White Girl Memoir Race Gender:

Modern and Postmodern Narratives of Race, Gender, and Identity Yoriko Ishida, 2010 The alleged affair between Thomas Jefferson the third president of the United States and his slave Sally Hemings was proven as a fact by DNA analysis in 1998 While many historians continue to deny the affair some have accepted the love affair between Jefferson and Hemings as fact and many historical omissions regarding the affair have been revised since the 1998 DNA results However the identity and the dignity of the Hemings family which were previously ignored in the official history have been restored not only by science but also by literature This book examines how African American writers have depicted the issues of race gender and identity for Sally Hemings and her descendants in modern and postmodern novels

Race, Gender and Politics in Michelle Obama's Autobiography "Becoming". An African American Women's Autobiography and First Lady Memoir Dianne Petrov, 2021-02-03 Bachelor Thesis from the year 2020 in the subject American Studies Literature University of Luxembourg language English abstract This BA dissertation is dedicated to the genre of autobiographies also known as life writing It focuses on Michelle Obama s 2018 memoir Becoming and discusses both the traditions of African American female autobiographies and the political memoir genre Becoming permits Obama to tell her own story to set the record straight It gives her the opportunity to rewrite her story and define her own identity for herself Writing as a former political figure the First Lady of the United States of America Obama does not refrain from incorporating her personal life as well as a personal message As a former First Lady Becoming can be understood as being part of the genre of the First Lady memoir As such Obama s autobiography can be defined as an intersection between African American women s autobiographies and the genre of First Lady memoir which have both been largely excluded from the literary canon Thus Obama constitutes a minority within a minority as she is not only a First Lady but she is the nation s only African American First Lady Moreover Obama constitutes a political observer and having written one of the most valuable autobiographies of the twenty first century she illustrates how despite the fact that African Americans have largely been excluded from American politics her autobiography demonstrates the progress America has made by electing its first African American president In this thesis it is my contention that Obama's autobiography Becoming constructs an amalgamation between African American women's life writing and the autobiographical sub genre of the First Lady memoir African American women autobiographers construct a self that has as Terrell puts it two central handicaps gender and race This statement from the 20th century captures the intersectionality of African American women's identities In her autobiography Becoming Michelle Obama shows her awareness of her intersectional identity as she writes I've been the only woman the only African American in all sorts of rooms Thus the tradition of African American women's autobiographies requires a suitable theoretical framework when examining their texts

Black Male Outsider Gary L. Lemons, 2008-01-10 This fascinating book traces the development of the author's consciousness as a black male pro feminist professor Gary L. Lemons explores the meaning of black male feminism by examining his experiences at the New York City college where he taught for more than a decade a small private liberal arts college where the majority of the students were white and female Through a series of classroom case studies he presents the transformative power of memoir writing as a strategic tool for enabling students to understand the critical relationship between the personal and the political From the insightful inclusion of his own personal narratives about his childhood experience of domestic violence to stories about being a student and teacher in majority white classrooms for most of his life Lemons takes the reader on a provocative journey about what it means to be black male and pro feminist

Black and White Sat Down Together Mary White Ovington, 1996 Mary White Ovington a white selement worker vividly describes the experiences that shaped her life Booklist including her pivotal role in the founding of the NAACP in the early 20th century

African American Women's Language Sonja L. Lanehart, 2020-06-12 African American Women's Language Discourse Education and Identity is a groundbreaking collection of research on African American Women's Language that is long overdue It brings together a range of research including variationist autoethnography phenomenological ethnographic and critical The authors come from a variety of disciplines e.g. Sociology African American Studies Africana Studies Linguistics Sociophonetics Sociolinguistics Anthropology Literacy Education English Ecological Literature Film Hip Hop Language Variation scientific paradigms e.g. critical race theory narrative interaction discursive variationist post structural and post positive perspectives and inquiry methods e.g. quantitative qualitative ethnographic and multimethod while addressing a variety of African American female populations e.g. elementary school middle school adults and activity settings e.g. classrooms family community church film Readers will get a good sense of the language discourse identity community and grammar of African American women The essays provide the most current research on African American Women's Language and expand a literature that has too often only focused on male populations at the expense of letting the sistas speak

White Girl Clara Silverstein, 2013-07-01 This poignant account recalls firsthand the upheaval surrounding court ordered busing in the early 1970s to achieve school integration Like many students at the vanguard of this great social experiment sixth grader Clara Silverstein was spit on tripped and shoved by her new schoolmates At other times she was shunned altogether In the conventional imagery of the civil rights era someone in Silverstein s situation would be black She was white however one of the few white students in her entire school My story is usually lost in the historical accounts of busing Silverstein writes At the predominantly black public schools she attended in Richmond Virginia Silverstein dealt daily with the unintended unforeseen consequences of busing as she also negotiated the typical passions and concerns of young adulthood all with little direction from her elders who seemed just as bewildered by the changes around them When Silverstein developed a crush on a black boy when yet another of her white schoolmates switched to a private school when she naively came to class wearing a jacket with a Confederate flag on it she was mostly on her own to contend with the fallout Silverstein s father had died when she was seven Another complication she was Jewish As her black schoolmates viewed her through the veil of race Silverstein gazed back through her private grief and awareness of religious difference Inspired by her parents ideals Silverstein remained in the public schools despite the emotional stakes I was lost she admits If I learned nothing else I did come to understand the scourge of racism Her achingly honest story woven with historical details confronts us with powerful questions about race and the use of our schools to engineer social change

Invisible Privilege Paula S. Rothenberg,2000 Reviewing the social upheaval of the seventies that challenged fundamental assumptions about gender roles race relations and even the nature of the family Rothenberg tells how she gained a new understanding of what it meant to be an educator and activist 'They Always Said I Would Marry a White Girl' Robert M. Moore,2007-03-29 Robert Moore whose African American identity today may be questioned by some because of his very light skin color grew up in an all white suburb of Philadelphia in the 1960s when the push to assimilate was blatant An examination of the life experiences of people sometimes felt to be at the perimeter serves to point out that the racial categories of White and Black in America remain strong and impenetrable The book spans nearly fifty years beginning in the author s youth to a contemporary period when he is a sociology teacher in a university classroom White Girl Peggy Culbertson,2015-12-08 *White Girl*A Memoir of Race and GenderThe world was a different place when Peggy Barrow Culbertson was growing up in a small Alabama town during the Great Depression of the 1930s Over time things changed Economics changed for the average family Race relations changed Women and their roles changed All those shifts in the world changed the little girl who grew up to be Peggy Culbertson a woman who also worked to change her corner of the world White Girl is the memoir of a woman who lived through changes few people could have imagined in that small town South during the 1930s White Women and the Dark Continent Marcia Klotz,1994 Class, Race, and Gender Consciousness in Gwendolyn Brooks's and Nikki Giovanni's Poems for Children Ekaterini Georgoudaki,1990 Gender, Race, and Ethnicity in the Workplace: Management, gender, and ethnicity in the United States Margaret Foegen Karsten,2006 Resource added for the Human Resources program 101161 Depression, Narratives, and the Self Jaime Elizabeth Hoffman,2005 The Politics of Interracial Sexuality in the Post-Civil Rights Era US Jared C.

Sexton,2002 Racial Thinking in the United States Paul R. Spickard,G. Reginald Daniel,2004 Racial Thinking in the United States is a comprehensive reassessment of the ideas that Americans have had about race This useful book draws on the skills and perspectives of nine scholars from the fields of history sociology theology American studies and ethnic studies In thirteen carefully crafted essays they tell the history of the American system of racial domination and of twentieth century challenges to that racial hierarchy from monoracial movements to the multiracial movement This collection begins with an introduction to how Americans have thought about race ethnicity and colonialism The first section of the book describes the founding of racial thinking in the United States along the racial binary of Black and White and compares that system to the quite different system that developed in Jamaica Section two describes anomalies in the racial binary such as the experiences of people of mixed race and of states such as Texas California and Hawaii where large groups of non Black and White racial groups co exist Part three analyzes five monoracial challenges to racial hierarchy the Civil Rights and Black Power movements the Chicana o movement the Asian Ame Race, Ethnicity, Gender, and Class Joseph F. Healey,1998-03-04 This text is an introduction to the sociology of minority dominant relations and was written for students who do not have extensive backgrounds in the social sciences I have tried to make the subject matter coherent to these students in part by applying a unified set of themes and concepts throughout the text The analysis is consistent and continuous even while examining multiple perspectives and a variety of viewpoints This subject matter is highly controversial and filled with drama tragedy and triumph I have tried to deal with the issues and tell the stories behind the issues in a way that makes the text both a pleasure to read and a demonstration of the power and importance of thinking sociologically The Jewish Woman Doris B. Gold,1996 The Georgetown Journal of Gender and the Law ,2007 Women's Studies Index, 1997 G. K. Hall and Co. Staff,1998
