Transnational Agrarian Movements Confronting Globalization 2008 11 1:

The Political Economy of the Agri-Food System in Thailand Prapimphan Chiengkul, 2017-05-08 This book adopts a neo Marxist and Gramscian approach to studying the political economy of the agricultural and food system in Thailand 1990 2014 The author argues that hegemonic forces have many measures to co opt dissent into hegemonic structures and that counter hegemony should be seen as an ongoing process over a long period of time where predominantly counter hegemonic forces constrained by political economic structural conditions may at times retain some hegemonic elements Contrary to what some academic studies suggest the author argues that localist inspired social movements in Thailand are not insular and anti globalisation

Transnational Agrarian Movements Confronting Globalization Saturnino M. International Political Economy and the Global South Zaynab El Bernoussi, Adriana María Garriga-López, Giuliano Martiniello, Bashir Saade, 2025-06-13 International Political Economy and the Global South provides students from both the Global South and the Global North a textbook that speaks to distinct concepts categories and issues of International Political Economy IPE from a Southern and Northern perspective while identifying how they differ The primary goal is to provide an alternative or complementary reading of IPE derived from the experiences of the periphery The textbook asks how has the Global South responded to the demands of a global economy What is the meaning of sovereignty to those who have experienced colonialism and imperialism How can the Global South claim the international when the Global North sets its norms institutions and practices It opens with a standard introduction offering an intellectual history of key IPE concepts including state firm capital power labor globalization and finance Each subsequent chapter follows a similar structure exploration of the problem discussion of what may be missing from dominant understandings of the problem and or how orthodox IPE may tell us something different about the problem compared to what is experienced in the Global South and identification of alternative frameworks and perspectives Aiming to de Westernize and decentralize the production of knowledge the textbook introduces students to the discipline and phenomenon of IPE with a genuinely global perspective

The Politics of Inequality David Pettinicchio, 2021-07-19 For its breadth and depth of research this volume of Research in Political Sociology is essential reading for researchers and students of Politics Sociology and Policy Land and Resource Scarcity Andreas Exner, 2013 This book brings together geological biological radical economic technological historical and social perspectives on peak oil and other scarce resources The contributors to this volume argue that these scarcities will put an end to the capitalist system as we know it and alternatives must be created The book combines natural science with emancipatory thinking focusing on bottom up alternatives and social struggles to change the world by taking action The volume introduces original contributions to the debates on peak oil land grabbing and social alternatives thus creating a synthesis to gain an overview of the multiple crises of our times The book sets out to analyse how crises of energy climate metals minerals and the soil relate to the global land grab which has accelerated greatly since 2008 as well as to examine the crisis of profit production and political legitimacy Based on a theoretical understanding of the multiple crises and the effects of peak oil and other scarcities on capital accumulation the contributors explore the social innovations that provide an alternative Using the most up to date research on resource crises this integrative and critical analysis brings together the issues with a radical perspective on possibilities for future change as well as a strong social economic and ethical dimension The book should be of interest to researchers and students of environmental policy politics sustainable development and natural resource management

Human Rights and the Food Sovereignty Movement Priscilla Claeys, 2015-01-09 Our global food system is undergoing rapid change Since the global food crisis of 2007 2008 a range of new issues have come to public attention such as land grabbing food prices volatility agrofuels and climate change Peasant social movements are trying to respond to these challenges by organizing from the local to the global to demand food sovereignty As the transnational agrarian movement La Via Campesina celebrates its 20th anniversary this book takes stock of the movement's achievements and reflects on challenges for the future It provides an in depth analysis of the movement's vision and strategies and shows how it has contributed not only to the emergence of an alternative development paradigm but also of an alternative conception of human rights The book assesses efforts to achieve the international recognition of new human rights for peasants at the international level namely the right to food sovereignty and peasants rights It explores why La Via Campesina was successful in mobilizing a human rights discourse in its struggle against neoliberalism and also the limitations and potential pitfalls of using the human rights framework The book shows that to inject subversive potential in their rights based claims rural social activists developed an alternative conception of rights that is more plural less statist less individualistic and more multi cultural than dominant conceptions of human rights Further they deployed a combination of institutional from above and extrainstitutional from below strategies to demand new rights and reinforce grassroots mobilization through rights

Food Sovereignty in International Context Amy Trauger, 2015-02-11 Food sovereignty is an emerging discourse of empowerment and autonomy in the food system with the development of associated practices in rural and some urban spaces While literature on food sovereignty has proliferated since the first usage of the term in 1996 at the Rome Food Summit most has been descriptive rather than explanatory in nature and often confuses food sovereignty with other movements and objectives such as alternative food networks food justice or food self sufficiency This book is a collection of empirically rich and theoretically engaged papers across a broad geographical spectrum reflecting on what constitutes the politics and practices of food sovereignty They contribute to a theoretical gap in the food sovereignty literature as well as a relative shortage of empirical work on food sovereignty in the global North much previous work having focussed on Latin America Specific case studies are included from Canada Norway Switzerland southern Europe UK and USA as well as Africa India and Ecuador The book presents new research on the emergence of food sovereignties It offers a wide variety of empirical examples and a theoretically engaged framework for explaining the aims of actors and organizations working toward autonomy and democracy in the food system

Transnational Agrarian Movements Confronting Globalization Saturnino M. Borras, Jr., Marc Edelman, Cristóbal Kay, 2009-02-23 Readers of this book will encounter peasants and farmers who struggle at home and traverse national borders to challenge the World Trade Organization and other powerful global institutions Studies the activists in Brazil who uproot plots of genetically modified soybeans forest dwellers in Indonesia who chop down rubber plantations to cultivate rice to feed their families runaway villages in China that take up arms to resist corrupt officials and Mexican migrants who having exited in desperation return from abroad to transform their communities Little known transnational agrarian movements of the early twentieth century share the stage with more recent high profile global alliances such as V a Campesina Celebrates a dynamic sector of international civil society and tackles the thorny questions of successes and failures ethical and political dilemmas troubled alliances with NGOs protest repertoires and representation claims Analyzes contemporary collective action in all its complexity acknowledging ambiguities and contradictions posing challenging questions and providing concrete strategies for scholars and activists

People Power Howard Clark, 2009-09-15 Across the world nonviolent movements are in the forefront of resistance against repression imperial aggression and corporate abuse However it is often difficult for activists in other countries to know how best to assist such movements The contributors to Unarmed Resistance and Global Solidarity place nonviolent struggles in an international context where solidarity can play a crucial role Yet they also warn that good intentions are not enough solidarity has to listen to local movements Using clear examples the contributors assess various forms of solidarity criticizing those in the global North who try to impose their view of what is possible and arguing that a central role of solidarity is to strengthen the counter power of those resisting domination and oppression The British National Edelman, Saturnino M. Borras, Jr., 2016-01-15 Transnational agrarian movements TAMs are organizations networks coalitions and solidarity linkages of farmers peasants pastoralists and their allies that cross national boundaries and seek to influence national and global policies Today s TAMs have contributed to reframing a wide range of debates and practices in the fields of international development and agrarian and social movement studies including sustainability and climate change land rights and agrarian reform food sovereignty neoliberal economics and global trade rules corporate control of seeds and technology the human rights of peasants and gender equity In Political Dynamics of Transnational Agrarian Movements Marc Edelman and Saturnino M Borras Jr offer a state of the art review of scholarship on transnational agrarian movements a synthetic history of TAMs from the early twentieth century to the present and an analytical guide to TAM research

Peasant Politics of the Twenty-First Century Marc Edelman, 2024-02-15 Peasant Politics of the Twenty First Century illuminates the transnational agrarian movements that are remaking rural society and the world s food and agriculture systems Marc Edelman explains how peasant movements are staking their claims from farmers fields to massive protests around the world shaping heated debates over peasants rights and the very category of peasant within the agrarian organizations and in the United Nations Edelman chronicles the rise of these movements their objectives and their alliances with environmental human rights women s and food justice groups The book scrutinizes high profile activists and the forgotten genealogies and policy implications of foundational analytical frameworks like moral economy and concepts such as food sovereignty and civil society Peasant Politics of the Twenty First Century charts the struggle of agrarian movements in the face of land grabbing counter agrarian reform and a looming climate catastrophe and celebrates engaged research from Central America to the UN Human Rights Council in Geneva Contesting Global Values Mahmoud Nimir Musa, 2011-08 How should the world be organized And how should values be prioritized There is an ongoing struggle between two visions one advocating a world economic system and the other a global society On the one hand are the transnational corporations and the politicians supporting them who are continuously working to gain access to cheap labor natural resources markets and the promotion of a culture of consumerism On the other hand are workers and citizens who seek to place human rights norms the well being of the individual and environmental sustainability at the center of policy While the global Neoliberal network is rich in resources densely organized and rather clear in its goals its rival is resource poor and faces many challenges Can human rights peace and international law women s and worker s rights networks coalesce into a global justice movement Can the global North South gap be bridged And what organizational forms should be employed What contributed to the growth of transnational social movements during the last two decades and how does this episode of contention differ from others in history The book first develops a conceptual framework for understanding the two competing networks and the world political system in which they operate This is followed by elaborating five of the major social movements human rights environmental justice women s rights labor solidarity and development The third part discusses the opportunities and challenges facing the global justice movement

Contested Global Governance Space and Transnational Agrarian Movements Mauro Conti,2023-09-21T00:00:00Z This book is the first scholarly study of the new transnational agrarian movements TAMs from their perspective It explores how they strategize within the global governance of agriculture to confront neoliberal aims of expanding capital penetration in the countryside TAMs oppose this phase of financialization and instead foster a system based on agroecology and re peasantization of production valuing labour and natural resources over capital The book outlines how TAMs defend food sovereignty and oppose neoliberal policies in the context of climate change negotiations It is written from their perspective merging scholarship with activism through a methodology of observant participation

Naming the Enemy Amory Starr,2000-10-27 The events around the WTO conference in Seattle focused attention on the rise of social movements opposing globalisation and the power of corporations This work is the first systematic analysis of these diverse at present uncoordinated movements They are a new phenomenon that has as yet received scant media or scholarly attention But it is likely to assume much greater political prominence as the globalised economy dominated by giant corporations fails to deliver on jobs social justice development and th environment The dialectic between public opposition and the corporate sector s response is likely to shape how our economic institutions will change in the coming years

La Via Campesina Annette Aurelie Desmarais,2007-06-20 La Via Campesina is one of the world s largest and most important transnational social movements Formed in 1993 it brings together rural women peasants indigenous communities small scale farmers and farm workers from around the world Comprising millions of people it is a leading force against the globalization of a neo liberal and corporate led model of agriculture This book explores the movement from the inside Annette Aurelie Desmarais a former grain farmer and long time participant in La Via Campesina shows how peasants and small scale farmers have found the strength to challenge multinational agribusiness corporations and international institutions whose power and influence increasingly dictate government policy This book accompanies La Via Campesina in a struggle to keep people on the land producing food and culture and building viable communities

Naming the Enemy Amory Starr,2000-10-27 A new movement of anti globalists in Time Magazine s words 24 April 2000 now oppose corporate dominion over the planet s poor and disfranchised Naming the Enemy is the first systematic documentation of this international resistance to transnational corporations and globalization which has so recently burst into the public gaze with the street protests in Seattle Washington London and Prague A wide and heterogeneous range of social movements now oppose the very fundamentals of market capitalism Their challenge is beginning Amory Starr shows to amount to a sweeping critique of its purposes and practice She explains how these movements understand their enemies and what sort of future they envision There are she suggests three basic types Movements trying to constrain corporate power through democratic institutions and direct action Movements attempting a completely different kind of globalization from below in which corporations will be reshaped in the service of new international democratic structures that will be populist participatory and just Movements seeking to delink their localities and communities from the global economy and rebuild instead small scale societies in which large corporations have no role at all This new phenomenon has received scant media or scholarly attention But it is likely to become much more important politically as the globalized economy dominated by giant corporations and institutions like the World Bank and IMF fails to deliver on jobs social justice Third World development and the environment The course of this new kind of political struggle will have huge implications for human welfare and civil liberties This unique and important book is relevant to activists as well as students and scholars of globalization new social movements and political economy Global Revolt

Amory Starr, 2005-05 Millions of people have already become active in rejecting corporate globalization and developing alternatives to it Millions more know that something is terribly wrong and are ready to begin taking action This book is for them Amory Starr is author of Naming the Enemy a book that foresaw the emergent anti globalization network nearly a decade ago Here she provides in concise and engaging style and with activist insight i a history of the movements emergence ii an outline of their analyses and aims iii a digest of the ongoing controversies and dilemmas and iv an inspiring co
