Manhein, 1999-03-01 On the first day of the search I failed to find the body So writes forensic anthropologist and bioarchaeologist Mary H. Manhein or the bone lady as law enforcement personnel call her In this one of dozens of stories recollected in her powerful memoir Manhein and the state police eventually unearth a black plastic bag buried in the banks of the Mississippi River containing the body of a man who has been missing for five years After the painstaking process of examining the remains confirming the victim's identity and preparing a formal report for the police Manhein testifies for the prosecution at the murder trial The defendant is convicted in no small part because of Manhein and the bone lady has helped solve yet another mystery As director of the Forensic Anthropology and Computer Enhancement Services FACES Laboratory at Louisiana State University Manhein unravels mysteries of life and death every day In The Bone Lady she shares with the compassion and humor of a born storyteller many fascinating cases that include the science underlying her analyses as well as the human stories behind the remains Manhein an expert on the human skeleton assists law enforcement by providing profiles of remains that narrow the identification process when the traditional means used by medical examiners or coroners to conduct autopsies are no longer applicable simply put when bones are all that are left to tell the story She assesses age sex race height signs of trauma and time since death and creates clay facial reconstructions Although Manhein enjoys solving high profile cases her personal crusade is identifying the John and Jane Does who wait in her lab Manhein's own words perfectly characterize her mission Identifying a victim can bring peace of mind to the family and can help them to go on with their lives Sometimes peace of
