Violence and the Pornographic Imaginary Natalie J. Purcell, 2012 No cultural product reveals our collective fascination with sexual violence more candidly than popular heterosexual pornographies They showcase scenes of intense sexual aggression and cruelty that are gendered in repetitive patterned configurations configurations that are designed to arouse Purcell uses comparative critical analyses of popular pornographic movies to explore common fantasies of sexual violence and how they have changed over the past forty years Adopting a thick descriptive approach she moves beyond the mere observation and recording of instances of sexism and violence elucidating the changing aesthetics themes and conventions of depicted sexual aggression and showing how they have emerged in specific socio historical contexts Purcell also draws from a range of industry publications and fan forums to examine the fabric and function of misogyny and violence in viewers fantasies and everyday lives By documenting how popular pornographies have changed over time this study sheds new light the evolving desires and anxieties of the genre s growing U S audience

Queer Relajo David Tenorio,2025-08-28 In 2015 Mexico City declared itself a gay friendly city and followed up with a gay tourist guide and new laws permitting changes to gender markers on legal documents sanctioning same sex marriage and allowing joint adoption of children At the same time patterns of violence and discrimination against women trans and queer people have continued throughout the country In Queer Relajo David Tenorio argues that while Mexico City aims to bring visibility to queer sociality the benefits of legitimizing queer space remain unclear Combining readings of film digital media and performance with drag autoethnography Queer Relajo quite literally plays with how relajo or playfulness structures the spaces of queer nightlife in urban contexts by revealing how nighttime intimacy can minimize the paralyzing effects of violence and precarity in a neoliberal Mexico Considering the political implications of when a queer trans person is present at night Tenorio argues that queer feelings of play are not only essential to sexual liberation but also resist neoliberal commodification and heteronormative extraction

Pornography and Seriality S. Schaschek,2013-12-05 Repetition and seriality are inherent in pornography and is constitutive for its functionality as a film genre an industry and an area of gender studies By linking the styles of the genre to processes of serial production consumption and discussion Schaschek questions the dominant assumptions about pornography and the stability of the genre

The SAGE Handbook of Web History Niels Brügger, Ian Milligan, 2018-12-10 The Web has been with us now for almost 25 years An integral part of our social cultural and political lives new media is simply not that new anymore Despite the rapidly expanding archives of information at our disposal and the recent growth of interest in web history as a field of research the information available to us still far outstrips our understanding of how to interpret it The SAGE Handbook of Web History marks the first comprehensive review of this subject to date Its editors emphasise two main different forms of study the use of the web as an historical resource and the web as an object of study in its own right Bringing together all the existing knowledge of the field with an interdisciplinary focus and an international scope this is an incomparable resource for researchers and students alike Part One The Web and Historiography Part Two Theoretical and Methodological Reflections Part Three Technical and Structural Dimensions of Web History Part Four Platforms on the Web Part Five Web History and Users some Case Studies Part Six The Roads Ahead

Introduction to Video Search Engines David C. Gibbon, Zhu Liu, 2008-09-20 The evolution of technology has set the stage for the rapid growth of the video Web broadband Internet access is ubiquitous and streaming media protocols systems and encoding standards are mature In addition to Web video delivery users can easily contribute content captured on low cost camera phones and other consumer products The media and entertainment industry no longer views these developments as a threat to their established business practices but as an opportunity to provide services for more viewers in a wider range of consumption contexts The emergence of IPTV and mobile video services offers unprecedented access to an ever growing number of broadcast channels and provides the flexibility to deliver new more personalized video services Highly capable portable media players allow us to take this personalized content with us and to consume it even in places where the network does not reach Video search engines enable users to take advantage of these emerging video resources for a wide variety of applications including entertainment education and communications However the task of information extraction from video for retrieval applications is challenging providing opportunities for innovation This book aims to first describe the current state of video search engine technology and second to inform those with the requisite technical skills of the opportunities to contribute to the development of this field Today's Web search engines have greatly improved the accessibility and therefore the value of the Web

The Viral Video Phenomenon.
What makes videos go viral? Katja Grasberger, 2016-05-19 Seminar paper from the year 2014 in the subject Communications Multimedia Internet New Technologies grade 2.0 University of Bonn Anglistik course Digital Cultures language English abstract It will probably shock you that the original version of Gangnam Style by the Korean singer PSY standing for psycho is the most watched video on YouTube of all time counting over 800 million views since it has been uploaded in 2010 What it features is a song that will stick to your head and dance moves everyone will try to imitate it had what it took to go viral to spread around the world like a sickness This phenomena is not bound to one specific video genre in this case a music video but can be found in other genres as well for example in comics animal or amateur videos Everyone can become famous on the internet by the day after tomorrow if his or her video got what it takes to become viral But what does it take A lot of viral videos do not feature informative content that helps us in any way or is important for our lives nor does the content make any sense at all sometimes It even appears that the videos with no content are even more popular Although there are many viral videos of very different genres they all share to some degree certain qualities however can their success in the digital Internet age not be boiled down to a simple set of rules neither can it be predicted because these qualities are only features that can help as it has also a lot to do with luck and timing By looking at the videos Charlie bit my finger again The Sneezing Baby Panda and Dramatic Chipmunk David After Dentist we will see that although they are very different and feature different content they have qualities that are similar and that some have qualities that the others will not have demonstrating that there are no general or universal rules one can use and then have viral success YouTube's Algorithm Explained IntroBooks Team, Every moment over 400 hours of video content are uploaded to YouTube online The creators and audience of the content on YouTube are growing at a rapid pace In such circumstances standing out amidst the crowd can be quite exciting and challenging Fortunately YouTube's algorithm is moving towards developing a standard playing field for all creators of content The legitimacy of a YouTube channel the multiplicity of viewers watch time and subscribers was a primary ranking parameter for the algorithm until a year before Now it is not applicable anymore Modifications to the YouTube algorithm appear to move it away from this niche module YouTube's algorithm assists its consumers and subscribers with the most personalized content YouTube evaluates the actions of the user based on videos viewed average time spent likes dislikes comments clicks through rates interaction and explicit feedback across innumerable data points A video will appear on YouTube in five separate segments viz Search Home Trending Subscriptions and Suggested Videos

Localizing Content in Videos Via Textual and Visual Queries Yang Feng (Computer scientist), 2020 The applications of videos in our lives have been increasing dramatically in the past few years On one hand surveillance cameras that can continuously record videos are widely deployed all over the world On the other hand it is becoming more popular than ever for the average users to share and watch videos on social media anywhere at any time With more and more videos generated every day exploring so many videos becomes increasingly challenging Although it is possible to store the surveillance videos over a long period the information stored in surveillance videos cannot be fully exploited without automation For example surveillance videos are usually viewed manually It is extremely inefficient for a human viewer to search for something or somebody over a long time range in surveillance videos Similar issues arise when a user wants to find specific video content of interest in a very long video To explore the huge amount of videos it is therefore necessary to build computerized tools that help users find the video content they want in an efficient manner This thesis develops methods for efficiently localizing specifically given content in videos For surveillance videos we are particularly interested in finding the appearance of a certain person which is needed in many security applications For user generated videos or entertainment videos we design localizing methods with different types of queries which can be either video samples or natural sentences It is straightforward to use a natural sentence as a query to indicate what a user wants to find However some video content is difficult to describe clearly using a few sentences When a video sample is available the video sample can be used as the query which accurately conveys the intended semantics To facilitate large scale content based video search we also investigate universal embedding which shows good performance on multiple domains by a single model Pages xv xvi

Video Search and Mining Dan Schonfeld,Caifeng Shan,Dacheng Tao,Liang Wang,2012-06-28 As cameras become more pervasive in our daily life vast amounts of video data are generated The popularity of YouTube and similar websites such as Tudou and Youku provides strong evidence for the increasing role of video in society One of the main challenges confronting us in the era of information technology is to effectively rely on the huge and rapidly growing video data accumulating in large multimedia archives Innovative video processing and analysis techniques will play an increasingly important role in resolving the difficult task of video search and retrieval A wide range of video based applications have benefited from advances in video search and mining including multimedia information management human computer interaction security and surveillance copyright protection and personal entertainment to name a few This book provides an overview of emerging new approaches to video search and mining based on promising methods being developed in the computer vision and image analysis community Video search and mining is a rapidly evolving discipline whose aim is to capture interesting patterns in video data It has become one of the core areas in the data mining research community In comparison to other types of data mining e.g. text video mining is still in its infancy Many challenging research problems are facing video mining researchers
