	INVESTING	ADVENTURE	ADVENTURE
	INVESTING The first step in investing is to determine your goals. Are you looking for a steady income stream, or are you looking for capital appreciation? Once you have determined your goals, you can begin to research different investment opportunities. Some of the most common investment vehicles are stocks, bonds, and mutual funds. Each of these options has its own risks and rewards, so it's important to do your homework before making any decisions.	ADVENTURE The second step in investing is to choose your investments. This is where you'll need to do some research. Look for companies with strong growth potential, or for bonds that offer a higher interest rate than the market average. Once you've found some potential investments, you'll need to decide how much to invest in each one. Diversification is key here – don't put all your eggs in one basket.	ADVENTURE The third step in investing is to monitor your investments. This is where you'll need to be patient. Investing is a long-term game, and you won't see results overnight. However, if you stick to your plan and keep your investments diversified, you should see a steady increase in your net worth over time.
