Bad Pennies and Dead Presidents Jon Dietrick, 2012-11-15 This study closely analyzes key works by five pivotal playwrights Sidney Kingsley Arthur Miller David Mamet August Wilson and Suzan Lori Parks in a comparison of the treatment of money in a range of American plays from the Great Depression to the early twenty first century Money emerges as a site of anxieties regarding the relation of signs to the real a monstrous substance that seems to breed itself from itself a dangerous abstraction that claims for itself a hard reality transforming lived reality into an abstraction At the same time money's self generating properties have made it a serviceable metaphor for the American ideal of self making money's ability to exchange means for ends abstract for concrete representation for real has made it an emblem of our postmodern condition Money has been conceived as a malevolent force robbing us of our natural relation to the world and to ourselves and as an empowering one with which we may remake this relation This ambivalence about money constitutes an important animating tension of American drama Furthermore anxieties surrounding money resemble in important ways anxieties surrounding theatre and the plays treatment of money reveals interesting tensions between a persistent American dramatic realism and naturalism and a philosophical and aesthetic postmodernism

Imagination in Transition Bruce Barton, 2005 The move from playwright to cinema screenwriter and director is a rare accomplishment No American writer has achieved this transition with the level of success enjoyed over the past two decades

by David Mamet Over this same period Mamet has also authored a body of aggressive critical writing that demonstrates enduring aesthetic and ideological preoccupations regularly expressed as a set of confident best practices However the relationship between theory and practice becomes particularly and productively rowdy at the sites of Mamet s transitional media crossing Imagination in Transition establishes a flexible set of core characteristics of Mamet s dramatic and theatrical dramaturgy and then compares these with the textual and cinematographic strategies employed by Mamet in his initial transitional feature films This study then offers both an innovative approach to Mamet s work and an illuminating framework for cross media analysis
