Zander, Jan B. F. van Erp, 2015-07-27 What can we learn from spontaneously occurring brain and other physiological signals about an individual s cognitive and affective state and how can we make use of this information One line of research that is actively involved with this question is Passive Brain Computer Interfaces BCI To date most BCIs are aimed at assisting patients for whom brain signals could form an alternative output channel as opposed to more common human output channels like speech and moving the hands However brain signals possibly in combination with other physiological signals also form an output channel above and beyond the more usual ones they can potentially provide continuous online information about an individual s cognitive and affective state without the need of conscious or effortful communication The provided information could be used in a number of ways Examples include monitoring cognitive workload through EEG and skin conductance for adaptive automation or using ERPs in response to errors to correct for a behavioral response While Passive BCIs make use of online neuro physiological responses and close the interaction cycle between a user and a computer system neuro physiological responses can also be used in an offline fashion. Examples of this include detecting amygdala responses for neuromarketing and measuring EEG and pupil dilation as indicators of mental effort for optimizing information systems. The described field of applied neuro physiology can strongly benefit from high quality scientific studies that control for confounding factors and use proper comparison conditions. Another area of relevance is ethics ranging from dubious product claims acceptance of the technology by the general public privacy of users to possible effects that these kinds of applications may have on society as a whole. In this Research Topic we aimed to publish studies of the highest scientific quality that are directed towards applications that utilize spontaneously effortlessly generated neurophysiological signals brain and or other physiological signals reflecting cognitive or affective state. We especially welcomed studies that describe specific real world applications demonstrating a significant benefit compared to standard applications. We also invited original new kinds of proposed applications in this area as well as comprehensive review articles that point out what is and what is not possible according to scientific standards in this field. Finally we welcomed manuscripts on the ethical issues that are involved. Connected to the Research Topic was a workshop held on June 6 during the Fifth International Brain Computer Interface Meeting June 3-7 2013 Asilomar California that brought together a diverse group of people who were working in this field. We discussed the state of the art and formulated major challenges as reflected in the first paper of the Research Topic.

Handbook of Satisfiability Armin Biere, Hans van Maaren, Toby Walsh, 2021-05-15 Propositional logic has been recognized throughout the centuries as one of the cornerstones of reasoning in philosophy and mathematics. Over time its formalization into Boolean algebra was accompanied by the recognition that a wide range of combinatorial problems can be expressed as propositional satisfiability SAT problems. Because of this dual role SAT developed into a mature multi faceted scientific discipline and from the earliest days of computing a search was underway to discover how to solve SAT problems in an automated fashion. This book the Handbook of Satisfiability is the second updated and revised edition of the book first published in 2009 under the same name. The handbook aims to capture the full breadth and depth of SAT and to bring together significant progress and advances in automated solving. Topics covered span practical and theoretical research on SAT and its applications and include search algorithms heuristics analysis of algorithms hard instances randomized formulae problem encodings industrial applications solvers simplifiers tools case studies and empirical results. SAT is interpreted in a broad sense so as well as propositional satisfiability there are chapters covering the domain of quantified Boolean formulae QBF constraints programming techniques CSP for word level problems and their propositional encoding and satisfiability modulo theories SMT. An extensive bibliography completes each chapter. This second edition of the handbook will be of interest to researchers graduate students final year undergraduates and practitioners using or contributing to SAT and will provide both an inspiration and a rich resource for their work. Edmund Clarke 2007 ACM Turing Award Recipient SAT solving is a key technology for 21st century computer science. Donald Knuth 1974 ACM Turing Award Recipient SAT is evidently a killer app.

because it is key to the solution of so many other problems Stephen Cook 1982 ACM Turing Award Recipient The SAT problem is at the core of arguably the most fundamental question in computer science What makes a problem hard

Blogosphere and its Exploration Christoph Meinel,Justus Broß,Philipp Berger,Patrick Hennig,2015-03-20 This book represents an attempt to fully review the phenomenon of the blogosphere The intention is to provide a reliable guide to understanding and analyzing the world of the unimaginable number of diverse blogs each consisting of innumerable posts which in their entirety form the blogosphere We go on to answer the questions of how to grasp the complexity of the blogosphere and extract useful knowledge from it In setting out to write this book our central aim was to increase the reader's awareness and understanding of the blogosphere phenomenon including its structure and characteristics This can be achieved through a better understanding of individual blogs and their particular technical characteristics as well as a deeper knowledge of how a single blog is embedded and interconnected within the entire blogosphere The shape and form of the blogosphere can be described using the analogy of different continents In our description the defining features and characteristics of the continents are illustrated by paradigmatic example blogs Following on from the structural analysis we provide details of the available methods and describe the complex challenge of automatically retrieving information from the abundance of data contained in the blogosphere Finally we present our blog search platform called BLOGINTELLIGENCE and describe all the tools and features we have developed during the last couple of years to explore the blogosphere
