the question of how reading fiction develops our moral imagination and our capacities to think and feel with others The question is approached with a good dose of scepticism revising tensions between ethical aesthetical and pedagogical dimensions when certain books films and other cultural materials are recommended for children This volume examines how texts addressed to children are meant to assist socioemotional education and whether we put forward adultist assumptions around such conceptualisations of the emotional The book is organised into nine chapters with some of them focusing on difficult themes such as violence xenophobia death migration as well as gender and social exclusions and some others on more general relationships between emotions media and education The chapters combine a textual analysis of recommended cultural materials for children with insights from empirical research and ethnographic approaches to children s cultures A common thread throughout the book is the open question about the epistemic injustices in knowing children and childhood and how this may be overcome by shifting our research practices with posthumanist philosophies The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4 0 license

Alka Rai & Alka Singh, Term Book Children's Literature Aligned with SDGs to Promote Global Competencies Angela K.

Salmon,Aixa Pérez-Prado,Karin Morrison,Flavia Iuspa,2024-05-23 This book presents children s literature as a platform for learning and helping young readers develop the knowledge skills and attitudes needed to thrive in an interconnected and diverse global society It draws from various theoretical frameworks and research findings to implement critical literacy and culturally responsive teaching in the meaning making process The book focuses on global competencies and Sustainable Development Goals SDGs as intertwined concepts that work together to foster a more sustainable inclusive and equitable world. Developing global competencies empowers children and communities to actively participate in achieving the SDGs and addressing the pressing challenges of our time. The authors set high expectations on children as actors in transforming society. To facilitate this, the book offers an overview of child development theories as a foundation for designing developmentally appropriate practices to extend children's books toward deep thinking and understanding. The book includes sample lessons that use cutting edge research based pedagogies and tools such as visible thinking routines and other approaches. Those lessons also help readers identify the Habits of Mind HOM children can develop by listening to and discussing stories. The HOM are attributes of good problem finders and problem solvers needed when confronting complex issues. The book provides resources and sample lessons that implement different thinking strategies to engage children in questioning and analyzing what they read, making them more critical. This is how children deeply understand the world and their role in creating positive change. The book aims to cultivate change makers and global citizens through stories. It offers innovative approaches including online learning options in accessible and engaging ways to help children think globally and act locally. Through the power of children's literature, this book serves a larger agenda. To build a more thoughtful world for future generations. By caring for and learning from one another through suggested activities in this book, they will share the riches and resources from across the world. As children learn about the promise of actions toward the UN Sustainable Goals, they can imagine living in an interdependent learning community where all people continually searching for ways to trust each other, learn together, and grow toward greater intelligence.
