Vidler, 1987      The Theory of Architecture Paul-Alan Johnson, 1994-04-18 The Theory of Architecture Concepts Themes Practices Paul Alan Johnson Although it has long been thought that theory directs architectural practice no one has explained precisely how the connection between theory and practice is supposed to work This guide asserts that architectural theory does not direct practice but is itself a form of reflective practice Paul Alan Johnson cuts through the jargon and mystery of architectural theory to clarify how it relates to actual applications in the field He also reveals the connections between new and old ideas to enhance the reader s powers of critical evaluation Nearly 100 major concepts themes and practices of architecture as well as the rhetoric of architects and designers are presented in an easily accessible format Throughout Johnson attempts to reduce each architectural notion into its essential concept By doing so he makes theory accessible for everyday professional discussion Topics are arranged under ten headings identification definition power attitudes ethics order authority governance relationship and expression Areas covered under these headings include Utopic thought in theories of architecture Advocacy and citizen participation in architecture The basis of architectural quality and excellence The roles of the architect as artist poet scientist and technologist Ethical obligations of architecture Rationales for models and methods of design How authority is determined in architecture How architects structure their concepts Conventions of communication within the architectural profession Each section begins by showing the etymology of key terms of the topic discussed along with a summary history of the topic s use in architecture Discussions probe the conceptual and philosophical difficulties of different theories as well as their potential and limitations in past and present usage Among the provocative issues discussed in terms of their relationship to architecture are chaos theory feminism service to the community and the use of metaphor Johnson points out with stunning clarity the intentions as well as the contradictions and inconsistencies of all notions and concepts All architects and designers as well as students and teachers in these disciplines will gain many insights about architectural thought in this groundbreaking text      Greek Sculpture and the Problem of Description A. Building Types and Built Forms Philip Steadman, 2014-02-28 Building Types and Built Forms weaves two books together in alternating chapters one about the history of building types the other about their geometry The first book follows the histories of some common types of building houses hospitals schools offices and prisons Examples are drawn from the 19th and early 20th centuries in France America and Britain with the central focus on London They include the pavilion hospitals associated with the name of Florence Nightingale English Board and Modernist schools of the 1920s and 30s tall office buildings in Chicago and New York Jeremy Bentham's Panopticon penitentiary and radial prisons on the model of Cherry Hill and Pentonville The second book takes these histories and uses them to explore how the forms of these buildings are constrained by some of the basic functions of architecture to provide daylight and ventilation to the interior to provide access to all rooms or to allow occupants to see from one part of a building to another A new way of thinking about these worlds of geometrical possibility is introduced in which the forms of many buildings can be catalogued and laid out systematically in morphospaces or theoretical spaces of forms As building types change over time they come to occupy different positions within the worlds of possible forms Building Types and Built Forms is filled with over 400 illustrations many drawn especially for the book It offers a new theoretical approach combined with a series of historical accounts of building types some well known some less familiar It should appeal to academics practitioners historians and students of architecture

A Study of Ottoman Narratives on Architecture Selen Bahriye Morkoç, 2010 It is widely accepted that documents on Ottoman architects are rare and that little is known about the architectural practice in the Ottoman world A group of texts that have appeared between sixteenth and eighteenth centuries however form an exception to this general assumption While these texts have been cited and referred to in diverse previous studies on Ottoman architecture they have not been the topic of a major interpretative approach before A Study of Ottoman Narratives on Architecture Text Context and Hermeneutics is the first interpretive and comparative research monograph to feature these texts as its main theme This is the first translation of these works that contextualizes and interprets their importance in English The first text is a group of five documents that date back to the sixteenth century They comprise memoirs and building lists written in prose and verse which belonged to prominent Ottoman architect Sinan The second text was written under the influence of the first group of documents and is in a similar format It comprises a memoir dedicated to Sedefkar Mehmed A a who worked as the chief imperial architect in the seventeenth century and also provides information on architectural terms and makes comparisons between architecture and music The third text is different from the first two it is a monograph about the Selimiye Mosque written in prose in the eighteenth century by Dayezade Mustafa who was a complete outsider to architecture While the three texts have quite different historical and thematic contexts their point in common is their rendering of architecture through narratives From a hermeneutical perspective the book compares narratives of the texts with contemporary historiography on Ottoman architecture History and Ideas Series No
