Internationalization of Chinese Automobile Companies Garnet Kasperk,RWTH Aachen University. Center for International Automobile Management. CIAM,2011 Adaptronics and Smart Structures Hartmut Janocha,2007-10-10 Adaptronic structures and systems can adapt automatically to variable operating and environmental conditions through the use of feedback control But in contrast to conventional control loops in which each function is fulfilled by a separate component adaptronics is characterized by multifunctional components that are preferably integrated into the structure or the system The goal is a lightweight and simple construction for conserving material and energy resources The authors of this book have taken on the task of displaying the current state of the art in this highly modern and strongly interdisciplinary field Selected application examples are also presented and current development trends demonstrated

Multinationals, Global Value Chains and Governance Peter Hertenstein,2019-08-16 This book uses the examples of local supply firms in China and Brazil and their connections to the global automotive industry to explore the nature of current global value chains It argues that lead firms make use of product architecture to globalize their procurement and supply chain management and that they effectively restructure the global supply base by internationalizing the most capable supply firms thereby creating oligopolies controlled by the lead firm The book goes on to contend that some firms have gained such powerful positions that they have gained a degree of control over other firms without the necessity of ownership altering the mechanics of governance Also it shows how although some supply firms from emerging markets have utilized their business ties with western assembly firms to upgrade themselves within the global value chain most are squeezed out through increased global competition Overall the book makes a major new contribution to the economic theory of governance
