Next Generation Information Technologies and Systems Yishai Feldman, Donald Kraft, Tsvi Kuflik, 2009-09-30 Information technology is a rapidly changing field in which researchers and developers must continuously set their vision on the next generation of technologies and the systems that they enable. The Next Generation Information Technologies and Systems (NGITS) series of conferences provides a forum for presenting and discussing the latest advances in information technology. NGITS conferences are international events held in Israel; previous conferences have taken place in 1993, 1995, 1997, 1999, 2002, and 2006. In addition to 14 reviewed papers, the conference featured two keynote lectures and an invited talk by notable experts. The selected papers may be classified roughly in five broad areas: Middleware and Integration, Modeling Healthcare Biomedical Service and Information Management Applications. NGITS 2009 also included a demonstration session and an industrial track focusing on how to make software development more efficient by cutting expenses with technology and infrastructures. This event is the culmination of efforts by many talented and dedicated individuals.

Driving Quality in Informatics: Fulfilling the Promise Alex Mu-Hsing Kuo, Omid Shabestari, 2015-02-15. Although the data in healthcare comes from and relates to patients, it has generally been the clinician and not the patient who has been seen as the end user of health information or health information technology. This seems set to change though, as the evolution of new online tools and mobile applications has led to the growth of a grass roots effort from patients to change their role and involvement in their own health management. This book presents papers from the Information Technology and Communications in Health conference (ITCH) 2015 held in Victoria, Canada, in February 2015. The theme of this conference is patient centered care, and not only were contributors asked to consider the role and voice of the patient, but patients themselves were invited to contribute papers describing their experiences in healthcare and their use of their own data. The papers included here reflect not only informatics innovations in the field, but also explore how to involve patients in the design process, implementation, and long term use of health information systems, and will be of interest to researchers, health practitioners, and patients alike.
