A Cultural History of Serbia David A. Norris,2024-03-05 This volume focuses on Serbia s need to manage change while preserving community identities a narrative that avoids the common depiction of Serbian culture as a hostile struggle between modernizers supporting foreign models and traditionalists advocating forms of national cultural patrimony

Traditions only function if they are allowed to bend to the necessary modifications demanded by a community's changing historical circumstances. Tradition and change are two sides of the same coin which Serbia in its many different incarnations has experienced over the centuries protecting its national heritage while borrowing and adapting intellectual and other trends from Byzantine, Ottoman and Western sources. Outside influences have been imposed as a direct result of foreign rule or through more friendly channels of communication leading to a complex relationship between autochthonous and alien elements in Serbian society and culture. This book argues that the division between the national and international frameworks has often been a false dichotomy with outside features embedded in domestic symbolic capital and Serbian culture simultaneously determined on local, national, regional and global levels. David A. Norris's approach offers a new perspective to students, academics and general readers interested in the history of Serbia's participation in the broad networks of cultural exchange.

East European Accessions Index, 1956 Branding the Nation, the Place, the Product Ulrich Ermann, Klaus-Jürgen Hermanik, 2017-11-22 Branding is a profoundly geographical type of commodification process. Many things become commodities that are compared and valued on markets around the globe. Places such as cities or regions, countries and nations attempt to acquire visibility through branding. Geographical imaginations are evoked to brand goods and places as commodities in order to show or create connections and add value. Yet not all that is branded was originally intended and created for markets. This volume aims to broaden current understanding of branding through a series of contributions from geography, history, political studies, cultural and media studies offering insight into how ordinary places, objects and practices become commodities through branding. In so doing, the contributions also show how nation, place and product as targets of branding can be seen as intertwined. To discuss these forms of branding, book chapters refer to states, cities, holiday destinations, food, malls, movies, dances, post stamps and other items that serve as brands and/or are branded. The book will be of interest to students and scholars in geography, sociology, history, cultural studies and business studies who would like to gain an understanding of the intricate and surprising ways in which things, places and cultural practices become brands.

The Sociolinguistics of Place and Belonging Leonie Cornips, Vincent A. de Rooij, 2018-03-15 This volume shows the relevance of the concepts of place and belonging for understanding the dynamics of identification through language. It also opens up a new terrain for sociolinguistic and linguistic anthropological study, namely the margins. Rural as well as urbanized areas that are seen as marginal or peripheral to places that are overtly recognized as mixed and hybridized have received relatively little sociolinguistic attention. Yet people living in these supposedly less spectacular margins are not immune to the effects of globalization and rapid technological change. They too constantly form new ensembles from linguistic and cultural resources which they invest with novel, instable, often ambiguous meanings. This volume focusses on the purportedly unspectacular in order to achieve a full understanding of the relation between language, place and belonging. The contributors to this volume therefore focus on language practices analyzing them as dialectically related to political economic processes and language ideologies Digital Horror Xavier Aldana Reyes, Linnie Blake, 2015-10-13 In recent years the ways in which digital technologies have come to shape our experience of the world has been an immensely popular subject in the horror film genre Contemporary horror cinema reflects and exploits the anxieties of our age in its increasing use of hand held techniques and in its motifs of surveillance found footage fictional films that appear real comprising discovered video recordings left behind by victims protagonists and digital haunting when ghosts inhabit digital technologies This book offers an exploration of the digital horror film phenomenon across different national cultures and historic periods examining the sub genres of CCTV horror technological haunting snuff films found footage and torture porn Digital horror it demonstrates is a product of the post 9 11 neo liberal world view characterised by security paranoia constant surveillance and social alienation Digital horror screens its subjects via the transnational technologies of our age such as the camcorder and CCTV and records them in secret footage that may one day be found Contemporary European Cinema Betty Kaklamanidou, Ana Corbalán, 2018-12-07 This book offers a range of accounts of the state of European Cinema in a specific sociopolitical era that of the global economic crisis that began in 2008 and the more recent refugee and humanitarian crisis With the recession having become a popular theme of economic demographic and sociological research in recent years this volume examines representations of the crisis and its attendant market instability and mistrust of neoliberal political systems in film It thus sheds light on the mediation reimagination and reformulation of recent history in the depiction of personal cultural and political memories and raises new questions about crisis narratives in European film asking whether the theoretical notion of national cinema is less or more powerful during moments of sociopolitical turbulence and investigating the kinds of cultural representations and themes that characterize the narratives of European documentary and fictional films from both small and large national markets East European Accessions List Library of Congress.
