Johnson, 1982 J M Synge's plays have often been regarded as folk drama but this study considers them from a new literary perspective. It stresses the importance of the playwright's studies with two medievalists at the Sorbonne, Professors Henri d'Arbois de Jubainville and Louis Petit de Julleville, and makes for the first time a full examination of the various uses he made of medieval material. This is shown to contain grotesque motifs which accommodate both Synge's inclusive anti-theatrical vision and the Rabelaisian note in Irish peasant life as he perceived it. Toni O'Brien Johnson also shows that the use of Hiberno-English language structures reinforces the clash inherent in the grotesque in Synge's plays. This book shows the operation of the dramatist's dualist aesthetic through the co-presence in his work of what is repulsive and sublime, cruel and noble, violent and heroic, pitiless and beautiful. It also emphasises the prominent role played by bodily life and the degenerative aspects of old age, death and decay in Synge's work.

Wildstar Linda Ladd, 2014-04-01 A tracker and the mysterious woman he rescues embark on a perilous and passionate journey across the wild American frontier. Raised by the Cheyenne, the silver-haired beauty named Starfire knows nothing of her past life; her childhood as Elizabeth Pennington Richmond, the Cheyenne are her people and their ways are hers. So when the tall blond stranger steps out of the darkness and carries her off into the night, she fights him with all of her strength. Terrified, she has no idea that he has been sent to rescue her after all these years. In the darkness of night, Logan Cord has not gotten a good look at the young woman he has been sent to rescue. As he watches her sleeping in the slowly brightening light of the dawn, his breath catches at the sight of her beauty. Then her eyes open to reveal their startling violet fury and she turns on him with teeth bared. Not realizing the adventure ahead of them, Starfire and Logan embark on a journey of self-discovery, danger and love.
