O'Neil, 2013-11-05 This volume offers an expansion of ideas presented at a recent conference convened to identify the major strategies and more promising practices for assessing technology The authors representing government business and university sectors helped to set the boundaries of present technology assessment by offering perspectives from computer science cognitive and military psychology and education Their work explores both the use of techniques to assess technology and the use of technology to facilitate the assessment process The book's main purpose is to portray the state of the art in technology assessment and to provide conceptual options to help readers understand the power of technology Technological innovation will continue to develop its own standards of practice and effectiveness To the extent that these practices are empirically based designers supporters and consumers will be given better information for their decisions Basic and Clinical Perspectives in Vision

Research Jon G. Robbins, M.B. Djamgoz, Anthony Taylor, 2013-06-29 I have been asked to write a brief foreword to this volume honoring Hisako Ikeda providing a review of the accomplishments in our field over the past four decades when Hisako was an active participant This I am delighted to do It has been a most exciting time in vision research and Hisako has been right in the middle of much of the excitement publishing on a wide variety of topics and providing much new data and many new insights Hisako's research career can be divided by decades into four quite distinct areas of inquiry In the 1950s as a student in Japan her research interests were psychophysical in nature and she was concerned with visual illusions figural aftereffects and motion detection In the 1960s after her move to London she began electrophysiological studies Much of her work in the 1960s was concerned with the electroretinogram ERG its components and the use of this electrical response for evaluating spectral sensitivities of the eye and retinal degenerations This work represented the beginning of her electrodiagnostic clinical work which continued until her retirement Evolution of Nervous Systems Georg F. Striedter, Theodore H. Bullock, Todd M. Preuss, John Rubenstein, Leah A. Krubitzer, 2016-11-23 Evolution of Nervous Systems Second Edition Four Volume Set is a unique major reference which offers the gold standard for those interested both in evolution and nervous systems All biology only makes sense when seen in the light of evolution and this is especially true for the nervous system All animals have nervous systems that mediate their behaviors many of them species specific yet these nervous systems all evolved from the simple nervous system of a common ancestor To understand these nervous systems we need to know how they vary and how this variation emerged in evolution In the first edition of this important reference work over 100 distinguished neuroscientists assembled the current state of the art knowledge on how nervous systems have evolved throughout the animal kingdom This second edition remains rich in detail and broad in scope outlining the changes in brain and nervous system organization that occurred from the first invertebrates and vertebrates to present day fishes reptiles birds mammals and especially primates including humans The book also includes wholly new content fully updating the chapters in the previous edition and offering brand new content on current developments in the field Each of the volumes has been carefully restructured to offer expanded coverage of non mammalian taxa mammals primates and the human nervous system The basic principles of brain evolution are discussed as are mechanisms of change The reader can select from chapters on highly specific topics or those that provide an overview of current thinking and approaches making this an indispensable work for students and researchers alike Presents a broad range of topics ranging from genetic control of development in invertebrates to human cognition offering a one stop resource for the evolution of nervous systems throughout the animal kingdom Incorporates the expertise of over 100 outstanding investigators who provide their conclusions in the context of the latest experimental results Presents areas of disagreement and consensus views that provide a holistic view of the subjects under discussion The Structural Basis of Neurobiology Edward G. Pylyshyn,1988 This text is the result of a workshop which brought together a group of researchers concerned with understanding human as well as artificial vision from a computational perspective The chapters are original essays and research reports that span a wide range of disciplinary approaches from experimental psychophysics and psychobiology to mathematical analysis to a spectrum of problems in visual processing Folia Morphologica ,1989 Recent Literature of Mammalogy ,1975 Neural and Behavioral Specificity Gilbert Gottlieb,1976 Neural and Behavioral Specificity Handbook of Infant Perception: From sensation to perception Philip Salapatek,Leslie B. Uttal,1981 Originally published in 1981 this third volume deals with the empirical data base and the theories concerning visual perception the set of mental responses to photic stimulation of the eyes As the book develops the plan was to present a general taxonomy of visual processes and phenomena It was hoped that such a general perspective would help to bring some order to the extensive but largely unorganized research literature dealing with our immediate perceptual responses to visual stimuli at the time The specific goal of this work was to provide a classification system that integrates and systematizes the data base of perceptual psychology into a comprehensive intellectual scheme by means of an eclectic multi level metatheory invoking several different kinds of explanation
