We The Navigators The Ancient Art Of Landfinding In The Pacific Revised:

We, the Navigators David Lewis,1994-05-01 This new edition includes a discussion of theories about traditional methods of navigation developed during recent decades the story of the renaissance of star navigation throughout the Pacific and material about navigation systems in Indonesia Siberia and the Indian Ocean The Sea in World History Stephen K. Stein,2017-04-24 This two volume set documents the essential role of the sea and maritime activity across history from travel and food production to commerce and conquest In all eras water transport has served as the cheapest and most efficient means of moving cargo and people over any significant distance Only relatively recently have railroads and aircraft provided an alternative Most of the world s bulk goods continue to travel primarily by ship over water Even today 95 percent of the cargo that enters and leaves the United States does so by ship Similarly people around the world rely on the sea for food and in recent years the sea has become an important source of oil and other resources with the longterm effects of our continuing efforts to extract resources from the sea further highlighting environmental concerns that range from pollution to the exhaustion of fish stocks This chronologically organized two volume reference addresses the history of the sea beginning with ancient civilizations 4000 to 1000 BCE and ending with the modern era 1945 to the present day Each of the eight chapters is further broken down into sections that focus on specific nations or regions offering detailed descriptions of that area of the world and shorter entries on specific topics individuals and events The book spans maritime history covering major seafaring peoples and nations famous explorers travelers and commanders events battles and wars key technologies including famous ships important processes and ongoing events such as piracy and the slave trade and more Readers will benefit from dozens of primary source documents ranging from ancient Egyptian tales of seafaring to texts by renowned travelers like Marco Polo Zheng He and Ibn Battuta that provide firsthand accounts from the age of discovery as well as accounts of battle from World War I and II and more modern accounts of the sea We, the Navigators ,1972

Feminist Theologies Stephen Burns,Rebekah Pryor,2023-01-24 This assemblage of feminist theologies represents a series of vital entanglements Chapters are written from different cultures geographies and discourses and brought together around themes as specific and wide ranging as immigration detention hate crime discrimination rites of marriage and partnership and artistic and religious imagination The contributors variously echo celebrate question and contradict each other Despite the complexity and allied as they are with liberation decolonial ecological queer and other theologies these perspectives seek not only to confront and resist the problems oppressions and omissions of hegemonic theologies but also to realize better worlds The Pretender of Pitcairn Island Tillman W. Nechtman,2018-09-13 Pitcairn a tiny Pacific island that was refuge to the mutineers of HMAV Bounty and home to their descendants later became the stage on which one imposter played out his influential vision for British control over the nineteenth century Pacific Ocean Joshua W Hill arrived on Pitcairn in 1832 and began his fraudulent half decade rule that has until now been swept aside as an idiosyncratic moment in the larger saga of Fletcher Christian's mutiny against Captain Bligh and the mutineers' unlikely settlement of Pitcairn. Here Hill is shown instead as someone alert to the full scope and power of the British Empire, to the geopolitics of international imperial competition, to the ins and outs of naval command, the vicissitudes of court politics, and as such to Pitcairn's symbolic power for the British Empire more broadly.

International Law and Security in Indo-Pacific Joanna Siekiera, 2025-08-01 This book uses an interdisciplinary approach to discuss international law and conflict in the Indo-Pacific region, covering topics such as maritime security, climate change, and international relations. Detailing how international relations and particular state interests govern regional and global partnerships, the book provides suggestions for the future of the Indo-Pacific region. Exploring how conflict within the region has international repercussions, topics covered include the role of South East Asian countries and the role of statehood of small islands in Oceania. Detailing harmonization of laws and policies in the context of international security and maritime law, the book focuses on the impact of climate change and other topical issues such as cyber security and the protection of cultural identity. The book will be of interest to researchers in the field of international law, law of the sea, international relations, and security.

Black Islanders Douglas L. Oliver, 1991-09 Bougainville is seldom out of the news, yet how much do the press, the financial and mining world, and the politicians understand events on that island? The Pacific's most damaging independence movement seems to operate amid claims and counter-claims, internal rivalry, and a fog of deception. What do the BRA really want? More importantly, what do the islanders really want? It is more than fifty years since Emeritus Professor Douglas Oliver began his fieldwork among the people of southern Bougainville. His periodic returns from Harvard and Hawaii and his work elsewhere in the Pacific provide an unequalled base for explaining the continuities and complexity of Bougainvillean realities. His approach is that of the anthropologist examining today's events against a background of the people's diverse cultures and history, past enmity and mutual dependence. Oliver distinguishes present fact from present disinformation. As has not been done before, he shows how the unintended consequences of past good intentions by politicians, bureaucrats, missionaries, miners, and Big Men have contributed to the current impasse. Will the current division between Bougainvilleans be a sobering model or a seductive example for other parts of Papua New Guinea? Is overpopulation a long-term, a much graver problem than the bitter present struggle over the fruits of mineral development? Black Islanders sheds much light on a struggle which is crucial to the future of Papua New Guinea and perhaps other countries in the region. It is compulsory reading for politicians, newsmen, academics, members of the general public, all those who are concerned about the fate of Bougainville.

Arnold Leibowitz, 1996-02-16 The compact took on enormous symbolic importance throughout the world because of a provision in the Palau Constitution that Palau could not grant the U S nuclear rights without the approval of 75% of the people of Palau A number of groups fought against ratification of the compact by Palau They viewed Palau as the symbol of a nuclear free Pacific and the hope for an environmental preserve against great power imperialism and military intrusion in the Pacific

Uncommon Sense Anthony F. Aveni, 2006 In Uncommon Sense Aveni explores the common and conflicting ways that ancient and contemporary societies have searched for the literal truth about the natural world s mysteries from dinosaur bones to the Star of Bethlehem Aveni demonstrates that a society s approach to making sense of the natural world can serve as a working definition of its culture so strongly does it resonate with fundamental values and assumptions
