Intersection of Work and Home Life Anne Martin-Matthews, Judith E. Phillips, 2010-10-18 There are not many books that address the boundaries of care of older people from a work life perspective This book authored by contributors from various countries looks at the boundaries of care by looking at private and public help professional and personal help and paid and unpaid caregivers It captures and conceptualizes the complexity of the intersection of work and home life as it relates to the provision of assistance and support to older relatives in a variety of care work contexts It explores these issues within a critical framework rather than from an assumed stress or burden perspective which dominates current texts on the topic Readers of this volume will gain a deeper understanding of issues of care provision amongst networks of careers and helpers and of the particular dynamics of care when it is episodic or framed by constraints of space and time as a result of geography In addition each chapter addresses issues of diversity with sensitivity to gender race and ethnicity This book will be of use to academics and graduate students in Gerontology Family Studies IO psychology Gender Studies and Sociology Age Matters Toni M. Calasanti, Kathleen F. Slevin, 2013-10-11 This volume of original chapters is designed to bring attention to a neglected area of feminist scholarship aging After several decades of feminist studies we are now well informed of the complex ways that gender shapes the lives of women and men Similarly we know more about how gendered power relations interface with race and ethnicity class and sexual orientation Serious theorizing of old age and age relations to gender represents the next frontier of feminist scholarship In this volume leading national and international feminist scholars of aging take first steps in this direction illuminating how age relations interact with other social inequalities particularly gender In doing so the authors challenge and transform feminist scholarship and many taken for granted concepts in gender studies

Politics and Old Age: Older Citizens and Political Processes in Britain John A. Vincent, Guy Patterson, Karen Wale, 2024-11-01 This title was first published in 2001 Older people have been characterized by two mutually contradictory stereotypes One the one hand they have been portrayed as a powerful lobby growing demographically and able to demand large redistributions of the nation's income in their direction On the other hand they have been typified as a marginalized group at high risk of poverty and exclusion and in a political context largely powerless This book examines using original research conducted by the Older People and Politics Project OPPOL within Exeter University's Sociology Department the reality of the impact of the increasing number of older people on the British political process The project had three main investigative concerns how effective are pressure groups and lobbyists for older people how is the power and influence of older people perceived by older people themselves and the general public and how are politicians responding to older people and their needs

Older Widows and the Life Course Pat Chambers, 2018-01-18 Later life widowhood is the expectation of most older wives since statistically women live longer than men and tend to marry men older than themselves Despite this there has been little coverage of the complexities of later life widowhood In this book Pat Chambers redresses this balance combining an analysis of the literature that does exist with qualitative research amongst older widows The research reveals a multi faceted experience of later life widowhood Older widows life stories challenge the dominant public narrative of misery and decline pointing instead to a complexity of experience which is rooted in personal biography and the female life course rather than in later life widowhood itself Chambers develops the concept of multiple narratives as a way of uncovering the complex but often hidden lives of older widows Without such an understanding she argues it is all too easy to subscribe to the powerfully dominant public narrative and thus to misinterpret older widows current needs and aspirations This is an engaging and original study of a key topic for gerontological research and will be of great interest to sociologists and social policy scholars who study ageing and the life course Family, Citizenship and Islam Nilufar Ahmed,2016-06-17 A longitudinal intersectional study of migrant women this book examines the lives of first generation Bangladeshi migrants to the UK considering the dynamic relationship between people and place Shedding new light on a migrant population about which little is known the author explores the experiences of women who left rural homes to live in London speaking no English with no experience of local customs and having to adjust to what would now be dramatically shrunken family sizes within which they would act as bearers of culture and tradition Based on research spanning a decade Family Citizenship and Islam draws on qualitative interviews with over 100 women and examines questions of identity belonging citizenship and Britishness religion ageing care and the family With attention to the fluidity of the experiences of the first generation of migration women the book offers an alternative to much ethnographic research which often offers only a snapshot of a particular minority or migrant group as fixed and preserved in time As such Family Citizenship and Islam will appeal to scholars of sociology geography and anthropology with interests in migration and diaspora citizenship gender religion family and the lifecourse and the ways in which these different aspects of a person s life come together to shape lived experience

Managing the ageing experience Denise Tanner,2010-09-01 Current social policy recognises that older people should be treated as experts in their own lives and be actively involved in their care This book explores what can be learned from older people s experiences of managing ageing Direct connections are made between the everyday experiences and perspectives of older people related research and theoretical perspectives This yields an engaging and informative analysis of how older people manage the ageing experience and what this means for policy and practice directed at promoting older people s wellbeing The book will be of value to undergraduate and postgraduate students in health and social care and practitioners in these fields
