Women And Political Participation Women And Political Participation:

Women's Political Participation and Representation in Asia Kazuki Iwanaga, 2008 The ability of a small elite of highly educated upper class Asian women to obtain the highest political positions in their country is unmatched elsewhere in the world and deserves study But there is a marked lack of relevant research as well as of comprehensive and user friendly texts Aiming to fill the gap is this timely and important study of the various obstacles and opportunities for women s political participation and representation in Asia

American Women and Political Participation Karen Beckwith, 1986-09-15 Karen Beckwith examines the patterns of mass level political participation among American women from 1952 to 1976 Four distinct forms of political participation are focused upon voting electoral activism conventional nonelectoral participation and political protest She then tests three explanations considered unique to the political participation of women in these areas the nature of women s work women s experience in political generations and adherence to or support of feminism Surprisingly Beckwith s study indicates that such traditional explanations reveal more about men than about women and that there is very little difference in participation between the sexes However Beckwith found that reported feelings of political efficacy among women were less than among men even where actual participation differences were nonexistent

Women's Political Voice Janet A. Flammang, 1997 100 Questions about Women and Politics Manon Tremblay, 2018-09-30 Both yesterday s suffragists and today s feminists have battled for women to vote and hold office and their successes have made it possible for countries such as Argentina Brazil Germany Iceland Liberia and the United Kingdom to have female heads of state Despite these notable advances women are still largely underrepresented in parliaments and governments around the world Why after so many years of feminist struggle are women still obstructed from full political citizenship by a glass ceiling Manon Tremblay's 100 Questions about Women and Politics discusses electoral politics in Canada and abroad focusing on women's rights to vote and run for office in legislative elections political parties voting systems electoral quotas for women and participation in parliaments and governments Against a background of observations taken from academic research Tremblay uses an innovative approach by dividing her book into 100 questions and answers to address a range of important issues Are electorates sexist or lesbophobic Are family responsibilities a real obstacle to women's engagement in politics What strategies are available to increase the number of female politicians Are gender quotas democratic Once elected to office do women represent women How does women's political citizenship in Canada compare to that in other countries A timely book on the unfinished work of representative democracy 100 Questions about Women and Politics takes a comprehensive yet concise approach to demystifying the major issues dominating the study of gender and government

Political Empowerment of Women Monique Leyenaar, 2004-11-01 The problem of ensuring that women are at the heart of political decision making is now very topical in Europe This is because despite all of the international agreements the research the recommendations and the untold other efforts the participation of women in political bodies remains low in most European countries European governance in short still fails to include 50 per cent of women in its political decision making Why do political leaders attach importance to this issue The under representation of women in national parliaments poses a problem in terms of both the practice and the theory of politics In practical terms the under representation of women in political leadership is even more remarkable when one realizes that women have succeeded in gaining access to other sectors of society in many European countries Moreover equality between men and women is now a leading political principle all over Europe Taking part in decision making however in politics as well as in the private sector typically remains a male privilege This book explains the high level of current concern for the under representation of women in politics It explores the reasons behind recent favourable attitudes towards sharing political power with women in the Netherlands and in other European countries It identifies the many obstacles and strategies and it points out future expectations about the representation of women in Europe Under which circumstances can political players be influenced to change institutions and procedures in favour of newcomers to politics The current crisis of politics opens a window of opportunity for changing the underlying male biased structures

Alexander, Catherine Bolzendahl, Farida Jalalzai, 2017-11-16 This volume brings together leading gender and politics scholars to assess how women's political empowerment can best be conceptualized and measured on a global scale It argues that women's political empowerment is a fundamental process of transformation for benchmarking and understanding all political empowerment gains across the globe Chapters improve our global understanding of women's political empowerment through cross national comparisons a synthesis of methodological approaches across varied levels of politics and attention to the ways gender intersects with myriad factors in shaping women's political empowerment This book is an indispensable resource for scholars of politics and gender as well as being relevant to a global scholarly and policy community
