

These results on overall engagement in reading were similar to those on the Reading for Pleasure scale. The 2000 survey, however, included a measure of reading for pleasure that was not included in the 2004 survey. This measure was the Reading for Pleasure scale, which was used in the 2000 survey to measure reading for pleasure. The scale was used in the 2000 survey to measure reading for pleasure.

Abstract: The authors report on the development of a 10-item, 5-point Likert-type scale to assess the degree to which a person's self-concept is congruent with the person's self-image. The scale is referred to as the Self-Concept Image Congruence Scale (SCICS). The authors report on the development of the scale, the results of a pilot study, and the results of a larger study. The results of the larger study indicate that the SCICS is a reliable and valid measure of self-concept image congruence. The authors conclude that the SCICS is a useful tool for assessing self-concept image congruence.

Exercice 1 Soit f une fonction continue sur $[0, 1]$ et F une primitive de f sur $[0, 1]$. On suppose que $F(0) = 0$ et $F(1) = 1$. On pose $g(x) = F(x) - xF(1)$.
1. Calculer $g(0)$ et $g(1)$.
2. Montrer que g est continue sur $[0, 1]$ et que $g(0) = g(1) = 0$.
3. Montrer que g est dérivable sur $(0, 1)$ et que $g'(x) = f(x) - F(1)$.
4. Montrer que g admet un maximum et un minimum sur $[0, 1]$.
5. Montrer que g est convexe sur $[0, 1]$ et que $g(0) = g(1) = 0$.
6. Montrer que g est concave sur $[0, 1]$ et que $g(0) = g(1) = 0$.
7. Montrer que g est une fonction convexe-concave sur $[0, 1]$.
8. Montrer que g est une fonction convexe-concave sur $[0, 1]$.
9. Montrer que g est une fonction convexe-concave sur $[0, 1]$.
10. Montrer que g est une fonction convexe-concave sur $[0, 1]$.

Abstract: The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the physical fitness and health-related quality of life (HRQL) of sedentary middle-aged women. The study was a randomized controlled trial. The participants were randomly assigned to either a training group or a control group. The training group performed a 12-week program of aerobic and resistance training. The control group did not exercise. Physical fitness was measured by a 6-minute walk test, and HRQL was measured by the SF-36 questionnaire. The results showed that the training group had significantly higher physical fitness and HRQL than the control group at the end of the 12-week program. The findings suggest that a 12-week training program can improve physical fitness and HRQL in sedentary middle-aged women.

19. Effect of temperature on the rate of reaction: The rate of reaction increases with an increase in temperature. This is because the molecules have more kinetic energy and move faster, leading to more frequent collisions.
20. Effect of concentration on the rate of reaction: The rate of reaction increases with an increase in concentration. This is because there are more molecules present, leading to more frequent collisions.
21. Effect of surface area on the rate of reaction: The rate of reaction increases with an increase in surface area. This is because there are more molecules exposed to the reaction, leading to more frequent collisions.
22. Effect of a catalyst on the rate of reaction: A catalyst increases the rate of reaction by providing an alternative pathway with a lower activation energy. This means that the molecules have less energy required to undergo the reaction, leading to more frequent successful collisions.
23. Effect of pressure on the rate of reaction: The rate of reaction increases with an increase in pressure. This is because the molecules are forced closer together, leading to more frequent collisions.
24. Effect of light on the rate of reaction: The rate of reaction increases with an increase in light intensity. This is because light provides energy to the molecules, leading to more frequent successful collisions.
25. Effect of pH on the rate of reaction: The rate of reaction increases with an increase in pH. This is because the concentration of hydroxide ions increases, leading to more frequent successful collisions.
26. Effect of ionic strength on the rate of reaction: The rate of reaction increases with an increase in ionic strength. This is because the concentration of ions increases, leading to more frequent successful collisions.
27. Effect of solvent on the rate of reaction: The rate of reaction increases with an increase in solvent polarity. This is because the molecules are more easily solvated, leading to more frequent successful collisions.
28. Effect of temperature on the equilibrium constant: The equilibrium constant increases with an increase in temperature. This is because the reaction is endothermic, and the equilibrium shifts to the right to absorb the added heat.
29. Effect of concentration on the equilibrium constant: The equilibrium constant is independent of concentration. This is because the equilibrium constant is a ratio of the concentrations of the products to the reactants, and the concentrations of both increase proportionally.
30. Effect of pressure on the equilibrium constant: The equilibrium constant is independent of pressure. This is because the equilibrium constant is a ratio of the partial pressures of the products to the reactants, and the partial pressures of both increase proportionally.
31. Effect of a catalyst on the equilibrium constant: The equilibrium constant is independent of a catalyst. This is because a catalyst only affects the rate of reaction, not the position of equilibrium.
32. Effect of light on the equilibrium constant: The equilibrium constant is independent of light. This is because light only affects the rate of reaction, not the position of equilibrium.
33. Effect of pH on the equilibrium constant: The equilibrium constant is independent of pH. This is because the equilibrium constant is a ratio of the concentrations of the products to the reactants, and the concentrations of both increase proportionally.
34. Effect of ionic strength on the equilibrium constant: The equilibrium constant is independent of ionic strength. This is because the equilibrium constant is a ratio of the concentrations of the products to the reactants, and the concentrations of both increase proportionally.
35. Effect of solvent on the equilibrium constant: The equilibrium constant is independent of solvent. This is because the equilibrium constant is a ratio of the concentrations of the products to the reactants, and the concentrations of both increase proportionally.

Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 10-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and blood pressure (BP) of sedentary, middle-aged men. The subjects were divided into two groups: a control group and an exercise group. The exercise group performed a 10-week training program consisting of three sessions per week of aerobic exercise. The control group did not exercise. The HR and BP were measured at baseline and at the end of the 10-week training program. The results showed that the exercise group had a significant decrease in HR and BP compared to the control group. The HR decreased from 72 to 68 beats per minute, and the BP decreased from 120/80 to 110/70 mmHg. The control group showed no significant change in HR and BP. The results suggest that a 10-week training program can effectively reduce HR and BP in sedentary, middle-aged men.
