Segmentation for Content-Based Multimedia Applications Ju Guo,C.-C. Jay Kuo,2001-09-30 Semantic Video Object Segmentation for Content Based Multimedia Applications provides a thorough review of state of the art techniques as well as describing several novel ideas and algorithms for semantic object extraction from image sequences Semantic object extraction is an essential element in content based multimedia services such as the newly developed MPEG4 and MPEG7 standards An interactive system called SIVOG Smart Interactive Video Object Generation is presented which converts user s semantic input into a form that can be conveniently integrated with low level video processing Thus high level semantic information and low level video features are integrated seamlessly into a smart segmentation system A region and temporal adaptive algorithm was further proposed to improve the efficiency of the SIVOG system so that it is feasible to achieve nearly real time video object segmentation with robust and accurate performances Also included is an examination of the shape coding problem and the object segmentation problem simultaneously Semantic Video Object Segmentation for Content Based Multimedia Applications will be of great interest to research scientists and graduate level students working in the area of content based multimedia representation and applications and its related fields 1998 International Conference on Image Processing : Proceedings ,1998 Advanced Research on Material Engineering and its Application Helen
