We Are Iran The Persian Blogs:

We are Iran Nasrin Alavi, 2005 We Are Iran is a seamlessly edited multi voiced portrait of contemporary Iran translated from Farsi using that nation's weblogs as its primary source Iran has more web diarists than most countries and in cyberspace many Iranians find a freedom to express opinions that is not available to them in print Theirs is not the Iran of bearded ayatollahs and thuggish militias but a country that has educated itself to the point where it finds the Islamist fundamentalists antiquated and laughable where adult literacy and computer literacy is higher than in many European states and where 70 per cent of the population is under 30 and keen to usher in a new Iran Their voices infused with Persian lyricism are refreshing utterly at odds with the grim vision of the country peddled by Western governments They talk of their conflicts with the law the condition of women of repression and its subversion the police and media of singing and dancing of snatched romance and nostalgia for lost heroes Reading We Are Iran you have the sense that for more reasons than are obvious the worst thing that could possibly happen to Iran now would be a US attack

We Are Iran Nasrin Alavi, 2005-11-08 In September 2001 a young Iranian journalist Hossein Derakhshan created one of the first weblogs in Farsi When he also devised a simple how to blog guide for Iranians it unleashed a torrent of hitherto unheard opinions There are now 64 000 blogs in Farsi and Nasrin Alavi has painstakingly reviewed them all weaving the most powerful and provocative into a striking picture of the flowering of dissent in Iran From one blogger's blasting of the Supreme Leader as a pimp to another's mourning for an identity crushed by the stifling protection of her male relatives this collection functions not only as an archive of Iranians thoughts on their country culture religion and the rest of the world but also as an alternative recent history of Iran Government crackdowns may soon still these voices in February 2005 one blogger was sentenced to 14 years in jail and We Are Iran may serve as the only serious record of their existence

Young and Defiant in Tehran Shahram Khosravi, 2011-09-28 With more than half its population under twenty years old Iran is one of the world's most youthful nations The Iranian state characterizes its youth population in two ways as a homogeneous mass an army of twenty millions devoted to the Revolution and as alienated inauthentic Westernized consumers who constitute a threat to the society Much of the focus of the Islamic regime has been on ways to protect Iranian young people from moral hazards and to prevent them from providing a gateway for cultural invasion from the West Iranian authorities express their anxieties through campaigns that target the young generation and its lifestyle and have led to the criminalization of many of the behaviors that make up youth culture In this ethnography of contemporary youth culture in Iran's capital Shahram Khosravi examines how young Tehranis struggle for identity in the battle over the right to self expression Khosravi looks closely at the strictures confronting Iranian youth and the ways transnational cultural influences penetrate and flourish Focusing on gathering places such as shopping centers and coffee shops Khosravi examines the practices of everyday life through which young Tehranis demonstrate defiance against the official culture and parental dominance In addition to being sites of opposition Khosravi argues these alternative spaces serve as creative centers for expression and above all imagination His analysis reveals the transformative power these spaces have and how they enable young Iranians to develop their own culture as well as individual and generational identities The text is enriched by examples from literature and cinema and by vivid reports from the author's fieldwork Iran, 2008 Politics of Rightful Killing Sima Shakhsari, 2020-01-17 In the early 2000s mainstream international news outlets celebrated the growth of Weblogistan the online and real life transnational network of Iranian bloggers and depicted it as a liberatory site that gave voice to Iranians As Sima Shakhsari argues in Politics of Rightful Killing the common assumptions of Weblogistan as a site of civil society consensus and resistance to state oppression belie its deep internal conflicts While Weblogistan was an effective venue for some Iranians to practice democracy it served as a valuable site for the United States to surveil bloggers and express anti Iranian sentiment and policies At the same time bloggers used the network to self police and enforce gender and sexuality norms based on Western liberal values in ways that unwittingly undermined Weblogistan's claims of democratic participation In this way Weblogistan became a site of cybergovernmentality where biopolitical security regimes disciplined and regulated populations Analyzing online and off line ethnography Shakhsari provides an account of digital citizenship that raises questions about the internet's relationship to political engagement militarism and democracy Journal of the Society of Christian Ethics, 2009

Edinburgh Companion to the Postcolonial Middle East Ball Anna Ball, 2018-11-14 This Edinburgh Companion seeks to develop a postcolonial framework for addressing the Middle East The first collection of essays on this subject it assembles some of the world's foremost postcolonialists to explore the critical theoretical and disciplinary possibilities that inquiry into this region opens for postcolonial studies Throughout its twenty four chapters its focus is on literary and cultural critique It draws on texts and contexts from the late nineteenth to the early twenty first centuries as case studies and deploys the concept of post colonial modernity to reveal the enduring impact of colonial and imperial power on the shaping of the region And it covers a wide and significant range of political social and cultural issues in the Middle East during that period including the heritage of Orientalism in the region the roots and contemporary branches of the Israel Palestine conflict colonial history state formation and cultures of resistance in Egypt Turkey the Maghreb and the wider Arab world the clash of tradition and modernity in regional and transnational expressions of Islam the politics of gender and sexuality in the Arab world the ongoing crises in Libya Iraq Iran and Syria the Arab Spring and the Middle Eastern refugee crisis in Europe

Iranophobia Haggai Ram, 2009-04-16 Moving beyond conventional political and strategic analyses of the Israeli Iranian conflict Iranophobia shows that Israeli concerns are emblematic of contemporary domestic fears about Israeli identity and society HWM, 2005-01 Singapore's leading tech magazine gives its readers the power to decide with its informative articles and in depth reviews Iran Hamid Dabashi, 2007 Iran A People Interrupted deals with current affairs and politics in the Middle East New Media Albert Rolls, 2006 This book looks at the explosion of music and video downloads and

Blogosphere Michael Keren,2006-09-15 Examining the web logs or blogs of individuals from a variety of continents and cultures this book highlights the nature of blogosphere the virtual public arena of the early 21st century which alters the traditional world of media and politics It characterizes this new arena by the unique combination of a fresh voice of emancipation and a deep sense of melancholy and isolationism This journey through blogosphere highlights major forces operating in today s politics apathy toward political affairs resistance to globalization a quest for redemption through religious fundamentalism and terrorism Michael Keren compares bloggers to terrorists arguing that while the methods advocated by the two groups are obviously very different they both represent a similar trend one of diversion by respected but disenchanted citizens from the norms of civil society to a fantasy world in which the excessive use of words_or bombs_would make everybody listen
