The Way We Think Conceptual Blending And The Minds Hidden Complexities:

The Way We Think Gilles Fauconnier, Mark Turner, 2008-08-06 In its first two decades much of cognitive science focused on such mental functions as memory learning symbolic thought and language acquisition the functions in which the human mind most closely resembles a computer But humans are more than computers and the cutting edge research in cognitive science is increasingly focused on the more mysterious creative aspects of the mind The Way We Think is a landmark synthesis that exemplifies this new direction The theory of conceptual blending is already widely known in laboratories throughout the world this book is its definitive statement Gilles Fauconnier and Mark Turner argue that all learning and all thinking consist of blends of metaphors based on simple bodily experiences These blends are then themselves blended together into an increasingly rich structure that makes up our mental functioning in modern society A child's entire development consists of learning and navigating these blends The Way We Think shows how this blending operates how it is affected by and gives rise to language identity and concept of category and the rules by which we use blends to understand ideas that are new to us The result is a bold exciting and accessible new view of how the mind works

The Way We Think Gilles Fauconnier, Mark Turner, 2003      The Way We Think Gilles Fauconnier, 2009      Beyond Cognitive Metaphor Theory Monika Fludernik, 2012-03-29 In this innovative collection an international group of scholars come together to discuss literary metaphors and cognitive metaphor theory The volume's goals are three fold The first aim of the book is to present some recent approaches to metaphor which have no immediate connection with cognitive metaphor theory and have developed independently of it While the cognitive approach has become the leading paradigm in the English speaking world elsewhere in Europe rhetorical semantic and logical models have remained in use and continue to be elaborated These models have so far had little international exposure Their inclusion in this study is meant to provide a balance to the cognitive paradigm and to open up a possible discussion of the advantages and disadvantages of cognitive metaphor theory for the analysis of literary texts The second aim of the collection is to illustrate a range of successful applications of the new cognitive models to literary texts And the third aim of the study is to provide an assessment of cognitive metaphor theory from a literary point of view      Blending and the Study of Narrative Ralf Schneider, Marcus Hartner, 2012-10-30 The theory of Blending or Conceptual Integration proposed by Gilles Fauconnier and Marc Turner is one of most promising cognitive theories of meaning production It has been successfully applied to the analysis of poetic discourse and micro textual elements such as metaphor Prose narrative has so far received significantly less attention The present volume aims to remedy this situation Following an introductory discussion of the connections between narrative and the processes of blending the contributions demonstrate the range of applications of the theory to the study of narrative They cover issues such as time and space literary character and perspective genre story levels and fictional minds some chapters show how such phenomena as metalepsis counterfactual narration intermediality extended metaphors and suspense can be fruitfully studied from the vantage point of Conceptual Integration Working within a theoretical framework situated at the intersection of narratology and the cognitive sciences the book provides both fresh readings for individual literary and film narratives and new impulses for post classical narratology

Reading James with New Eyes Robert L. Webb, John S. Kloppenborg, 2007-03-15 The letters of James 1 and 2 Peter and Jude are among the most neglected letters of the New Testament Thus methodological advances in New Testament study tend to arise among the Gospels or Pauline letters But now these letters are beginning to receive increased attention in the scholarly community Reading James With New Eyes is the first of four volumes that incorporate new research in this area The essays collected here examine the impact of recent methodological developments in New Testament studies to the letter of James including for example rhetorical social scientific socio rhetorical ideological and hermeneutical methods as they contribute to understanding James and its social context Each essay has a similar three fold structure making them perfect for use by students a description of the methodological approach the application of the methodological approach to James and a conclusion identifying how the methodological approach contributes to a fresh understanding of the letter

Hebrews: A Social Identity Commentary Matthew J. Marohl, 2025-09-04 In this volume Matthew J Marohl introduces a culturally sensitive reading of Hebrews employing a social identity approach This allows readers to encounter a unique and powerful depiction of the faithful Jesus and a dynamic group of Christ followers called upon to maintain their faithfulness In the end this social identity approach reveals a work with two strands thoroughly intertwined Through the lens of conceptual blending theory Marohl examines the way in which the author combines the multiple identities of the addressees shedding light on the community dynamics of early Christ followers Marohl explores how the author describes ingroup boundaries how faithfulness is held up as the ultimate ingroup norm and how the promised rest is grounded in the language of the anticipated future Ultimately Marohl argues that Hebrews is a prime example of literature created out of crisis

Language and Imaginability Horst Ruthrof, 2014-03-25 Language and Imaginability pursues the hypothesis that natural language is fundamentally heterosemiotic combining as it does the symbolicity of word sounds with the iconicity of motivated signifieds conceived as socially organized mental events Viewed phenomenologically language is regarded as an ontically heteronomous construct performed by speakers within the boundaries of sufficient semiosis under the control of the speech community From both angles a commitment to some form of intersubjective mentalism appears unavoidable This the author argues forces us to conclude that imaginability plays a central role in the constitution of linguistic meanings as indirectly public phenomena The book argues this case by comparing two main avenues along which the theorization of language has been pursued in the Western tradition since Aristotle via resemblance relations and propositional accounts Locke Kant Peirce Husserl and cognitive linguistics are invoked on the side of resemblance and iconicity Frege Wittgenstein Davidson and other analytical philosophers up to intensional semantics are interpreted in terms of their relation to imaginability The book also addresses the ambivalence vis vis iconicity which we find in much of linguistics in brain research and evolutionary accounts as well as in pragmatics The study ends on a series of redefinitions of concepts at the heart of the theorization of language
