Violence In Families Assessing Prevention And Treatment Programs:

Violence in Families National Research Council and Institute of Medicine, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Commission on Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Committee on the Assessment of Family Violence Interventions, 1998-02-13 Reports of mistreated children domestic violence and abuse of elderly persons continue to strain the capacity of police courts social services agencies and medical centers At the same time myriad treatment and prevention programs are providing services to victims and offenders Although limited research knowledge exists regarding the effectiveness of these programs such information is often scattered inaccessible and difficult to obtain Violence in Families takes the first hard look at the successes and failures of family violence interventions It offers recommendations to guide services programs policy and research on victim support and assistance treatments and penalties for offenders and law enforcement Included is an analysis of more than 100 evaluation studies on the outcomes of different kinds of programs and services Violence in Families provides the most comprehensive review on the topic to date It explores the scope and complexity of family violence including identification of the multiple types of victims and offenders who require different approaches to intervention The book outlines new strategies that offer promising approaches for service providers and researchers and for improving the evaluation of prevention and treatment services Violence in Families discusses issues that underlie all types of family violence such as the tension between family support and the protection of children risk factors that contribute to violent behavior in families and the balance between family privacy and community interventions The core of the book is a research based review of interventions used in three institutional sectors social services health and law enforcement settings and how to measure their effectiveness in combating maltreatment of children domestic violence and abuse of the elderly Among the questions explored by the committee Does the child protective services system work Does the threat of arrest deter batterers The volume discusses the strength of the evidence and highlights emerging links among interventions in different institutional settings Thorough readable and well organized Violence in Families synthesizes what is known and outlines what needs to be discovered This volume will be of great interest to policymakers social services providers health care professionals police and court officials victim advocates researchers and concerned individuals

Program Evaluation and Family Violence Research Sally K. Ward, David Finkelhor, 2014-05-22 Understand and evaluate family violence programs for your community Twenty years ago the major issue in creating interventions to prevent domestic violence was persuading the courts the funding agencies and society that domestic violence was a serious problem worthy of time trouble and money Now that the importance of domestic violence has been established we need safe and effective ways to evaluate those interventions to see which ones are working and how they can be improved Program Evaluation and Family Violence Research brings together some of the best minds in the field discussing such vital evaluation issues as policy implications alternative designs for evaluation studies and ethical concerns This comprehensive book approaches the vexed question of evaluation with compassion as well as scientific rigor Clearly traditional double blind studies and control groups are difficult to conduct when family violence is the subject it is ethically indefensible to sit back and watch abusers hurt their mates or children when interventions are available Yet finding usable methods of program evaluation is also essential Program Evaluation and Family Violence Research confronts these questions and discusses practical ways to evaluate a variety of domestic violence programs Program Evaluation and Family Violence Research draws on years of experience to address the difficult questions raised including going beyond evaluating program effectiveness to analyze why and how interventions help change behavior creating new research designs to adapt to the unique concerns of the family violence field using meta analysis for program evaluation research determining the interaction between research and program results identifying barriers between community activists and social scientists that may impede research Program Evaluation and Family Violence Research offers fresh and creative ways to do program evaluations guarantee subjects physical and emotional safety and make good science humane New and Forthcoming Books National Academy Press (U.S.),2000

Resilience in Children, Families, and Communities Ray D. Peters, Bonnie Leadbeater, Robert J. McMahon, 2006-11-22

Despite the numerous benefits derived from major technological and medical innovations of the past century we continue to live in a world rife with significant social problems and challenges Children continue to be born into lives of poverty others must confront daily their parent s mental illness or substance abuse still others live amid chronic family discord or child abuse For some of these children life s difficulties become overwhelming Their enduring trauma can lead to a downward spiral until their behavioral and emotional problems become lifelong barriers to success and wellbeing Almost no one today would deny that the world is sometimes an inhospitable even dangerous place for our youth Yet most children even those living in high risk environments appear to persevere Some even flourish And this begs the question why in the face of such great odds do these children become survivors rather than casualties of their environments For many decades scholars have pursued answers to the mysteries of resilience Now having culled several decades of research findings the editors of this volume offer an in depth leading edge description and analysis of Resilience in Children Families and Communities Linking Context to Practice and Policy The book is divided into three readily accessible sections that both define the scope and limits of resilience as well as provide hands on programs that families neighborhoods and communities can implement In addition several chapters provide real life intervention strategies and social policies that can be readily put into practice The goal to enable children to develop more effective problem solving skills to help each child to improve his or her self image and to define ways in which role models can affect positive outcomes throughout each child s lifetime For researchers clinicians and students Resilience in Children Families and Communities Linking Context to Practice and Policy is an essential addition to their library It provides practical information to inform greater success in the effort to encourage resilience in all children and to achieve positive youth development Community Programs to Promote Youth Development Institute of Medicine,National Research Council,Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education,Board on Children, Youth, and Families,Committee on Community-Level Programs for Youth,2002-02-12 After school programs scout groups community service activities religious youth groups and other community based activities have long been thought to play a key role in the lives of adolescents But what do we know about the role of such programs for today s adolescents How can we ensure that programs are designed to successfully meet young people s developmental needs and help them become healthy happy and productive adults Community Programs to Promote Youth Development explores these questions focusing on essential elements of adolescent well being and healthy development It offers recommendations for policy practice and research to ensure that programs are well designed to meet young people s developmental needs The book also discusses the features of programs that can contribute to a successful transition from adolescence to adulthood It examines what we know about the current landscape of youth development programs for America s youth as well as how these programs are meeting their diverse needs Recognizing the importance of adolescence as a period of transition to adulthood Community Programs to Promote Youth Development offers authoritative guidance to policy makers practitioners researchers and other key stakeholders on the role of youth development programs to promote the healthy development and well being of the nation s youth It Could Happen To Anyone Alyce D. LaViolette,Ola W.

Barnett,2000 It continues to provide understanding and empathy regarding this complex issue and presents an integrated learning theory explanation of the conditioning that culminates in wife abuse in the resulting state of the victim and in the decision to stay with an abuser BOOK JACKET Social Work Practice with Families and Children Anthony Maluccio,Barbara Pine,Elizabeth M. Tracy,2002-09-11 This book emphasizes family centered social network and school based interventions in the preparation of social workers for direct and indirect practice with clients from vulnerable populations especially the poor people of color and recent immigrant groups With an eye to recent changes in social work practice and service delivery including the impact of welfare reform and managed care on vulnerable families and children Social Work Practice with Families and Children helps social work students and practitioners understand the increasingly complex needs of their clients Three valuable appendixes include information about tools and instruments to support practice child welfare resource centers and electronic resources pertaining to the field American Criminal Justice Policy Daniel P.

Mears,2010-04-12 American Criminal Justice Policy examines many of the most prominent criminal justice policies on the American landscape and finds that they fall well short of achieving the accountability and effectiveness that policymakers have advocated and that the public expects The policies include mass incarceration sex offender laws supermax prisons faith based prisoner reentry programs transfer of juveniles to adult court domestic violence mandatory arrest laws drug courts gun laws community policing private prisons and others Optimistically Daniel P Mears argues that this situation can be changed through systematic incorporation of evaluation research into policy development monitoring and assessment To this end the book provides a clear and accessible discussion of five types of evaluation needs theory implementation or process outcome and impact and cost efficiency It identifies how these can be used both to hold the criminal justice system accountable and to increase the effectiveness of crime control and crime prevention efforts

Stopping Child Maltreatment Before it Starts Neil B. Guterman, 2001 Early prevention of child maltreatment is most commonly delivered through home visitation services with the goal of promoting a positive start in parenting to avert potential child abuse and neglect Stopping Child Maltreatment Before It Starts introduces best practice principles for early home visiting examining the contexts from which these strategies arise Beginning with a discussion of the nature and etiology of physical child abuse and neglect Guterman then examines the mechanisms by which child protective and early home visitation services have traditionally operated The book explores best practice principles by providing a detailed inside tour of those practices that have been empirically linked with positive outcomes in serviced families Guterman also discusses in detail ways how home visitation may more adequately address the problem of family substance abuse in reducing child maltreatment risk and ways visitation can attend to social network and community influences and increase parent empowerment An essential text for child welfare courses Stopping Child Maltreatment Before It Starts will also appeal to practitioners and policy makers in the child abuse and neglect field
