search and rescue process The introduction of robotic tools in the world of search and rescue is not straightforward due to the fact that the search and rescue context is extremely technology unfriendly meaning that very robust solutions which can be deployed extremely quickly are required Multiple research projects across the world are tackling this problem and in this book a special focus is placed on showcasing the results of the European Union ICARUS project on this subject The ICARUS project proposes to equip first responders with a comprehensive and integrated set of unmanned search and rescue tools to increase the situational awareness of human crisis managers so that more work can be done in a shorter amount of time The ICARUS tools consist of assistive unmanned air ground and sea vehicles equipped with victim detection sensors The unmanned vehicles collaborate as a coordinated team communicating via ad hoc cognitive radio networking To ensure optimal human robot collaboration these tools are seamlessly integrated into the command and control equipment of the human crisis managers and a set of training and support tools is provided to them in order to learn to use the ICARUS system The research leading to these results has received funding from the European Community's Seventh Framework Programme FP7 2007 2013 under grant agreement number 285417 The publishing of this book was funded by the EC FP7 Post Grant Open Access Pilot programme

The DARPA Robotics Challenge Finals: Humanoid Robots To The Rescue Matthew Spenko, Stephen Buerger, Karl Iagnemma, 2018-04-09 The DARPA Robotics Challenge was a robotics competition that took place in Pomona California USA in June 2015 The competition was the culmination of 33 months of demanding work by 23 teams and required humanoid robots to perform challenging locomotion and manipulation tasks in a mock disaster site The challenge was conceived as a response to the Japanese Fukushima nuclear disaster of March 2011 The Fukushima disaster was seen as an ideal candidate for robotic intervention since the risk of exposure to radiation prevented human responders from accessing the site This volume edited by Matthew Spenko Stephen Buerger and Karl Iagnemma includes commentary by the organizers overall analysis of the results and documentation of the technical efforts of 15 competing teams The book provides an important record of the successes and failures involved in the DARPA Robotics Challenge and provides guidance for future needs to be addressed by policy makers funding agencies and the robotics research community Many of the papers in this volume were initially published in a series of special issues of the Journal of Field Robotics We have proudly collected versions of those papers in this STAR volume
