Urban Rhythms and Travel Behaviour Stefan Schönfelder, K. W. Axhausen, 2010 This analysis of newly available longitudinal data on individual trip making and activity behaviour debates the most suitable methodological tools to represent the structures of long term travel behaviour Also discussed is what such data reveals about travel behaviour Urban Rhythms and Travel Behaviour Stefan Schönfelder, Kay W. Axhausen, 2016-02-11 The recent availability of longitudinal data on individual trip making and activity behaviour has provided analysts with new insights into the structures and motives of daily life travel Multi week travel diary data sets and GPS observations are exciting sources of information for the description and modelling of the variability of individual travel patterns Through an analysis of these strong new data sets this book questions what are the most suitable methodological tools to represent the structures of long term travel behaviour It also examines what the data tells us about the travellers motives and looks at how planning should translate the findings into forecasting tools and transport strategies In doing so the multifaceted and ambiguous character of daily life travel is revealed illustrating how while sound routines in time and space seem to dominate daily life individuals show a considerable amount of variability and flexibility in travel and activity behaviour Urban Mobility and Social Equity in Latin America Daniel Oviedo, Natalia Villamizar Duarte, Ana Marcela Ardila Pinto, 2020-11-16 This volume of Transport and Sustainability focuses on how spatial and social mobilities are intertwined in the reproduction of spatial and social inequities in Latin American cities Digital Social Networks and Travel Behaviour in Urban Environments Pnina Plaut, Dalit Shach-Pinsly, 2019-10-17 This book brings together conceptual and empirical insights to explore the interconnections between social networks based on Information and Communication Technologies ICT and travel behaviour in urban environments Over the past decade rapid development of ICT has led to extensive social impacts and influence on travel and mobility patterns within urban spaces A new field of research of digital social networks and travel behaviour is now emerging This book presents state of the art knowledge cutting edge research and integrated analysis methods from the fields of social networks travel behaviour and urban analysis It explores the challenges related to the question of how we can synchronize among social networks activities transport means intelligent communication information technologies and the urban form This innovative book encourages multidisciplinary insights and fusion among three disciplines of social networks travel behaviour and urban analysis It offers new horizons for research and will be of interest to students and scholars studying mobilities transport studies urban geography urban planning the built environment and urban policy Social Networks and Travel Behaviour Matthias Kowald, Kay W. Axhausen, 2016-03-03 In aiming to understand and model peoples out of home movements the academic field of transport planning is confronted with two major challenges Firstly leisure travel is increasing in importance and is more complex and variable than work related travel being less rigid in temporal and spatial patterns and more influenced by external factors such as social contacts or weather conditions Secondly traditional aggregated transport models do not include any information on peoples social interactions or their personal social networks In contrast the recent development and availability of disaggregated models allows more detailed modelling of elements such as individual characteristics motivations constraints and travel costs as well as a consideration of influences from an actor s social environment People travel not only within an infrastructure but also within a social structure These two main factors have driven transport planners to focus on peoples interaction and their social network In recent years there have been a remarkable number of data collection efforts in the field surveying information on the link between travel behaviour and social motivation Providing an overview of selected exemplary studies this volume addresses the overlap between transport planning and methods of social network analysis applied methods of social network analysis and related empirical results and current challenges and new research questions in this field
