foreign nationals dependent upon criteria relating to their integration As the practice of integration testing abroad becomes more widespread this book endeavours to clarify the legal implications which have hitherto remained poorly understood and studied The book begins by looking at the situation in the Netherlands which was the first EU Member State to introduce pre entry integration requirements It explores the historical and political origins of the Dutch Act on Integration Abroad and explains how in this national context integration has become a criterion for the selection of immigrants It then examines how integration requirements must be evaluated from the point of view of European and international law including human rights treaties EU migration directives and association agreements and the law on non discrimination The book identifies the legal standards set by these instruments with regard to integration testing abroad and draws conclusions as to the lawfulness of the Dutch approach

National Identity Richard R. Verdugo, Andrew Milne, 2016-06-01 National identity has been the subject of much controversy and debate Some have even suggested dropping the concept entirely One group Essentialists argue that national identity is fixed cultural based on birth and ancestry Another viewpoint is posited by Postmodernists who argue that national identity is malleable invented or imagined As alternatives some have suggested that national identity is a hybrid of both Essentialist and Postmodernist views And still others bypass this argument and suggest that national identity should be based on civic factors such as shared values and norms about citizenship While controversy and debate are healthy exercises in any science at some point order must be established if science is to proceed The present volume is based on the idea that national identity is an ideal type concept it does not completely capture reality but is used for analytic purposes In addition rather than focusing on these theoretical debates we pursue research with the idea that results from research will contribute to the field of national identity Three areas of national identity are discussed theoretical national and individual Two chapters focus on the major theories about national identity provide critiques and make suggestions about the topic In section two six chapters provide case studies of national identity on Scotland Ireland Russia Bosnia Herzegovina Germany and France In section three two case studies focus on immigrants and the challenges they face in forming their identities especially identifying with their host countries Belgium and the United Kingdom Several important conclusions may be gleaned from the contributions of the present volume To begin with while national identity is a slippery concept if the field wishes to move beyond debate about fundamentals it would be well advised to view the concept as an ideal type as suggested by the great German scholar Max Weber Secondly the case studies included in the present volume indicate that national identity is not only based on ethnicity and culture but on such external factors as governance regimes and their changes economic crises wars and other forms of aggressive activity and social demographic changes in a population These factors affect a population at the national level For immigrants at the individual level developing national identity is greatly affected by four interrelated factors 1 the degree to which they are accepted by members of the host society 2 immigrants language skills and physical appearances 3 how well they are able to balance their host national identity their ethnic identity and acceptance of their native country 4 and their generational status Generally at the national and individual levels context and circumstances matter in developing national identity Internet Research Annual Mia Consalvo, Kate O'Riordan, 2005 This peer reviewed collection represents some of the finest research presented at the 2004 Association of Internet Researchers Conference held in Sussex in 2004 Responding to the theme of ubiquity papers collected here represent a diverse range of inquiries into the development as well as perceived development of the Internet Offering new and important work about blogs online games users norms and access to name just a few topics this collection is a must read for Internet scholars intent on keeping pace with a rapidly expanding field Difference, Deviance, Threat? Ineke van der Valk, 2002 This book examines the political discourse on ethnic issues in the Netherlands and in France It was written to highlight the socially constructed character and social effects of this discourse and its different variants and expressions and thus offer perspectives for evolution and change The underlying conviction is that discourses and thus the beliefs and knowledge that they contain are historically specific phenomena that are constructed in communities in particular times and places In other words knowledge is not as objective as it sometimes pretends to be it is affected by gender class ethno cultural origin and the political affiliations of its producers This book has been written for an international audience of academics politicians journalists policymakers and members of social movements engaged in the development of truly diverse societies and interested in the role of politics in attaining such an objective Ineke van der Valk is researcher at the Department of Discourse Studies Faculty of Humanities University of Amsterdam Prior to researching she worked as a community organizer with the migrant movement the anti racist movement and the human rights movement She has published on the history of the migrant movement in the Netherlands human rights in Morocco and the discourse on ethnic minorities in the Netherlands and France She also works as a consultant and trainer in the field of diversity management Internet Research Annual ,2005 Perspektief ,1991 Why Discrimination? William Anthony, Julino Willem Anthony, 2015-12-07 He had two problems The first included a number of factors He was black he was creative he was intelligent and he was opinionated The second He wanted to do his job and advance at the GVB the Amsterdam municipal public transport company But it would and could not happen apparently Although he succeeded time and time again on the exams a permanent position in official service of the municipality of Amsterdam was formally thwarted Why you ask Because those in a position to give leadership on all levels at the GVB allowed that he was bullying and blackbiting by colleagues repeatedly Hate in short in according to them his most virulent way The management of the GVB made a strange choice They failed to show the personnel realize that what they were doing was wrong and demand they stop Instead the GVB management took the side of the offenders and declared the victim guilty I guess someone needed to show them too This finally turned out to be an almost ridiculous but no less sad embarrassment in which hundreds of man hours and money were spent by an Amsterdam public service on the question How can we discharge this stubborn immigrant Although he tells his story with humor and stoicism it is in fact a horrible history Why Discrimination describes the agony of an allochthon who just wanted to be kind and do his job Pierre Heijboer Confronting Discrimination Against Immigrants Carla Mooney,2017-12-15 The United States is a nation built by immigrants a blend of races colors and cultures Nevertheless immigrants often face discrimination at work at home and in the community Awareness and understanding of discrimination against immigrants has become an increasingly important issue across the country This insightful book examines this difficult issue looks at the laws pertaining to discrimination community efforts to end discrimination and gives readers ways to cope with discrimination in their lives Features include an in depth Myths and Facts section surrounding the topic and 10 Questions to Ask a Specialist Racism Without Racists: the Truth about Immigration Cristina G.,2017-11-02 I am an immigrant like you maybe and this is my truth about immigration A true story A story of many Too many Is it yours too You too are a prisoner of geography who lives in a world of racism without racists If the answer is Yes my heart goes out to you Discrimination prejudice exploitation and abuse are what I know best For the world I am a human of inferior birth but I know that is not true I don t want to take anything from you I just want what s mine by birthright I deserve to be considered human A human like you This true story of survival is a work in progress 17 years ago after living under a very oppressive communist regime I left my homeland for the first time I didn t want to abandon my parents and the only reality I knew I cried in despair thinking I will never go back I hated my destiny my siblings destinies None of us wanted to leave I know I am one of the lucky ones I didn t cross oceans and seas in shipwrecks I didn t walk for thousands of kilometres as some of the people I know I didn t live in barracks and ate from a trash bin My heart goes out to all these humans who went through unthinkable situations in the pursuit of happiness I have been treated in diverse ways during these years but seldom fairly For many too many I am a human of inferior birth not worthy of consideration I have no country now No identity I feel like I don t belong anywhere I feel like the world doesn t want me I haven t seen my eight remaining siblings all together in seventeen years I know that only a tragedy will reunite us But I don t want that tragedy I want to hug my siblings and have lunch with them And I want to visit my dearest s brother tomb and leave a flower on it to make him realise we haven t forgotten him He will live in our hearts forever The UK the country I love very much has voted Leave Should I pack my bags Should I give up my dream Nobody wants Romanians Is there anywhere I could go How am I going to provide for my octogenarian parents who survived the Second World War and raised ten children under an oppressive communist regime Is it really true that this world is not for people like me What should I do What can I do What would You do if you were me Would you dare to ask for your human and civil rights Would you cry and feel alone in the whole universe I hope you ll never have to find out
