Osanloo, Cosette M. Grant, 2015-06-01 This authoritative handbook examines the community district and teacher leadership roles that affect urban schools It will serve as a foundation for pedagogical and educational leadership practices that foster social justice equity and advocacy for those who have been traditionally and historically underserved in education The handbook s ten sections cover topics as diverse as curriculum instruction and educational outcomes gender race and class higher education and leadership preparation and support Its twenty nine chapters offer both American and international perspectives Research in Education ,1968 Urban School Principal Leadership Preparation James David Smith, 2008

Resources in Education ,1980 Changing Urban Education Clarence Nathan Stone, 1998 With critical issues like desegregation and funding facing our schools dissatisfaction with public education has reached a new high Teachers decry inadequate resources while critics claim educators are more concerned with job security than effective teaching Though urban education has reached crisis proportions contending players have difficulty agreeing on a common program of action This book tells why Changing Urban Education confronts the prevailing naivete in school reform by examining the factors that shape reinforce or undermine reform efforts Edited by one of the nation s leading urban scholars it examines forces for change and resistance in urban education and proposes that the barrier to reform can only be overcome by understanding how schools fit into the broader political contexts of their cities Much of the problem with our schools lies with the reluctance of educators to recognize the profoundly political character of public education The contributors show how urban political contexts vary widely with factors like racial composition the role of the teachers union and relations between cities and surrounding metropolitan areas Presenting case studies of original field research in Baltimore Chicago Houston and six other urban areas they consider how resistance to desegregation and the concentration of the poor in central urban areas affect education and they suggest how cities can build support for reform through the involvement of business and other community players By demonstrating the complex interrelationship between urban education and politics this book shows schools to be not just places for educating children but also major employers and large spenders of tax dollars It also introduces the concept of civic capacity the ability of educators and non educators to work together on common goals and suggests that this key issue must be addressed before education can be improved Changing Urban Education makes it clear to educators that the outcome of reform efforts depends heavily on their political context as it reminds political scientists that education is a major part of the urban mix While its prognosis is not entirely optimistic it sets forth important guidelines that cannot be ignored if our schools are to successfully prepare children for the future The Praeger Handbook of Urban

Education Joe L. Kincheloe, 2006 Maintaining that there is nothing simple about urban education this work approaches the study of schooling in cities as a complex universe of the poorest students and schools alongside the wealthiest Handbook of Research on Teachers of Color and Indigenous Teachers Conra D. Gist, Travis J. Bristol, 2022-10-15 Teachers of Color and Indigenous Teachers are underrepresented in public schools across the United States of America with Black Indigenous and People of Color making up roughly 37% of the adult population and 50% of children but just 19% of the teaching force Yet research over decades has indicated their positive impact on student learning and social and emotional development particularly for Students of Color and Indigenous Students A first of its kind the Handbook of Research on Teachers of Color and Indigenous Teachers addresses key issues and obstacles to ethnoracial diversity across the life course of teachers careers such as recruitment and retention professional development and the role of minority serving institutions Including chapters from leading researchers and policy makers the Handbook is designed to be an important resource to help bridge the gap between scholars practitioners and policy makers In doing so this research will serve as a launching pad for discussion and change at this critical moment in our country s history The volume s goal is to drive conversations around the issue of ethnoracial teacher diversity and to provide concrete practices for policy makers and practitioners to enable them to make evidence based decisions for supporting an ethnoracially diverse educator workforce now and in the future Urban Education Arthur D. Little, Inc, 1969 Building Civic Capacity , 2001 The authors of this volume argue that urban education is in urgent need of reform and that although there have been plenty of innovative and even promising attempts to improve conditions most have been doomed The reason for this they agree lies in the failure of our major cities to develop their civic capacity The ability to build and maintain a broad social and political coalition across all sectors of the urban community in pursuit of a common goal Funding Public Schools Kenneth K. Wong, 1999 This book examines the fundamental role of politics in funding our public schools and fills a conceptual imbalance in the current literature in school finance and educational policy Unlike those who are primarily concerned about cost efficiency Kenneth Wong specifies how resources are allocated for what purposes at different levels of the government In contrast to those who focus on litigation as a way to reduce funding gaps he underscores institutional stalemate and the lack of political will to act as important factors that affect legislative deadlock in school finance reform Wong defines how politics has sustained various types of rules that affect the allocation of resources at the federal state and local level While these rules have been remarkably stable over the past twenty to thirty years they have often worked at cross purposes by fragmenting policy and constraining the education process at schools with the greatest needs Wong s examination is shaped by several questions How do these rules come about What role does politics play in retention of the rules Do the federal state and local governments espouse different policies In what ways do these policies operate at cross purposes How do they affect educational opportunities Do the policies cohere in ways that promote better and more equitable student outcomes Wong concludes that the five types of entrenched rules for resource allocation are rooted in existing governance arrangements and seemingly impervious to partisan shifts interest group pressures and constitutional challenge And because these rules foster policy fragmentation and embody initiatives out of step with the performance based reform agenda of the 1990s the outlook for positive change in public education is uncertain unless fairly radical approaches are employed Wong also analyzes four allocative reform models two based on the assumption that existing political structures are unlikely to change and two that seek to empower actors at the school level The two models for systemwide restructuring aimed at intergovernmental coordination and or integrated governance would seek to clarify responsibilities for public education among federal state and local authorities above all integrating political and educational accountability The other two models identified by Wong shift control from state and district to the school one based on local leadership and the other based on market forces In discussing the guiding principles of the four models Wong takes care to identify both the potential and limitations of each Written with a broad policy audience in mind Wong s book should appeal to professionals interested in the politics of educational reform and to teachers of courses dealing with educational policy and administration and intergovernmental relations

Urban Education for the 21st Century Festus E. Obiakor, Floyd D. Beachum, 2005 This timely book exposes the complexities and realities facing urbanness and urban schools that are inadequately funded and denigrated along with students who continue to be misidentified misassessed miscategorized misplaced and misinstructed by illprepared and unprepared educators and service providers The text very successfully demonstrates the comprehensive nature and connectedness of problems and prospects in urban education This book will be an added resource to researchers scholars educators and service providers It should be an excellent required text for graduate and undergraduate courses in all branches of education Addition ally the book will be of interest to education administrators at all levels public school teachers policy makers and change agents The thirteen chapters discuss and explore the following primary topics Urban education and the quest for democracy equity and excellence Educating urban learners with and without special needs Personnel preparation and urban schools Teaching and learning in urban schools Educational leadership in urban schools Insights into educational psychology and what urban practitioners must know Managing violence in urban schools Financing urban schools Reducing the power of whiteness in urban schools Promises and challenges of building and the future perspectives of urban education information studies law and social work Policy, Leadership, and Student Achievement C. Kent McGuire, Vivian W. Ikpa, 2008-09-01 This is the second book in the series examining student achievement The chapters in this book reflect the scholarly papers presented at the July 2006 Education Policy Leadership Summer Institute EPLSI by K 16 educators researchers community advocates and policymakers who work in urban communities The Institute serves as a place where individuals interested in scholarly discussions and research directly related to 1 how data can be utilized to inform policy 2 examining the urban school context from the perspectives of the polity school leaders students and other related internal and external actors and 3 identifying strategies for improving student academic achievement can gather During this week long Institute participants examined the structural problems and policy tensions affecting urban communities and student achievement The Institute s theme Meeting the Challenges of Urban Schools is reflected throughout this book Specifically this edition explores the interrelated aspects of policy practice and research and how they affect academic achievement The five sections in this book examine different challenges facing urban schools and their impact on student performance

Challenging the One Best System Katrina E. Bulkley, Julie A. Marsh, Katharine O. Strunk, Douglas N. Harris, Ayesha K. Hashim, 2021-02-04 In Challenging the One Best System a team of leading education scholars offers a rich comparative analysis of the set of urban education governance reforms collectively known as the portfolio management model They investigate the degree to which this model a system of schools operating under different types of governance and with different degrees of autonomy challenges the standard structure of district governance famously characterized by David Tyack as the one best system The authors examine the design and enactment of the portfolio management model in three major cities New Orleans Los Angeles and Denver They identify the five interlocking mechanisms at the core of the model planning and oversight choice autonomy human capital and school supports and show how these are implemented differently in each city Using rich qualitative data from extensive interviews the authors trace the internal tensions and tradeoffs that characterize these systems and highlight the influence of historical and contextual factors as well Most importantly they question whether the portfolio management model represents a fundamental restructuring of education governance or more incremental change and whether it points in the direction of meaningful improvement in school practices Drawing on a rigorous multimethod study Challenging the One Best System represents a significant contribution to our understanding of system level change in education Transformational Leadership in Urban Educational Settings Chauncey Granger, 2017 Urban education has both internal and external challenges that place inner city students at an extreme disadvantage They are at risk of educational equity and access to knowledge and skills necessary to compete in a constantly evolving global society Oakes Franke Quartz Rogers 2002 Jean Anyon 2005 identifies failed short term educational policies such as urban family dynamics and underprepared teachers and principals as secondary contributors of the ills of urban education This challenge is compounded by the majority of students living in poverty not having their basic needs met before they begin

school each day One of the major challenges in urban education lies within school leadership In many schools teachers feel isolated from colleagues school leadership and the community The role of the principal over time has drastically evolved from a managerial role to an instructional leader role Dhuey and Smith 2014 This requires principals to become change agents that will challenge teachers to explore new and innovative ways of approaching teaching The purpose of this study is to examine leaders and faculty of secondary urban schools that provide a culture of commitment to high levels of collegiality high expectations and professional learning This research will illustrate how leaders in urban secondary schools transform the cultures of schools and raise the commitment levels of teachers while sustaining academic gains for students This research will search for evidence of a school environment conducive to the real world challenges of the twenty first century urban education The specific form of qualitative research that will be used is a collective case study In this case study maximum variation sampling was chosen to enable the researcher to identify secondary schools with sustained cultures of high academic performance located in urban areas as a means to study schools Teacher leaders will be selected by implementing a maximum variation of sampling technique identifying a group of teachers that have expertise in diversity to create a heterogeneous sampling group The Multifactor Leadership Questionnaire Appendix 1 will be used to evaluate the leadership styles of Principals The tool will allow individuals to measure their perceptions of their leadership behaviors by utilizing a self leadership form Avolio and Bass 2004 For the purpose of this research focus groups will be grouped with teachers from improved secondary urban schools which are under corrective action status by the state department of education and Principals from similar schools which utilize transformational leadership methods in their practice
