The Pedagogy of Images Marina Balina, Serguei A. Oushakine, 2021-06-01 In the 1920s with the end of the revolution the Soviet government began investing resources and energy into creating a new type of book for the first generation of young Soviet readers In a sense these early books for children were the ABCs of Soviet modernity creatively illustrated and intricately designed they were manuals and primers that helped the young reader enter the field of politics through literature Children's books provided the basic vocabulary and grammar for understanding new post revolutionary realities but they also taught young readers how to perceive modern events and communist practices Relying on a process of dual media rendering illustrated books presented propaganda as a simple repeatable narrative or verse while also casting it in easily recognizable graphic images A vehicle of ideology object of affection and product of labour all in one the illustrated book for the young Soviet reader emerged as an important cultural phenomenon Communist in its content it was often avant gardist in its form Spotlighting three thematic threads communist goals pedagogy and propaganda The Pedagogy of Images traces the formation of a mass modern readership through the creation of the communist inflected visual and narrative conventions that these early readers were meant to appropriate

The People of the Book and the Camera Ofra Amihay, 2022-06-30 Amihay offers a pioneering study of the unique nexus between literature and photography in the works of Hebrew authors Exploring the use of photography both as a textual element and through the inclusion of actual images Amihay shows how the presence of visual elements in a textual work of fiction has a powerful subversive function Contemporary Hebrew authors have turned to photography as a tool to disrupt narratives and give voice to marginalized sectors in Israel including women immigrants Mizrahi Israelis LGBTQ individuals second generation Holocaust survivors and traumatized army veterans Amihay discusses standard novels alongside graphic novels challenging the dominance of the written word in literature In addition to providing a poetic analysis of imagetext pages Amihay addresses the social and political issues authors are responding to including gender roles Zionism the ethnic divide in Israel and its Palestinian minority In exploring these avant garde novels and their authors Amihay elevates their significance and calls for a more expansive definition of canonical Hebrew literature

Writing in Red Nergis Ertürk, 2024-05-21 The republic of Turkey and the Soviet Union both emerged from the wreckage of empires surrounding

World War I and pathways of literary exchange soon opened between the two revolutionary states. Even as the Turkish government pursued a friendly relationship with the USSR it began to persecute communist writers. Whether going through official channels or fleeing repression many Turkish writers traveled to the Soviet Union during the 1920s and 1930s publishing original work editing prominent literary journals and translating both Russian classics and Soviet literature into Turkish. Writing in Red traces the literary and exilic itineraries of Turkish communist and former communist writers examining revolutionary aesthetics and politics across Turkey and the Soviet Union from the mid 1920s through the 1960s. Nergis Ertürk considers a wide range of texts spanning genres such as erotic comedy historical fiction and film and socialist realist novels and theater by writers including Nazım Hikmet Veli Nureddin Nizamettin Nazif Suat Dervi and Abidin Dino. She argues that these works belong simultaneously to modern Turkish literature a transnational Soviet republic of letters and the global literary archive of world revolution alongside those of other writers who made the magic pilgrimage to Moscow. Exploring how Turkish communist writers on the run produced a remarkable transnational literature of dissent Writing in Red offers a new account of global revolutionary literary culture.

Romancing Fascism Kathleen Kerr-Koch, 2013-04-11

Romancing Fascism argues that intellectual responsibility can only be safeguarded if criticism is mobilised both as a poetic and as a critically enlightened endeavour. In this analysis of allegory as a function of modernity what is made clear is the difficulty if not impossibility of definitively determining the genealogical antecedents of intellectual trends particularly those considered pernicious to clear thinking. Thus Kerr Koch takes a wide ranging approach to the analysis of allegory as it is treated by three controversial writers whose works flank the 19th and 20th centuries the middle and late periods of what we call modernity: Walter Benjamin Paul de Man and Percy Bysshe Shelley. These three writers have been chosen because they have been at some point recuperated for a theory of postmodernism a term that for some theorists represents liberal free play and for others represents a lack of rigour and a pernicious corruption of thought.

The Materiality of Literary Narratives in Urban History Lieven Ameel, Jason Finch, Silja Laine, Richard Dennis, 2019-08-12

The Materiality of Literary Narratives in Urban History explores a variety of geographical and cultural contexts to examine what literary texts grasped as material objects and reflections on urban materialities have to offer for urban history. The contributing writers approach to literary narratives and materialities in urban history is summarised within the conceptualisation of materiality in literature: the way in which literary narratives at once refer to the material world and actively partake in the material construction of the world. This book takes a geographically multipolar and multidisciplinary approach to discuss cities in the UK the US India South Africa Finland and France whilst examining a wide range of textual genres from the novel to cartoons advertising copy architecture and urban planning and archaeological writing. In the process attention is drawn to narrative complexities embedded within literary fiction and to the dialogue between narratives and historical change. The Materiality of Literary Narratives in Urban History has three areas of focus: literary fiction as form of urban materiality literary narratives as social investigations of the material city and the narrating of silenced material lives as witnessed in various narrative sources

Television and the Self Kathleen M. Ryan, Deborah A. Macey, 2013-04-05 Sitting prominently at the hearth of our homes television serves as a voice of our modern time Given our media saturated society and television s prominent voice and place in the home it is likely we learn about our society and selves through these stories These narratives are not simply entertainment but powerful socializing agents that shape and reflect the world and our role in it Television and the Self Knowledge Identity and Media Representation brings together a diverse group of scholars to investigate the role television plays in shaping our understanding of self and family This edited collection s rich and diverse research demonstrates how television plays an important role in negotiating self and goes far beyond the treacly very special episodes found in family sitcoms in the 1980s Instead the authors show how television reflects our reality and helps us to sort out what it means to be a twenty first century man or woman

Comics and the Senses Ian Hague, 2014-01-10 Attempts to define what comics are and explain how they work have not always been successful because they are premised upon the idea that comic strips comic books and graphic novels are inherently and almost exclusively visual This book challenges that premise and asserts that comics is not just a visual medium The book outlines the multisensory aspects of comics the visual audible tactile olfactory and gustatory elements of the medium It rejects a synaesthetic approach by which all the senses are engaged through visual stimuli and instead argues for a truly multisensory model by which the direct stimulation of the reader s physical senses can be understood A wide range of examples demonstrates how multisensory communication systems work in both commercial and more experimental contexts The book concludes with a case study that looks at the works of Alan Moore and indicates areas of interest that multisensory analysis can draw out but which are overlooked by more conventional approaches

Imaginary Worlds Wayne Fife, 2022-08-08 In this work the author contends that we should create a comparative framework for the study of imaginary worlds in the social sciences Making use of extended examples from both science fiction and fantasy fiction as well as the living movement of steampunk the reader is invited to an argument about how best to define imaginary worlds and approach them as social locations for qualitative research It is suggested in this volume that increasing economic and existential forms of alienation fuel the contemporary surge of participation in imaginary worlds from gaming worlds to young adult novels and impel a search for more humane forms of social and cultural organization Suggestions are made about the usefulness of imaginary worlds to social scientists as places for both testing out theoretical formulations and as tools for teaching in our classrooms

Gaps and the Creation of Ideas Judith Seligson, 2021-03-08 Gaps and the Creation of Ideas An Artist s Book is a portrait of the space between things whether they be neurons quotations comic book frames or fragments in a collage This twenty year project is an artist s book that juxtaposes quotations and images from hundreds of artists and writers with the author s own thoughts Using Adobe InDesign for composition and layout the author has structured the book to show analogies among disparate texts and images There have always been gaps

but a focus on the space between things is virtually synonymous with modernity Often characterized as a break modernity is a story of gaps Around 1900 many independent strands of gap thought and experience interacted and interwove more intricately Atoms textiles theories women Jews collage poetry patchwork and music figure prominently in these strands The gap is a ubiquitous phenomenon that crosses the boundaries of neuroscience rabbinic thinking modern literary criticism art popular culture and the structure of matter This book explores many subjects but it is ultimately a work of art

Anamnesia Peter Collier, Anna Magdalena Elsner, Olga Smith, 2009 Memory has always been crucial to French literature and culture as a means of mediating the relationship between perception and knowledge of the individual coming to terms with his identity in time Relatively recently memory has also emerged as the key force in the creation of a collective consciousness in the wider perspective of French cultural history This collection of essays selected from the proceedings of a seminar on Memory given by Dr Emma Wilson at the University of Cambridge offers a fresh evaluation of memory as both a cultural and an individual phenomenon in modern and contemporary French culture including literature cinema and the visual arts Anamnesia the book's title develops the Aristotelian concept of anamnesis recollection as a dynamic and creative process which includes forgetting as much as remembering concealment as much as imagination Memory in this extremely diverse range of essays is therefore far from being presented as a straightforward process of recalling the past but emerges as the site of research and renegotiation of contradictions and even aporia Selected Writings Walter Benjamin, 1996

Contemporary Fictions of Attention Alice Bennett, 2018-08-09 With the supposed shortening of our attention spans what future is there for fiction in the age of the internet Contemporary Fictions of Attention rejects this discourse of distraction crisis which suggests that the future of reading is in peril and instead finds that contemporary writers construct fictions of attention that find some value in states or moments of inattention Through discussion of work by a diverse selection of writers including Joshua Cohen Ben Lerner Tom McCarthy Ali Smith Zadie Smith and David Foster Wallace this book identifies how fiction prompts readers to become peripherally aware of their own attention Contemporary Fictions of Attention locates a common interest in attention within 21st century fiction and connects this interest to a series of debates surrounding ethics temporality the everyday boredom work and self discipline in contemporary culture J.M.

Coetzee: Fictions of the Real Anthony Uhlmann, 2019-05-16 J M Coetzee has new things to say about this relation between the real and fictions of the real and while much has already been written about him these questions need to be more fully explored The contributions to this volume are drawn together by the idea of the hinge between the world whether understood in ontological bio ethical personal and interpersonal or socio political terms and fictional representations of it whether understood in epistemological ficto biographical formal or stylistic terms In this collection the question of understanding itself how we understand or imagine our place in the world is shown to be central to our conception of that world That is rather than beginning with forms developed in socio political understandings Coetzee s works ask us to consider what role fiction might play in relation to politics in relation to history in relation to ethics and our understanding of human agency and responsibility Coetzee has a profound interest in the methods through which we make sense of the contemporary world and our place in it and his approach appeals to readers of fiction critics and philosophers alike The central problems he deals with in his fiction are of the kind that confront people everywhere and so involve a translatability that allow the works to maintain relevance across cultures Added to this though his fiction makes us question the nature of understanding itself This book was originally published as a special issue of Textual Practice

Carnal Spirit Matthew W. Maguire, 2019-04-29 It is rare for a thinker of Charles P guy s considerable stature and influence to be so neglected in Anglophone scholarship The neglect may be in part because so much about P guy is contestable and paradoxical He strongly opposed the modern historicist drive to reduce writers to their times yet he was very much a product of philosophical currents swirling through French intellectual life at the turn of the twentieth century He was a passionate Dreyfusard who converted to Catholicism but was a consistent anticlerical He was a socialist and an anti Marxist and at once a poet journalist and philosopher P guy 1873 1914 rose from a modest childhood in provincial France to a position of remarkable prominence in European intellectual life Before his death in battle in World War I he founded his own journal in order to publish what he thought most honestly and urgently needed to be said about politics history philosophy literature art and religion His writing and life were animated by such questions as Is it possible to affirm universal human rights and individual freedom and find meaning in a national identity How should different philosophies and religions relate to one another What does it mean to be modern A voice like P guy s according to Matthew Maguire reveals the power of the individual to work creatively with the diverse possibilities of a given historical moment Carnal Spirit expertly delineates the historical origins of P guy s thinking its unique trajectory and its unusual position in his own time and shows the ways in which P guy anticipated the divisions that continue to trouble us
