

The background of the cover is a photograph of a sunset over a calm body of water. In the foreground, a wooden dock extends from the left, with a small boat moored at its end. A person and a dog are silhouetted on the dock, looking out at the water. The sky is filled with soft, golden light from the setting sun, reflecting on the water's surface. Tall reeds are visible on the right side of the dock.

The worldview of violent sex offenders is so alien to many of us that to consider them in detail up close and personal can feel much like going down the rabbit hole This work is a personal professional memoir written by a clinical psychologist who followed this rabbit hole deeply Working with sex offenders psychopaths sadists and other offenders for forty years Anna C Salter learned lessons about malice where it comes from and what it s really like to come face to face with what much of society considers to be true evil This book is a highly personal nonfiction account exploring the nature of malice and includes the impact of working with malice on those exposed to it Throughout her career Dr Sadler never lost her sense of incredulity at the sometimes harrowing worldviews she encountered but nor will she ever forget what she learned there or what it was like to finally leave it behind
