The Woodland Southeast:

The Woodland Southeast David G. Anderson, Robert C. Mainfort, 2002-05-10 This collection presents for the first time a much needed synthesis of the major research themes and findings that characterize the Woodland Period in the southeastern United States The Woodland Period ca 1200 B C to A D 1000 has been the subject of a great deal of archaeological research over the past 25 years Researchers have learned that in this approximately 2000 year era the peoples of the Southeast experienced increasing sedentism population growth and organizational complexity At the beginning of the period people are assumed to have been living in small groups loosely bound by collective burial rituals But by the first millennium A D some parts of the region had densely packed civic ceremonial centers ruled by hereditary elites Maize was now the primary food crop Perhaps most importantly the ancient animal focused and hunting based religion and cosmology were being replaced by solar and warfare iconography consistent with societies dependent on agriculture and whose elites were increasingly in competition with one another This volume synthesizes the research on what happened during this era and how these changes came about while analyzing the period s archaeological record In gathering the latest research available on the Woodland Period the editors have included contributions from the full range of specialists working in the field highlighted major themes and directed readers to the proper primary sources Of interest to archaeologists and anthropologists both professional and amateur this will be a valuable reference work essential to understanding the Woodland Period in the Southeast Early and Middle Woodland Landscapes of the Southeast Alice P. Wright, Edward R. Henry, 2019-10-01 Fourteen in depth case studies incorporate empirical data with theoretical concepts such as ritual aggregation and place making highlighting the variability and common themes in the relationships between people landscapes and the built environment that characterize this period of North American native life in the Southeast Prehistoric Indians of the Southeast John A.

Walthall, 1990-01-30 This book deals with the prehistory of the region encompassed by the present state of Alabama and spans a period of some 11 000 years from 9000 B C and the earliest documented appearance of human beings in the area to A D 1750 when the early European settlements were well established Only within the last five decades have remains of these prehistoric peoples been scientifically investigated This volume is the product of intensive archaeological investigations in Alabama by scores of amateur and professional researchers It represents no end product but rather is an initial step in our ongoing study of Alabama s prehistoric past The extent of current industrial development and highway construction within Alabama and the damming of more and more rivers and streams underscore the necessity that an unprecedented effort be made to preserve the traces of prehistoric human beings that are destroyed every day by our own progress Native

Tribes of the Southeast Marlys Johnson, Duncan Clarke, 2004-01-04 An introduction to the history culture and people of the many Indian tribes that inhabited the region along the south Atlantic coast of the United States around the Gulf of Mexico and west to the Mississippi River Elements of Southeastern Indian Religion Hudson, 2023-09-20 Scholarly Steere, 2017-04-11 This book explores changes in houses and households in the southeastern United States from the Woodland to the Historic Indian Period ca 200 B C to A D 1800 Most studies of domestic architecture in the Southeast have been conducted at the single site scale As a result broader spatial and temporal patterns of variation in houses and households are not well understood To address this problem Steere constructed a database that catalogues the architectural features of 1 258 structures from 65 sites in the Southern Appalachian region and surrounding areas Significant trends identified by this comparative study include changes in the size and spacing of houses changes in architectural investment and a secular trend toward the increasing segmentation of houses Using a theoretical framework developed from household archaeology and anthropology Steere argues that certain aspects of this architectural variation can be explained by changes in household economics and household composition symbolic behavior status differentiation and settlement patterning More generally he proposes that large scale patterns of diachronic and synchronic variation in domestic architecture are best explained by changes in social organization Provided by publisher Ancient Foodways C. Margaret Scarry, Dale L.
