Year 6 2013 Grammar Grade Boundaries

Rosa M. Manchón

Year 6 2013 Grammar Grade Boundaries:

(Pushing) the Limits of Neuroplasticity Induced by Adult Language Acquisition Jurriaan Witteman, Leticia Pablos-Robles, Maria Carmen Parafita Couto, Niels Schiller, Yiya Chen, Patrick Wong, 2018-11-08 Most adults attempt to learn a second or even third language at some point in their life. Since language exposure is one of the most intense cognitive training regimes one can encounter, it is not surprising that previous research has shown that multilingualism can induce profound change in the brain or neuroplasticity. What remains unclear is the scope of such adult language learning induced neuroplasticity. In other words, much is yet to be investigated about the factors that limit or promote adult language learning induced neuroplasticity. On the one hand, the present research topic discusses research that sheds light on neural mechanisms that limit adult language learning induced neuroplasticity, such as neural mechanisms of first language interference in the acquisition of a second language and reduced opportunity for language induced neuroplasticity due to aging. On the other hand, the Research Topic discusses factors that could enhance non-native language learning and underlying neuroplastic mechanisms, such as the duration of the training regime, language aptitude, and meta-linguistic awareness. Therefore, the goal of the present Research Topic is to examine both the limits of neuroplasticity in adult language learning and the ways to push beyond those limits. Understanding of such limits and frontiers to push beyond the limits is not only theoretically fundamental but could also have practical implications for enhancing language training programmes.

Theorizing and Analyzing Agency in Second Language Learning Ping Deters, Xuesong (Andy) Gao, Elizabeth R. Miller, Gergana Vitanova, 2014-12-05 This book showcases how language learner agency can be understood and researched from varying perspectives by providing for the first time a collection of diverse approaches in one volume. The volume is organised into three main sections: the first section offers an introduction to varying theoretical approaches to agency; the second section presents analyses of agency in a variety of empirical studies; and the third section focuses on the pedagogical implications of data-based studies of agency. The volume includes the work of researchers working in languages including English, ESL and EFL, Greek, Spanish, Swedish, Italian, Hindi, Marathi, Gujarati, and Truku, an indigenous language in Taiwan, and with both child and adult language learners. This collection will serve as a key reference for researchers of language learning and teaching, sociolinguistics, and language and identity.

Writing and Language Learning Rosa M. Manchón, 2020-11-15 The current volume aspires to add to previous research on the connection between writing and language learning from a dual perspective. It seeks to reflect current progress in the domain as well as to foster future developments in theory and research. The theoretical postulations contained in Part I identify and expand in novel ways the diverse lenses through which the varied multi-faceted dimensions of the connection between writing and language learning can be explored. The methodological reflections put forward in Part III signal theoretically grounded and pedagogically relevant paths along which future empirical work can grow. The empirical studies reported in Part II illuminate the myriad of individual educational and task related variables that may mediate short term and long term language learning outcomes These studies examine diverse forms of writing performed in varied environments including pen and paper and digital writing conditions writing individually and or collaboratively and instructional settings academic settings including secondary school and college level institutions as well as out of school contexts Reading and Writing Skills: Cognitive, Emotional, Creative, and Digital Approaches
