Violence Against Women and Children: Mapping the terrain Jacquelyn W. White, Mary P. Koss, Alan E. Kazdin, 2011 Child abuse sexual and domestic violence are among the most destructive experiences afflicting women and children The wide prevalence of such violence takes an enormous toll on the lives of individual victims as well as the larger society through innumerable behavioral health psychological and economic consequences While many groups organizations and government agencies have been established to identify prevent and treat such violence our response to these problems has been piecemeal and not optimally successful A coordinated cross disciplinary synthesis of what we know how we know it and the necessary next steps is sorely needed to enable us to effectively address these issues Developed as part of an initiative by former APA President Alan Kazdin this two volume set aims to provide consensus recommendations for researchers practitioners advocates policymakers and all those who seek more effective responses to interpersonal violence In volume 1 experts from diverse disciplines describe prevalence rates among various populations risk factors for perpetration and vulnerability and protective factors for potential victims They also document the impact of violence on the victims in terms of psychological reproductive maternal and child health and behavioral and economic consequences In the process they establish commonalities across child abuse sexual and domestic violence and suggest vital next steps for collaborative efforts In volume 2 eminent scholars use a public health model to examine current societal responses to interpersonal violence Authors examine the efficacy of medical and psychological treatments for victims families and perpetrators as well as justice system responses to various forms of child abuse sexual violence and domestic violence Interventions are suggested at several levels of prevention including initiatives designed to eradicate the problem primary prevention reduce it among those at risk secondary prevention and minimize the negative consequences of violence and stabilize health tertiary prevention Finally the editors present an integrative conclusion that provides a sound foundation for future responses across practice research advocacy and policy at the local and national level
