

Lesson OutlineLESSON 2*Understanding Inheritance*A. What controls traits?

1. Inside each cell is a nucleus that contains threadlike structures called chromosomes.
2. Mendel's factors are parts of chromosomes, and each cell in the offspring contains chromosomes from both parents.
3. A gene is a section on a chromosome that has genetic information for one trait.
4. The different forms of a gene are called alleles.
5. Geneticists refer to how a trait appears, or is expressed, as the trait's phenotype.
6. The two alleles that control the phenotype of a trait are called the trait's genotype.
 - a. In genetics, uppercase letters represent dominant alleles, and lowercase letters represent recessive alleles.
 - b. When two alleles of a gene are the same, its genotype is homozygous.
 - c. If two alleles of a gene are different, its genotype is heterozygous.

B. Modeling Inheritance

1. In a situation based on chance, such as flipping a coin, the chance of getting a certain outcome can be represented by a(n) ratio, such as 20:40, or 1:2.
2. A Punnett square is a model that is used to predict possible genotypes and phenotypes of offspring.
 - a. To create a Punnett square, you need to know the genotype of both parents.
 - b. If you count large numbers of offspring from a particular cross, the overall ratio will be close to the ratio predicted by a Punnett square.
3. A pedigree is a diagram that shows phenotypes of genetically related family members. It also gives clues about their genotypes.
