Water Resources Administration in the United States Policy, Practice, and Emerging Issues Martin Reuss, 1993-06-01 Water Resources Administration in the United States, 1993 Water Resources People and Issues Gilbert F. White, Martin Reuss, 1993 New Directions in Water Resources Planning for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers National Research Council, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Commission on Geosciences, Environment and Resources, Committee to Assess the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers Water Resources Project Planning Procedures, 1999-03-29 The U S Army Corps of Engineers has long been one of the federal government s key agencies in planning the uses of the nation s waterways and water resources Though responsible for a range of water related programs the Corps s two traditional programs have been flood damage reduction and navigation enhancement The water resource needs of the nation however have for decades been shifting away from engineered control of watersheds toward restoration of ecosystem services and natural hydrologic variability In response to these shifting needs legislation was enacted in 1990 which initiated the Corps s involvement in ecological restoration which is now on par with the Corps s traditional flood damage reduction and navigation roles This book provides an analysis of the Corps s efforts in ecological restoration and provides broader recommendations on how the corps might streamline their planning process It also assesses the impacts of federal legislation on the Corps planning and projects and provides recommendations on how relevant federal policies might be altered in order to improve Corps planning Another important shift affecting the Corps has been federal cost sharing arrangements enacted in 1986 mandating greater financial participation in Corps water projects by local co sponsors The book describes how this has affected the Corps sponsor relationship and comments upon how each group must adjust to new planning and political realities Science for Floodplain Management Into the 21st Century, 1994 Science for Floodplain Management Into the 21st Century: Selected studies of natural and human factors related to flood management in the Upper Mississippi River Basin, 1994 Water Policy for Sustainable Development Dave Feldman, 2007-07-25 The shortage of fresh water is likely to be one of the most pressing issues of the twenty first century A UNESCO report predicts that as many as 7 billion people will face shortages of drinking water by 2050 Here David Lewis Feldman examines river basin management cases around the world to show how fresh water can be managed to sustain economic development while protecting the environment He argues that policy makers can employ adaptive management to avoid making decisions that could harm the environment to recognize and correct mistakes and to monitor environmental and socioeconomic changes caused by previous policies To demonstrate how adaptive management can work Feldman applies it to the Delaware Susquehanna Apalachicola Chattahoochee Flint Sacramento San Joaquin and Columbia river basins He assesses the impacts of runoff pollution and climate change the environmental justice aspects of water management and the prospects for sustainable fresh water management Case studies of the Murray Darling basin in Australia the Rhine and Danube in Europe the Zambezi in Africa and the Rio de la Plata in South America reveal the impediments to and opportunities for adaptive management on a global scale Feldman s comprehensive investigation and practical analysis bring new insight into the global and political challenges of preserving and managing one of the planet s most important resources General Technical Report SRS ,1999

Drinking Water from Forests and Grasslands ,2000 Environmental Politics and Policy in the West, Revised Edition Zachary A. Smith,John Freemuth,2007-08-30 Population growth and industrial development have put the wide open spaces and natural resources that define the West under immense stress Vested interests clash and come to terms over embattled resources such as water minerals and even open space The federal government controls 40 to 80 percent of the land base in many western states its sway over the futures of the West s communities and environment has prompted the development of unique policies and politics in the West Zachary A Smith and John Freemuth bring together a roster of top scholars to explicate the issues noted above as well as other key questions in this new edition of Environmental Politics and Policy in the West which was first published in 1993 This thoroughly revised and updated edition offers a comprehensive and current survey Contributors address the policy process as it affects western states how bureaucracy and politics shape environmental dialogues in the West how western states innovate environmental policies independently of Washington and how and when science is involved or ignored in management of the West s federal lands Experts in individual resource areas explore multifaceted issues such as the politics of dam removal and restoration wildlife resource concerns suburban sprawl and smart growth the management of hard rock mining and the allocation of the West s tightly limited water resources Contributors include Leslie R Alm Carolyn D Baber Walter F Baber Robert V Bartlett Hugh Bartling Matthew A Cahn R McGreggor Cawley Charles Davis Sandra Davis John C Freemuth Sheldon Kamieniecki Matt Lindstrom William R Mangun Denise McCain Tharnstrom Daniel McCool Jaina L Moan and Zachary A Smith Science for Floodplain Management Into the 21st Century Interagency Floodplain Management Review Committee (U.S.). the impacts of science complexity and uncertainty on watershed management Enriched by case studies of the organizations and decision making processes in several major U S watersheds the Delaware River Basin San Gabriel River Platte River and the Columbia River Basin Embracing Watershed Politics presents a reasoned explanation of why there are so few watershed scale integrated management agencies and how the more diverse multi organizational arrangements found in the vast majorities of watersheds work Although the presence of multiple organizations representing a multitude of communities of interest complicates watershed management these institutional arrangements can under certain conditions suit the complexity and uncertainty associated with watershed management in the twenty first century Designing the Bayous Martin Reuss,2004-06-02 Louisiana s Atchafalaya River Basin is one of the most dynamic and critical environments in the country It sustains the nation s last cypress tupelo wetland and provides a habitat for many species of animals Endowed with natural gas and oil fields the basin also supports a large commercial fisheries industry Perhaps most crucial it remains a primary component of the plan to control the Mississippi River and relieve flooding in New Orleans Baton Rouge and other communities in the lower river valley The continuing health of the basin is a reflection not of nature but of the work of the U S Army Corps of Engineers With levee building and clearing in the nineteenth century and damming dredging and floodway construction in the twentieth the basin was converted from a vast forested swamp into a designer wetland where human aspirations and nature maintained a precarious equilibrium Originally published by the U S Army Corps of Engineers primarily for internal distribution this environmental and political history of the Atchafalaya Basin is an unflinching account of the transformation of an area that has endured perhaps more human manipulation than any other natural environment in the nation Martin Reuss provides a new preface to bring us up to date on the state of the basin which remains both an engineering contrivance and natural wonder How Local Politics Shape Federal Policy Sarah S. Elkind,2011-08-15 Focusing on five Los Angeles environmental policy debates between 1920 and 1950 Sarah Elkind investigates how practices in American municipal government gave business groups political legitimacy at the local level as well as unanticipated influence over federal politics Los Angeles s struggles with oil drilling air pollution flooding and water and power supplies expose the clout business has had over government Revealing the huge disparities between big business groups and individual community members in power influence and the ability to participate in policy debates Elkind shows that business groups secured their political power by providing Los Angeles authorities with much needed services including studying emerging problems and framing public debates As a result government officials came to view business interests as the public interest When federal agencies looked to local powerbrokers for project ideas and political support local business interests influenced federal policy too Los Angeles with its many environmental problems and its dependence upon the federal government provides a distillation of national urban trends Elkind argues and is thus an ideal jumping off point for understanding environmental politics and the power of business in the middle of the twentieth century
