cognition (linked for example with dementia). The chapters look at how the mental state in question is experienced, including the experience of it in the context of the wider world where health and social care services and the responses of other people play a part. Drawing on personal narratives from a wide range of sources, this text foregrounds the voices of experts by experience and relates them to the academic literature. The narratives collectively convey a breadth of experience, including both concepts of struggling and living well with mental health issues. The book ends by outlining resources where a range of first-person narratives can be accessed, from online forums to films, and providing a strategy for teaching and learning associated with the exploration of lived experience narratives. Designed for health professionals working with people experiencing mental health problems, this illuminating text uses personal narratives to emphasise the importance of person-centred care and participation by service users in their own care. It will also be an interesting read for experts by experience themselves, as well as their families and friends The Transformative Power of Metaphor in Therapy Sana Loue, JD, PhD, MSSA, 2008-07-14 Narrative or metaphor therapy utilizes the patient's own memories and anecdotes as a method for tapping into and confronting the many layers of the complex inner self. The book is particularly innovative in the use of narrative or metaphor therapy with adults suffering from severe mental illness. Unlike other books on the use of narrative therapy, this book focuses on the use of pre-scripted narratives that can be used with individuals to examine their personal situations as well as techniques to guide individuals in the development of their own narratives. A comprehensive and detailed guidebook for narrative therapists, this book addresses various experiential therapeutic interventions.

Mental Health and Spirituality in Later Life Elizabeth MacKinlay, 2014-01-02 Explore pastoral strategies for dealing with mental health problems. Mental health is increasingly being recognized as an important issue in later life. This valuable book will help you examine this dimension of aging in the context of pastoral, spiritual, and cultural issues. It explores the relationship between mental health, spirituality, and religion in later life, including the search for meaning, cultural issues, spiritual issues, depression, dementia, and issues of suicide in older people. The first part of Mental Health and Spirituality in Later Life focuses on theology, ethics, and cultural issues in mental health and aging. The second part addresses issues of multidisciplinary practice, including a challenging chapter written by a woman with early-onset dementia. Alzheimer's and other chapters that present perspectives on the uses and meanings of ritual and symbolism in mental health and pastoral approaches to care. Part one of Mental Health and Spirituality in Later Life deals with issues of theology, culture, and mental health in later life, focusing on the importance of a richly textured understanding of personhood as a prerequisite for constructing a picture of late-life mental health in the context of theology, the relationship between culture, spirituality, and meaning for older immigrants, and their effects on mental health, the adverse effects of a mental health system that reflects only the dominant culture of a society, leaving minority cultures vulnerable to misdiagnosis and inappropriate treatments that can do more harm than good, a holistic picture of aging that moves beyond the biomedical paradigm, and demonstrates the power and potential of the human spirit in adjusting to and moving beyond suffering. Part two of this valuable book addresses issues of concern to practitioners in mental health and spirituality for the aging, including disruptive behavior among nursing home residents and common practices that fail to identify its causes or address the problem, how some staff-resident interactions can produce suffering for all concerned, with case study outlines that illustrate the point, memory loss and its effect on spirituality, self-worth, and the faith community, pastoral care for people suffering with dementia, with practical information on helping them to make use of the power of prayer and to deal with loneliness, fear, and disempowerment, an insightful look at a recent major study of residents in aged care facilities in Australia that explores the link between depression and spirituality, risk and protective factors associated with suicide in later life, and the treatment of depression, pastoral interventions for depression and dementia.
