Divine Promise and Human Freedom in Contemporary Catholic Thought Kevin A. McMahon, 2015-07-01 It has always been understood that the central claim of Christianity that Jesus born of Mary is the Son of God is as much a declaration of the mystery of the human as it is the mystery of God just as the claim that in virtue of this identity he is the Christ who restores and more transforms the created order intensifies the mystery of the human even further When the age of revolution was followed by the age of science and the effort to shape the environment by technology was joined by an injunction to shape societies and economies and class conflicts became part of world conflicts the question about the human emerged as a crisis in the meaning of being human Yet the Catholic mind preoccupied like every other with the crisis has conducted its reflection within a tradition of Christian humanism insisting on the mystery and the tragedy and still the dignity of the human This collection of essays by thirteen Catholic scholars of philosophy theology and political thought investigates a range of topics from human sexuality and marriage to moral freedom and responsibility in a pluralistic society while demonstrating that the Gospel passed on in an ecclesial tradition entered into through a sacramental tradition remains the one radical source of confidence in the quest for human truth Understanding the Catechism Michael Pennock,1998

Catholic positions on contested moral issues are rejected by the majority in the secular West and are increasingly rejected by Catholics themselves. In this book David Deane argues that there are two main reasons for this. First the dominance of secular approaches deprives Catholic positions of their claim to coherence. Second the Catholic positions Deane shows have lost contact with the theology on which they were originally based. In response Deane undertakes a deconstruction of the dominant secular positions and seeks to restore Catholic positions to their theological roots. The result of this is a moral theology reconnected with the Trinitarian understanding of God and God's relationship with the world. Restored to its doctrinal foundations the moral theology that Deane offers is more coherent, more beautiful and more convincing than has been found in Catholic moral discourse for centuries. Catholic Moral Tradition, Revised David Bohr, 2006-02-22

Too many Catholics tend to believe that morality is primarily about keeping laws and avoiding sin. Catholic Moral Tradition, Revised shows how from the beginning the Christian moral life is first and foremost about living our lives according to the new law of grace. The gift of the Holy Spirit given us at baptism is a dynamic inner principle that transforms us into a new creation in Christ. This book presents an introductory summary of contemporary Catholic moral teaching based upon the renewal mandated by the Second Vatican Council. It also incorporates subsequent Church documents, especially the moral encyclicals of John Paul II, Veritatis Splendor and Evangelium Vitae, along with his three encyclicals on Catholic social doctrine and the Catechism of the Catholic Church. Natural Law: Five Views Zondervan, 2025-05-27

The story of natural law, the idea that God has written a law on the human heart so that ethical norms derive from human nature, in twentieth-century Protestant ethics is one of rejection and resurgence. For half a century luminaries like Karl Barth, Carl F. H. Henry, and Cornelius Van Til cast a shadow over natural law moral reflection because of its putative link to natural theology, autonomous reason, associations with Catholic theology, and ethical witness devoid of special revelation. However, over the past twenty years Protestant theologians have renewed their interest in the subject, often animated by debates on Christian involvement in the public arena and on matters of life, death, and gender and sexuality. Much of this engagement has happened within Reformed circles and has largely been conducted without reference to Roman Catholic construals of the natural law. Conversely, Catholic developments in natural law thinking have paid little attention to the surge of interest on the Protestant side. As a result, Protestant and Catholic natural law proponents, and even those skeptical of the natural law, are not in conversation with one another. The lack of dialog between the various schools of natural law has left a historic tradition within Christian moral thought underdeveloped in contemporary Protestant theology. By bringing together a variety of perspectives in much needed conversation, this book helps readers to understand the various construals of natural law within the broader strands of Christian and classical traditions and clarifies its unique importance for Christian moral witness in a secular culture. The contributors address the following questions: What is natural law? Can moral norms be derived from immanent creaturely ends? If so, how specific or action guiding can those norms be? How extensive might these moral norms be? How does natural law endure despite Christian insistence on the noetic epistemological effects of sin What is the relationship between Christian reflection on natural law and the broader classical tradition s understanding of natural law How do Catholic and Protestant construals of natural law differ What is the relationship between faith and reason What s the relationship between human nature and natural law Does natural law mean secular moral reasons Or is natural law merely religious belief disguised as public reason How does natural law relate to public reason Does the affirmation of a natural law lead to a natural theology Or are these distinct What is the relationship between natural law and the laws of nature Five views Classical Natural Law Michael Pakaluk New Natural Law Melissa Moschella Reformed Natural Law W Bradford Littlejohn Lutheran Natural Law Joel D Bierman Anti Natural Law Peter J Leithart
