The Land Trap Mike Bird, 2025-11-04

How the world's oldest asset secretly shapes our modern economy In The Land Trap Mike Bird Wall Street editor at The Economist reveals how this ancient asset still exerts outsize influence over the modern world From the speculative land grabs of colonial America to China's real estate crisis today Bird shows how fortunes are built and destroyed on the bedrock of land Tracing three centuries of history Bird explores how land quietly became the linchpin of the global banking system driving everything from soaring housing prices to rising geopolitical tensions As governments wrestle with inequality and land grows ever scarcer The Land Trap offers a powerful new framework for understanding the hidden force behind today's most urgent challenges This is the book for anyone who wants to see beyond markets and money to the real game being played on a foundation as old as civilization itself Timely provocative and essential The Land Trap will change how you see the ground beneath your feet

Promoting Rental Housing Affordability in European Cities Marco

Peverini, 2023-11-18 This book investigates policies for the promotion of housing affordability in the rental sector of attractive cities in Europe Affordability links the housing situation to the economic situation of households referring to conditions of access to housing and to the role of housing in determining poverty or wealth The book examines the current affordability crisis and frames it in the ongoing process of urban restructuring and devolution of welfare From the perspective of the Foundational Economy the book calls for a proactive and effective role of public administrations in making the rental sector an affordable and stable alternative to housing financialization and commodification By intertwining theory construction and real world data collected through case studies in Milan and Vienna the book provides an original framework for the analysis of public policies that promote rental affordability in a multi level setting Through the analysis it highlights critical nodes of the different housing urban and social policy domains at stake in the promotion of rental affordability in attractive cities The book proposes a shift from the currently dominant supply side argument to an integrated intersectoral and multi scalar policy system for making cities more affordable

Ardeth #03 (II - Fall 2018) AA.VV., 2018-11-30 The discussion of architecture with all the visibility of its objects tends to downplay the invisible flows of money that sustain its production It is as if the dependency on economic forces is too much to face up to better then to celebrate the catalytic genius of the architectural hero and then the glorious outputs and try to ignore everything else that goes on in between This issue intends to probe the in between space of the operations of architecture examining the intersection of the projects of architecture with economies and with it their associated social and political contexts and implications It is only through a better understanding of the way that contemporary economics cut across architectural operations that one can learn to deal with these dominant forces in a resistive and transformational manner

Class Meets Land DR. MARIA. RUGGIERO KAIKA (LUCA.), Maria Kaika, Luca Ruggiero, 2024-12-03 Class Meets Land reveals something seemingly counterintuitive that nineteenth century class struggles over land are deeply implicated in twenty first century financial capitalism Narrating the closely knit stories of Milan's working class industrial elites and industrial land Maria Kaika and Luca Ruggiero foreground the tenacious role of class struggle over land in choreographing capitalist transitions They assert that land assetization and financialization are not recent phenomena but rather historical practices sculpted into the present configuration through long term rituals and struggles rooted in the everyday lives and histories of both capital and labor Exploring land assetization from the outset of capitalism's early history Kaika and Ruggiero offer a novel understanding of land financialization as a lived process the outcome of a relentless and socially embodied historical unfolding within which land performs a multiplicity of ever changing symbolic and material roles for both capital and labor as it becomes enrolled simultaneously in local class struggle cycles and the circuits of global financial capital

The Commodification Gap Matthias Bernt, 2022-05-16 THE COMMODIFICATION GAP In an elegant and careful theoretical analysis this book demonstrates how gentrification is always entwined with institutions and distinctive contextual processes Matthias Bernt develops a new concept the commodification gap which is tested in three richly researched cases With this the concept of gentrification becomes a multiplicity and the possibility of conversations across different urban contexts is expanded A richly rewarding read Jennifer Robinson Professor of Human Geography University College London UK Urban studies has reached a stalemate of universalism versus particularism Matthias Bernt is breaking out of this deadlock by being very precise about what exactly is universal and what is not and how one can conceptualize both The Commodity Gap is a key contribution to not only gentrification studies but also to comparative urbanism and urban studies at large Manuel B Aalbers Division of Geography Tourism KU Leuven Belgium The Commodification Gap provides an insightful institutionalist perspective on the field of gentrification studies The book explores the relationship between the operation of gentrification and the institutions underpinning but also influencing and restricting it in three neighborhoods in London Berlin and St Petersburg Matthias Bernt demonstrates how different institutional arrangements have resulted in the facilitation deceleration or alteration of gentrification across time and place The book is based on empirical studies conducted in Great Britain Germany and Russia and contains one of the first ever English language discussions of gentrification in Germany and Russia It begins with an examination of the limits of the widely established rent gap theory and proposes the novel concept of the commodification gap It then moves on to explore how different institutional contexts in the UK Germany and Russia have framed the conditions for these gaps to enable gentrification The Commodification Gap is an indispensable resource for researchers and academics studying human geography housing studies urban sociology and spatial planning

The Political Economy of Housing Sila

Demirors,2023-04-12 In The Political Economy of Housing The Case of Turkey Sila Demirors explores the analytical and historical process of how housing a special use value and social relation which is crucial for the social reproduction of labour power becomes an instrument of speculative finance to feed itself While the second part of the book discusses the political economy of housing in Turkey in which housing has been used by the state as both a political project and a macroeconomic tool for the last two decades the first part of the book formulates a methodological and theoretical framework to provide a comprehensive approach for comparative housing research from a Marxist political economy perspective The

Globalisation of Real Estate Dallas Rogers,Sin Koh,2018-12-07 Individual foreign investment in residential real estate by new middle class and super rich investors is re emerging as a key issue in academic policy and public debates around the world At its most abstract global real estate is increasingly thought of as a liquid asset class that is targeted by foreign individual investors who are seeking to diversify their investment portfolios But foreign investors are also motivated by intergenerational familial security transnational migration strategies and short term educational plans which are all closely entwined with global real estate investment Government and local public responses to the latest manifestation of global real estate investment have taken different forms These range from pro foreign investment primarily justified on geopolitical and macro economic grounds to anti foreign investment for reasons such as mitigating public dissent and protecting the local housing market Within this changing geopolitical context this book offers a diverse range of case studies from Canada Hong Kong Singapore Russia Australia and Korea It will be of interest to academics policymakers and university students who are interested in the globalisation of local real estate The chapters in this book were originally published in the International Journal of Housing Policy Suburban Land Question Richard Harris,Ute Lehrer,2018-01-01 The purpose of The

Suburban Land Question is to identify the common elements of land development in suburban regions around the world

Globalization and Dynamics of Urban Production Natacha Aveline-Dubach,2024-01-11 Over the last 20 years urbanization processes have undergone profound transformations under the growing influence of private actors particularly in the financial sector This has exposed the physical environment of various cities to global capital flows which has generated an overall rise in real estate values on a global scale This is often disconnected from the financial capacities of local actors primarily households which then increases the inequalities and vulnerabilities of societies regarding financial and environmental risks This book offers the keys to understanding these new dynamics of capital accumulation in the general built up environment of cities by taking into account the diversity of their configurations their intensity and their urban effects according to national contexts Beyond the cases involving the major Western countries the initial centers of the financial industry and the theorizations on the urban this book addresses the particular contexts of real estate production in four major regions Northeast Asia Southeast Asia the Middle East and West Africa Handbook of Gentrification

Studies Loretta Lees,Martin Phillips,2018-04-27 It is now over 50 years since the term gentrification was first coined by the British urbanist Ruth Glass in 1964 in which time gentrification studies has become a subject in its own right This Handbook the first ever in gentrification studies is a critical and authoritative assessment of the field Although the Handbook does not seek to rehearse the classic literature on gentrification from the 1970s to the 1990s in detail it is referred to in the new assessments of the field gathered in this volume The original chapters offer an important dialogue between existing theory and new conceptualisations of gentrification for new times and new places in many cases offering novel empirical evidence

A Research Agenda for Critical Political Economy Bill Dunn, 2020-09-25 Forward thinking and provocative this Research Agenda demonstrates different approaches to the field from experts focusing on global and local and historical and contemporary issues Eminent global scholars examine a diverse selection of interdisciplinary themes raising questions surrounding future research offering examples and linking the theory to its implications for practice and policy Land and Liberty Christopher William England, 2023-02-14 A comprehensive history of Henry George and the single tax movement In 1912 Sun Yat sen announced the birth of the Chinese Republic and promised that it would be devoted to the economic welfare of all its people In shaping his plans for wealth redistribution he looked to an American now largely forgotten in the United States Henry George In Land and Liberty Christopher William England excavates the lost history of one of America's most influential radicals and explains why so many activists were once inspired by his proposal to tax landed wealth Drawing on the private papers of a network of devoted believers Land and Liberty represents the first comprehensive account of this important movement to nationalize land and expropriate rent Beginning with concerns about rising rents in the 1870s and ending with the establishment of New Deal policies that extended public control over land natural resources and housing Georgism served as a catalyst for reforms intended to make the nation more democratic Many of these concerns remain relevant today including the exploitation of natural resources rising urban rent and wealth inequality At a time when class divisions sparked fears that capitalism and democracy were incompatible hopes of building a social welfare state using the rents of idle landlords revitalized the middle class's conviction that democracy and liberty could be reconciled Against steep odds George made land nationalization vital to the politics of a nation dominated by small farmers and helped push liberalism leftward through his calls for collective rights to land and natural resources The Spatial Organisation of Urban Agriculture in the Global South Ada G3rna, 2024-04-01 This book examines the role and position of urban agriculture in the spatial and functional structure of cities in the Global South In the face of dynamic urbanisation and negative consequences of climate change one of the key challenges is not only how to provide food for the ever growing urban population but also how to achieve urban sustainability and simultaneously reduce the negative impact of cities on the natural environment These problems are particularly urgent in the metropolises of the Global South that are experiencing the greatest population growth while struggling with increasing social inequalities and the resulting uneven distribution of resources Examining the role that urban agriculture can play in addressing these challenges this book draws on three case study cities Havana Singapore and Kigali The case studies differing in socio economic spatial political and environmental terms exemplify diverse characteristics of urban agriculture in different geographical conditions Drawing on fieldwork conducted in each city the book also provides a unique perspective on the constraints in the development of urban agriculture and the use of its full potential for urban sustainability This book will appeal to students and scholars as well as decision makers interested in the issues of urban sustainability food security spatial development and alternative food systems
