Redding Ware, 2015-11-25 This new version of the book contains all the original text including the pages missing or unreadable from other reprints Most of the obvious errors from the original printing have also been cleaned up This edition is not a cut and paste job or a collection of inferior scans it has been lovingly retyped and checked paragraph by paragraph The aim of this new edition is to make the book a reference work in its own right Read in its original version the book can seem a little arcane with reference to events and people that have been forgotten by anyone but historians but would be well known to the educated man of the time The author assumed that his reader had a fairly classical education and a firm understanding of social and political events with Victorian history freshly in their minds His typical reader would be a well read gentleman with an understanding of Latin and French and an appreciation for the theatre and good literature Few modern readers will understand all of the references given in the text of the original book so this edition has been expanded to make reading it as enjoyable and as enlightening as possible the aim being to enable understanding without having to look up the people or places mentioned in other books To this end hundreds of Publisher s Notes have been inserted into and among the original text Each note gives a brief explanation of obscure words translates foreign terms gives a brief biography of people mentioned or otherwise provides further information for the modern reader It is hoped that these additions improve the usability of what is already a classic piece of work

Tracing Your Ancestors Through Letters & Personal Writings Ruth A. Symes, 2016-11-30 Could your ancestors write their own names or did they mark official documents with a cross Why did great grandfather write so cryptically on a postcard home during the First World War Why did great grandmother copy all the letters she wrote into letter books How unusual was it that great uncle sat down and wrote a poem or a memoir Researching Family History Through Ancestors Personal Writings looks at the kinds of mainly unpublished writing that could turn up amongst family papers from the Victorian period onwards a time during which writing became crucial for holding families together and managing their collective affairs With industrialization improved education and far more geographical mobility British people of all classes were writing for new purposes with new implements in new styles using new modes of expression and new methods of communication e g telegrams and postcards Our ancestors had an itch for scribbling from the most basic marks initials signatures and graffiti on objects as varied as trees rafters and window ledges through more emotionally charged kinds of writing such as letters and diaries to more creative works such as poetry and even fiction This book shows family historians how to get the most out of documents written by their ancestors and therefore how better to understand the people behind the words

Passing English of the Victorian Era J. Redding Ware, 2015-07-04 Excerpt from Passing English of the Victorian Era A Dictionary of Heterodox English Slang and Phrase Here is a numerically weak collection of instances of Passing English It may be hoped that there are errors on every page and also that no entry is quite too dull Thousands of words and phrases in existence in 1870 have drifted away or changed their forms or been absorbed while as many have been added or are being added Passing English ripples from countless sources forming a river of new language which has its tide and its ebb while its current brings down new ideas and carries away those that have dribbled out of fashion Not only is Passing English general it is local often very seasonably local Careless etymologists might hold that there are only four divisions of fugitive language in London west east north and south But the variations are countless Holborn knows little of Petty Italia behind Hatton Garden and both these ignore Clerkenwell which is equally foreign to Islington proper in the South Lambeth generally ignores the New Cut and both look upon Southwark as linguistically out of bounds while in Central London Clare Market disappearing with the nineteenth century had if it no longer has a distinct fashion in words from its great and partially surviving rival through the centuries the world of Seven Dials which is in St Giles St James s being practically in the next parish In the East the confusion of languages is a world of variants there must be half a dozen of Anglo Yiddish alone all however outgrown from the Hebrew stem Passing English belongs to all the classes from the
