Gary Bryner, The Historical Dictionary of Environmentalism strategically skips across issues concepts time organizations and cultures not with any pretense of producing a definitive dictionary but rather with the aim of producing an inclusive wide ranging and global history of environmentalism This is done through a chronology a list of acronyms and abbreviations an introductory essay and over 300 cross referenced dictionary entries Rethinking Urban Transitions Andrés

Luque-Ayala, Simon Marvin, Harriet Bulkeley, 2018-03-15 Rethinking Urban Transitions provides critical insight for societal and policy debates about the potential and limits of low carbon urbanism It draws on over a decade of international research undertaken by scholars across multiple disciplines concerned with analysing and shaping urban sustainability transitions It seeks to open up the possibility of a new generation of urban low carbon transition research which foregrounds the importance of political geographical and developmental context in shaping the possibilities for a low carbon urban future The book's contributions propose an interpretation of urban low carbon transitions as primarily social political and developmental processes Rather than being primarily technical efforts aimed at measuring and mitigating greenhouse gases the low carbon transition requires a shift in the mode and politics of urban development The book argues that moving towards this model requires rethinking what it means to design practise and mobilize low carbon in the city while also acknowledging the presence of multiple and contested developmental pathways Key to this shift is thinking about transitions not solely as technical infrastructural or systemic shifts but also as a way of thinking about collective futures societal development and governing modes a recognition of the political and contested nature of low carbon urbanism The various contributions provide novel conceptual frameworks as well as empirically rich cases through which we can begin to interrogate the relevance of socio economic political and developmental dimensions in the making or unmaking of low carbon in the city The book draws on a diverse range of examples including world cities and ordinary cities from North America South America Europe Australia Africa India and China to provide evidence that expectations aspirations and plans to undertake purposive socio technical transitions are both emerging and encountering resistance in different urban contexts Rethinking Urban Transitions is an essential text for courses concerned with cities climate change and environmental issues in sociology politics urban studies planning environmental studies geography and the built environment The Routledge Handbook on Historic Urban Landscapes in the Asia-Pacific Kapila Silva, 2019-12-23 The Routledge Handbook on Historic Urban Landscapes in the Asia Pacific sheds light onto the balancing act of urban heritage management focusing specifically on the Asia Pacific regions in which this challenge is imminent and in need of effective solutions Urban heritage while being threatened amid myriad forces of global and ecological change provides a vital social cultural and economic asset for regeneration and sustenance of liveability of inhabited urban areas worldwide This six part volume takes a critical look at the concept of Historic Urban Landscapes the approach that UNESCO promotes to achieve holistic management of urban heritage through the lens of issues prospects and experiences of urban regeneration of the selected geo cultural context It further discusses the difficult task that heritage managers encounter in conceptualizing mapping curating and sustaining the plurality poetics and politics of urban heritage of the regions in question The connective thesis that weaves the chapters in this volume together reinforces for readers that the management of urban heritage considers cities as dynamic entities palimpsests of historical memories collages of social diversity territories of contested identities and sites for sustainable liveability Throughout this edited collection chapters argue for recognizing the totality of the eco cultural urban fabric embracing change building social cohesion and initiating strategic socio economic progress in the conservation of Historic Urban Landscapes Containing thirty seven contributions written by leading regional experts and illustrated with over 200 black and white images and tables this volume provides a much needed resource on Historic Urban Landscapes for students scholars and researchers

In Search of Climate Politics Matthew Paterson, 2021-08-26 In what ways is climate change political This book addresses this key but oddly neglected question It argues that in order to answer it we need to understand politics in a three fold way as a site of authoritative public decision making as a question of power and as a conflictual phenomenon Recurring themes center on de and re politicization and a tension between attempts to simplify climate change to a single problem and its intrinsic complexity These dynamics are driven by processes of capital accumulation and their associated subjectivities The book explores these arguments through an analysis of a specific city Ottawa which acts as a microcosm of these broader processes It provides detailed analyses of conflicts over urban planning transport and attempts by city government and other institutions to address climate change The book will be valuable for students and researches looking at the politics of climate change
